RESIDENT ASSOCIATE PROGRAM

January 30, 1990

President George Bush
The White House
1600 Pennsylvania Ave.N.W.
Washington, D.C.20500

Dear Mr. President:

The Resident Associate Program of the Smithsonian Institution is presenting a very special 25th anniversary symposium. Its title is "Infinite Illusions: The World of Electronically Created Imagery." We are proud to present more than fifty speakers representing the highest levels of computer graphics technology and development. This event is being sponsored by computer hardware and software companies across the United States. The programs will take place Saturday, September 8, 1990 through Sunday, September 16, 1990 at Smithsonian Institution museums on the national Mall. A gala fundraising opening reception will be held Friday evening, September 7, 1990 to benefit a Smithsonian computer graphics educational laboratory that will serve as a model for educational institutions and museums throughout the country.

After the Washington, D.C. event, the "Infinite Illusions" exhibition will travel to science and technology museums across the United States providing the public with a unique opportunity to experience directly this exciting and rapidly developing technology. During the year this show travels, more than 500,000 school children are expected to attend the exhibition. Each child will actually have a chance to use the sophisticated computer graphic systems. The exhibit is planned to show the youth of America the exciting possibilities for rewarding careers that arise out of science and math studies.

The United States has always been a leader in computer graphic technology and it continues to hold a commanding lead despite major efforts by foreign industry to penetrate this thirty billion dollar a year industry. Your presence at this event would be in keeping with your emphasis on education while underscoring our country's firm resolve to continue as the major force in this important industry.

Would you and Mrs. Bush please join us for the formal gala opening of this symposium September 7 at 7:30 PM in the S. Dillon Ripley Center? Films, art exhibits and the very latest technical equipment will be in operation for you to see. This is the most ambitious undertaking the Resident Associate Program has presented in its 25 year history. We have gathered the visionary leaders who are at the forefront of this technology to be with us for the celebration and we would be honored to share this occasion with you and Mrs. Bush. We would be very pleased and honored if you could say a few words to open this major event so important to the country's educational and technological future.

On behalf of the Resident Associate Program, and myself personally, I want to thank you for considering attending this reception. Your presence would be appreciated and would illustrate the importance of this educational program for our country.

Most Sincerely,

It is an exciting meeting on the people issues that President Bush has consistently emphasized as crucial to our future competitiveness. We expect a turnout of more than six hundred top executives from around the country. It is also an opportunity to showcase the administration's initiatives in this crucial area.

Dear Mr. President:

At a recent White House press conference, you said that your most important mission is revitalizing the hope that America is strong. We agree with that, and believe that for a long time our greatest strength has been in our well-trained and creative work force. Now our job is to ready that work force for changing work place demands so that America can retain its strength and vitality.

We need your help to underscore the importance of improving our work force. To that end, the nation's manufacturers would be honored to have you be our keynote luncheon speaker on March 15 at our Washington conference "Strategies for Success: Tomorrow's Manufacturing Work Force."

This occasion offers an excellent forum for a major address on your Work Force 2000 theme, maintaining a quality work force. Leaders from the corporate community representing small and large manufacturers, academia and the press will be there to learn the latest developments in human resource management, as described in the enclosed brochure. Distinguished business executives will discuss successful initiatives in training and retraining, employee empowerment, flexible benefits and hours, health care cost control and new compensation techniques.

We have the commitment of our members to work force excellence, but the road is a tough one. Decisions made today will affect the jobs and communities of the 21st century. As the world is changing so rapidly around us, business continues to invest every day in the economic strength of America as the leader of the free world. Please join with us in making the call for a strong, educated work force and help us be part of your mission.

Respectfully yours,

Enclosure

Dear Andy:

Per our telephone conversation earlier today, I would like to respectfully request a meeting with President Bush for CANF Chairman Jorge Mas. Mr. Mas would like very much to discuss Cuba and U.S. policy for Cuba with the President in light of the recent dramatic transitions to democracy underway in Eastern Europe. New opportunities are available today to help promote a democratic future for Cuba and to help secure important national security interests for the United States. Consequently, the Cuban American National Foundation has shifted its priorities and developed new initiatives about which Mr. Mas would like to inform the President.

It is widely known that the President enjoys meeting with people outside government to explore important foreign policy issues. It is in that spirit that we make this request. Needless to say, such a meeting would also afford us the opportunity to express the gratitude of the Cuban American community to the President for his consistent support for a free and democratic Cuba.

I am grateful for your attention to this request and look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Jackie

I am writing to let you know that I have sent the President the attached request to meet with 10 Polish Solidarity legislators and staff who will be attending a "Legislative Training Conference" organized by Congressional Quarterly and the German Marshall Fund of the United States. The conference will be held February 12-23, 1990, in Washington, D.C.

I enjoyed working with you last September at CQ's conference for the National Security Agency and I appreciated receiving your personal note after the conference. I thought you might be interested in reviewing the attached request that I have sent to the President.

For your information, I have sent the meeting request and background information to Mr. Joseph Hagin, who I understand is in charge of the President's appointments and scheduling. I would gladly welcome any suggestions you may have on how I should pursue this request. In addition, please feel free to contact me at 887-6354 if you have any questions about the conference.

Dear Mr. President:

I am writing to request you to meet with 10 Polish Solidarity legislators and staff members who will be attending a "Legislative Training Conference" organized by Congressional Quarterly and the German Marshall Fund of the United States. This historic conference will be held February 12 - 23, 1990, in Washington, D.C.

The conference is designed to introduce the Solidarity legislators and staff to the workings of Congress and give them some insights into how they can legislate effectively in Poland's National Assembly. The conference originated from contacts between Henryk Wujek, member of the Sejm and Secretary of the Citizen's Committee of Solidarity, and the German Marshall Fund. Mr. Wujek noted the lack of legislative experience of the 260 Solidarity members of the National Assembly and asked the German Marshall Fund to fund a legislative training conference for selected Solidarity legislators and staff. Congressional Quarterly is providing this important conference through a grant issued by the German Marshall Fund.

Mr. President, the Solidarity legislators and staff would be honored to have the opportunity to meet with you during their two-week stay in Washington. As you stated so eloquently in your State of the Union address, "the idea called America is alive in the minds of people everywhere." Indeed, the idea called America is burning in the minds of these Solidarity legislators and staff as they travel to Washington, D.C., to learn about our governing process and how they can create legislative procedures that will make democracy endure in the new Polish parliament.

Specifically, I would like to request you to meet with the Solidarity legislators at the White House to discuss their experiences in the new Polish parliament and answer questions they may have about our governing process. If you can accept this request, I would work with your deputy assistant, Mr. Joseph Hagin, to schedule the group's visit at a time convenient for you.

The President

I hope your schedule will allow you to meet with the Solidarity legislators and staff. The opportunity to meet with you would be the highlight of their two-week visit and an enormous motivation as they work to bring democracy and economic reforms to Poland.

Thank you very much for considering this request.

Dear Andy:

Thanks again for the fine role that you played in the final ceremony on Private Sector Initiatives. Now we have another request.

We would be very grateful if you would send a letter to the President's Appointments Director supporting our invitation for the President to speak at the March 6 ASAE Spring Convention. Our invitation has been extended and is being considered. It has been endorsed by Bobbie Kilberg, Gregg Petersmeyer, and David Demerest. We would be most grateful for your endorsement as well.

We have invited the President to speak at 11:00 a.m. to the Convention that is taking place at the Washington Convention Center. We expect to have attendance of about 4,000 including the most important association executives in America.

ASAE has a membership of some 19,000 individuals who manage the associations in this country. Their outreach is more than 100 million Americans representing an amazing network. We plan to provide a copy of the President's address to each of our members so that it can reach those 100 million Americans through publication in their newsletters and magazines.

This would represent a marvelous time for the President to discuss the nation's agenda and to request the support of those association executives and the thousands of Americans whom they represent. It also would provide an excellent opportunity for him to report on progress on his Points of Light Initiative to a group that can do more than any other to make this activity come alive.

We would be very very grateful, Andy, if you would support this invitation.

Cordially,

Dear Andy:

We recently invited President Bush to be the featured speaker at our annual meeting to be held here in Washington in May. A copy of our invitation is enclosed.

Since over 700 chief executive officers and/or senior executives, who represent most of the Nation's employers, will be in attendance, we think it would be an excellent opportunity for the President to reach out to the business community on health as well as other domestic policy issues. As noted, since the President's budget will have been on the Hill for a while and the Pepper Commission studying health issues will have announced their recommendations on long-term care and access to care, the meeting would give the President an the open forum to comment on both. We have our own proposals on both issues which rely heavily on the private sector that are very much in sync with several options under discussion within the Administration.

Whatever assistance you could provide would be greatly appreciated. Thanks so very much and take care.

Larkin Smith FOUNDATION

January 4, 1990

President George Bush
The White House
1600 Pennsylvania Avenue NW
Washington, DC 20500

Dear Mr. President:

On behalf of the Larkin Smith Foundation, I ask for your support for a special cause - the mission of my husband, the late Congressman Larkin Smith of Mississippi.

The Larkin Smith Foundation is a non-profit, charitable organization created to continue and expand Larkin's commitment to fighting drugs and making our schools and neighborhoods better, safer places in which to live.

Because Larkin enjoyed a career of accomplishment in law enforcement prior to his election to the 101st Congress, President Reagan appointed him to the White House Conference for a Drug-Free America. As Sheriff of Harrison County, Larkin was widely praised for his innovative anti-drug strategies. He coordinated the drug war efforts of federal, state and local authorities across five states through the Blue Lightning Operations Center.

As a Member of Congress, Larkin was an outspoken critic of the way Congress hindered your attempts to establish and implement a national drug-control policy. In a series of speeches titled "Through the Drug War Maze in 28 Days," he urged his colleagues to consolidate the committee jurisdiction over drug policy and the work of the "Drug Czar".

Our Foundation believes the best way to combat drugs is to include all sectors of the community in the struggle. One such program, already in place in Natchez, Mississippi, is TIP (Turn In Pushers). TIP encourages citizens to anonymously report the names of drug dealers. This campaign alone has resulted in more than 500 arrests.

Our primary goal is to take successful programs like this and help spread them to as many communities as our resources allow. Yet, "TIP" is but one of the projects the Larkin Smith Foundation has set out to accomplish in our first year. We have enclosed a copy of our mission statement and goals for 1990.

You have been firm in voicing your opposition to drugs. Despite the drug cartel's bounty, you still plan to attend the Drug Conference in Columbia this Spring. You dealt swiftly and harshly with a drug-running dictator in Panama.

You have done your part, Mr. President. Now, we wish to show the depth of our commitment, just as Larkin did.

We ask you to serve as the "Honorary Chairman" of the Larkin Smith Foundation. Our "national kickoff" fundraising reception will be in Washington on January 31. The event, "We're Roundin' Up A Posse," will be held at the Capitol Hill Club from 5:00 p.m. until 7:30 p.m. We would be honored by your presence.

Mr. President, thank you for considering our request to be listed as our "Honorary Chairman." I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Sheila Smith

Larkin Smith FOUNDATION

THE MISSION

Law Enforcement: To assist in the development of better trained law enforcement personnel; and to promote the investigation and apprehension of illegal drug dealers.

Innovation: To promote innovation in public service wherever it can be applied to boost efficiency, quality of service or save tax dollars.

Service: To serve the community by supporting charitable causes; to promote public awareness of social problems, especially drug and alcohol abuse; to assist in the prevention of such problems; and to support efforts to help the victims.

PROJECTS FOR 1990

LARKIN'S WAR ON DRUGS: The people elected Larkin to lead their fight in Congress. Larkin's War on Drugs continues that fight, at home, in our communities. The cornerstone is TIP (Turn In Pushers), a campaign to encourage citizens to turn in the names of drug dealers. Originated in Natchez, Mississippi, TIP works by mobilizing community spirit. There are no monetary rewards. People turn in pushers because it's the right thing to do. And informants give the TIPs anonymously, by phone or mail, to the TIP program, not to the police.

LARKIN SMITH SCHOLARSHIP: As a lawman, Larkin believed good training and education were essential. This fund would provide annual scholarships to college students studying for a law enforcement career.

LARKIN SMITH MEMORIAL AWARD: The first award was given to the outstanding graduate of the fall 1989 class of the Harrison County Law Enforcement Academy. The goal is to establish awards in other areas, such as citizenship and public service.

You asked me to advise you when George Paraskevaides, O.B.E., will be visiting the U.S. He just called from Nicosia and plans to be in New York and Washington from February 1 through February 16. George is truly a great and wonderful person who has done many philanthropic things in this country and is highly respected throughout the Middle East, where his company, J & P, have built enormous projects including all the support facilities for the Saudis and other good friends.

George is well known to Alec Courtelis and has consistently supported the President, whom he admires immensely, at various meetings around the world. I can truthfully say that during the entire campaign he would call me almost daily for reports on the progress of the race. Needless to say, George is also highly regarded by His Eminence, the Archbishop.

I would be very grateful if during his visit we could arrange for a five minute visit with a photograph that would be the highlight of this wonderful man's life.

Dear Mr. President and Mrs. Bush:

It is my pleasure and honor to invite you both to accept honorary doctorates from the University of South Carolina and to address our graduates during Commencement Exercises on Wednesday, December 20, 1989 on our campus in Columbia, South Carolina.

We hope that you, Mr. President, and the First Lady will join with us in inaugurating on that occasion the Decade of the Family. We are dedicating the resources of the University over the next ten years to finding solutions to the problems of the American family.

Our efforts for the Decade of the Family have already begun. We are creating the Family Place, a center located on a 200-acre site near Columbia for a unique interdisciplinary program focusing on pediatrics, geriatrics, and the numerous other issues affecting the family. We are also establishing a million-dollar chair in Family Studies to insure that this issue gets the constant, first-class academic attention we feel it must.

It will be a special pleasure and privilege, Mr. President, to welcome you and the First Lady back to the University of South Carolina. The event will be even more remarkable and unique with your joint presence on the same podium, receiving honorary degrees and a warm and enthusiastic reception from our assembly of some 15,000 invited guests. It will be an opportunity for our community to pay tribute to the devoted service of the President and the First Lady as you come to the conclusion of your first year in office.

Your extremely prompt provision of emergency federal support for the State of South Carolina following the hurricane disaster is only the most recent evidence of the long-standing affection you have shown toward our State, and the wonderful personal ties in which that has resulted. On behalf of Governor Campbell and our University family, I do hope, Mr. President and Mrs. Bush, that you will both accept our invitation.

RE: The National Academy Foundation

Dear Andy:

I am working with an extraordinarily distinguished group of American business, education and labor leaders to establish a new foundation dedicated to improving school-to-work opportunities for America's high school students.

To my knowledge, this is the first institutional joining of these groups in a common partnership to prepare young people, not inclined to go to college, for professional jobs in areas of business and industry where rapid growth is projected.

Indeed, we see an important public policy problem here. For two decades the level of skill for "entry-level" professional work has been rising with the growth of our service industries. And in many cases there has been a decline in the skill levels of high school graduates. This is causing two very real problems:

- Labor markets are becoming less elastic because of rising entry-level skill requirements; and
- Good jobs go begging.

This phenomena has been in full swing for many years, but has been masked by the increasing entry of women into the labor force. Now with the number of women near saturation, the presence and growth of this "skill gap" -- the difference between work force skills and work force opportunities -- is being more severely felt by business.

The National Academy Foundation means to do something about this problem not just study it. NAF will be expanding a successful model created by American Express Company called the "Academy of Finance" that since 1982 has trained over 2,000 students in 17 cities for work in the financial industry. The "finance model" will now be extended to create academies of learning with local public school systems for manufacturing sciences, marketing, travel and tourism, insurance, public service, communications, and other fields.

We will be launching the foundation with some major press events on November 13, the first day of National Education Week, here in Washington at the historic Sumner School. Most of our distinguished board will be present for the launch. They include:

- Vernon Jordan, (NAF Chairman);
- James Robinson III, Chairman, American Express (principal underwriter of the effort);
- Bill Brock (NAF President and former Secretary of Labor);
- Ann McLaughlin (former Secretary of Labor);
- Albert Shanker (American Federation of Teachers)
- Dr. Ernest Boyer (President, The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching); and
- Other major business leaders such as David Kearns, Chairman of Xerox, Jeffrey Lane, President of Shearson Lehman Hutton, and Sanford Weill, Chairman of Primerica.

In our announcement, we will declare our efforts to be a response to the President's challenge to improve education in America.

The Board would very much like to thank the President for his leadership, brief the President on our efforts, and solicit the thoughts of your senior policy people for possible points of attachment. We are not looking for money. We are looking for ideas that will ensure this program is successful.

Our press events will conclude at about 11:00 a.m. on November 13, with the full complement of Board members in town. With your indulgence I'll call to see if there might be an opportunity to meet with the President on November 13, or at some later date.

Continued best wishes,

Sincerely,

Thomas F. Gibson
Vice President

Academy Programs Pay Dividends

Everyone benefits:

- Students gain essential skills for entry and success in the job market
- Schools receive up-to-date resources
- Educators have access to continuing top-level industry cooperation
- Industry has a steady supply of well-qualified, motivated potential employees.

- Paid Internships

During the summer after their junior year, all Academy students work at a paid internship. Jobs are similar to entry-level positions they would qualify for upon graduation.

- Local Business Advisory Board

Each Academy program works with local business leaders to establish an Advisory Board that helps recommend program directions suitable for area employment opportunities, assists in fund raising, and provides guidance in locating and planning internships.

- Field Trips, Guest Speakers

One of the most valuable aspects of Academy programs is the personal contact students have with business leaders. Students often attend business meetings, and have frequent opportunities to work with these leaders or discuss career issues.

- College Experience

Local Academy managers work with an area college to provide at least one on-campus college-level course for students. The students thus experience higher education as well as advanced learning in a specific subject, such as Principles of Finance.

The self-confidence that this provides has encouraged many Academy participants to plan ahead for college.

- Scholarships and Other Incentives

Several committees provide assistance for students who want to continue studying beyond high school.

Strategies for Success

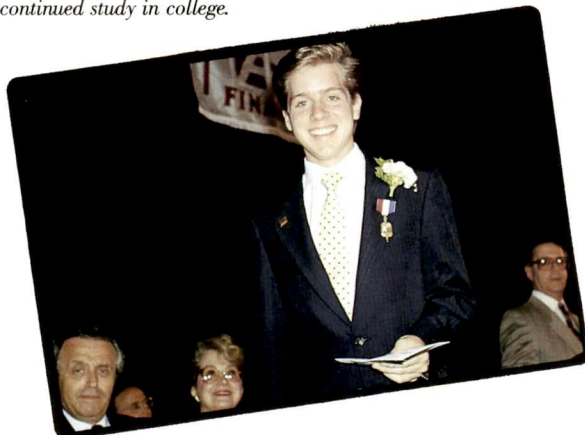

National Academy programs have several fundamental components which add up to success:

- Specialized Courses
Each course is designed and reviewed by educators and industry leaders with extensive experience in the field. Most Academy students take about two of these enriched courses per semester, in addition to the regular high school required courses. For example, in one term Academy of Finance students may take courses in Banking and Credit and the World of Finance. Academy of Travel and Tourism students may take Destination Geography or Writing/Research for Travel and Tourism.

"The Academy made me realize I had something important to contribute. . . and now I know I can make it to the top, if I just keep taking it one step at a time. Besides working is fun, and I like the money!"

As the Director of the West Springfield High School Madrigal Singers, this letter conveys our request to perform at the White House during the holiday season of 1989. This group of 27 high school students performs acappella and has a repertoire of classical, traditional, sacred, and secular music. The long dresses for the girls and walking tuxedos for the boys provide the group with a formal look in performance.

The Madrigals have represented the State of Virginia at World Expo '88 in Brisbane, Australia and in Paris for the French Bicentennial celebration during July 1989. In addition, the group's first international tour was to Rome to sing for Pope John Paul II in December 1985. The students can withstand the rigors of international travel, do demonstrate the best of moral and ethical behavior, and always represent the values of our nation and the best of our youth to everyone in each performance. Funds for these major trips are raised from car washes, donut sales, telephone book deliveries, yard sales and other activities. State or local funding is not provided, only honorary support. These 'special' trips are only part of the group's annual 150 performance schedule, which includes concerts for nursing homes, hospitals, churches, civic organizations, and schools.

It would be our high honor and privilege to perform at the White House during this forthcoming holiday season. Tapes and photographs are available upon request. Questions may be referred to me at (703) 451-6403, ext. 238. Thank you for your consideration of our request.

Most sincerely,

Linda Ann Rezek

Dear Tom,

Thanks for your recent packet of information in which you suggest the President attend a dinner on December 7th in Connecticut as part of a Soviet-American Conference on Alcoholism.

I agree that this does sound like a good follow-up to the "Malta Summit," however, the President is already scheduled at an out-of-town event that day. Nevertheless, I will forward your suggestion to the Office of Presidential Scheduling for their review.

With best wishes for a Happy Thanksgiving.

Dear John:

It was a pleasure talking to you and I am thrilled that President Bush will join us on December 5th for a special Reception and Dinner as we honor House Republican Leader Bob Michel and the House Republican Leadership, as well as kick off our newest major donor program - The President's Forum.

As we discussed, we would like the President to do a Photo-Op during the private reception with the President's Forum members. This will be an exclusive reception with no more than 150 attendees. I can assure you that we will not abuse this opportunity and that it will not exceed 20 minutes.

I would also like to request that the President stay at least thirty-five minutes during the Tribute to Bob Michel and the House Republican Leadership dinner.

We anticipate about 600-700 attendees at the dinner, including Congressional and Cabinet Members.

John, I appreciate your help in the matter and hope to hear from you soon.

Sincerely,

WASHINGTON, D.C. 20301

WHEN: December 11, 1989 (After 3:30 P.M.) or December 12, 1989 (In the morning)

FOR: THE DEFENSE ADVISORY COMMITTEE ON WOMEN IN THE SERVICES
(DACOWITS) EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE
Nine (9) Committee Members
Three or Four Staff Members

The members of DACOWITS are appointed by the Secretary of Defense from nominations from the President, Congressmen, the various Services, third year DACOWITS members and others.

The nominations for the entire 1989 Class came from the President.

Most of the members of DACOWITS are Republicans with a few exceptions. The Committee by charter is non-partisan.

Four of the nine members of the Executive Committee will have their terms expire on December 30, 1989 and will be off of DACOWITS.

In 1987 or 1988, the DACOWITS had a photo opportunity with President Ronald Reagan.

Enclosed is a Department of Defense Directive on the subject of DACOWITS with an explanation of its functions and organization. The Directive was issued in 1987, but the information contained therein is current.

Also enclosed is a brochure listing the members of DACOWITS. The members of the classes of 1984, 1985 and 1986 are no longer on the Committee with the exception of Connie Lee, who is Chairman.

I have also included a list of those members who would be available for the photo opportunity.

Thank you very much for consideration of this request.

Dear Mr. Card,

I contacted your mother while I was working in Boston as an executive recruiter. I was seeking the help of someone who knew the real estate market in the Holbrook-Wymouth area; your mother gave a candidate of mine some timely advice and help. Knowing how pleasant and helpful she was, I am hoping that the strain of family courtesy will be extended to this letter by you.

Presently I am teaching a course in U.S. Diplomatic History to a group of seniors at Brookfield Academy (information on the school is enclosed) in Brookfield, Wisconsin. It is essentially an AP History course from the viewpoint of how the United States has conducted its diplomacy. There is an emphasis on current events and foreign relations. The students prepare position papers and conduct debates on different episodes of our history. We have planned an entire marking period to examine American-Soviet relations, focusing on the history of summits between the two countries. In lieu of a debate, plans have been made to conduct a mock summit between Presidents Bush and Gorbachev, Secretary of State Baker and Foreign Minister Shevardnadze.

We would like to extend an invitation to President Bush to visit our school, to see a presentation by the students on the history of summits, and to view a portion of the mock summit (and how the students think the summit will proceed). It would also give President Bush a forum to discuss his upcoming summit in remarks to the student body. The timing for this could be anytime from late January, through February, up to March 17th (when the school begins its spring break); and then April 9th to mid-May.

I realize that the prospect of President Bush being able to accept our invitation is quite low given the demands on his schedule. But I am also mindful of his spontaneity, his commitment to education, and the prospect that such a setting could be politically attractive. I hope that you find this invitation to be an interesting consideration. Given your close association with Mr. Sununu, I felt this letter would be the most expeditious manner for the matter to be considered.

Let me thank you in advance for your kind consideration of this request. If you or your staff have any questions, please call me at the school.

Sincerely,

James E. Pattison

Dear Mr. Card:

Under separate cover you will be receiving an invitation to our Fifth Annual Awards Luncheon. You may recall that an earlier written request had been sent to President Bush's office to speak at the December 15th Luncheon in Washington. In your August 9 response to my letter you said that you would encourage the President's acceptance of this invitation and to keep in contact as the date drew near.

With the public mood presently about impaired driving and alcoholism and the corporate concern to bring the drunk driving issue to millions in the marketplace this would be an appropriate time to bring the weight of the Administration to the continuing national campaign. Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Week is December 10-16, 1989, in advance of the holiday challenge.

I realize there is never a slack time in your busy schedule but I would appreciate any assistance that you may provide to recommend President Bush's appearance at the Awards Luncheon. Among the special honorees are James S. Kemper, Jr. and Thomas Gibbons, CEO of Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone. I would be happy to discuss this matter with you or your staff at your convenience. Thank you for your interest and I am grateful to our good friend David Works for suggesting that I contact you.

A year and a half ago I met with President Reagan and Mrs. Reagan, and just recently met with President Reagan in California. Their concern about these issues was expressed but it is President Bush who can really make a difference now. His leadership is important at this time. I know the President and his wife care deeply about this issue and my meeting with Mrs. Bush a year ago was very positive. However, at this moment in time much more needs to be done. I certainly hope they will want to help.

I am planning to be in Washington in early November and hope that their schedules can accommodate a meeting this time.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Dear Andy:

Enclosed for your information is a copy of a letter I sent today to the President of the United States and Mrs. Bush inviting them to receive honorary degrees at our December 20th Commencement Exercises and to help us inaugurate the Decade of the Family.

We will need all the assistance you can offer us in helping to secure his visit, and we appreciate all you have done already. With your help, December 20th will be an especially wonderful occasion for South Carolina, the University, and, indeed, the First Family.

Dear Mr. President and Mrs. Bush:

It is my pleasure and honor to invite you both to accept honorary doctorates from the University of South Carolina and to address our graduates during Commencement Exercises on Wednesday, December 20, 1989 on our campus in Columbia, South Carolina.

We hope that you, Mr. President, and the First Lady will join with us in inaugurating on that occasion the Decade of the Family. We are dedicating the resources of the University over the next ten years to finding solutions to the problems of the American family.

Our efforts for the Decade of the Family have already begun. We are creating the Family Place, a center located on a 200-acre site near Columbia for a unique interdisciplinary program focusing on pediatrics, geriatrics, and the numerous other issues affecting the family. We are also establishing a million-dollar chair in Family Studies to insure that this issue gets the constant, first-class academic attention we feel it must.

It will be a special pleasure and privilege, Mr. President, to welcome you and the First Lady back to the University of South Carolina. The event will be even more remarkable and unique with your joint presence on the same podium, receiving honorary degrees and a warm and enthusiastic reception from our assembly of some 15,000 invited guests. It will be an opportunity for our community to pay tribute to the devoted service of the President and the First Lady as you come to the conclusion of your first year in office.

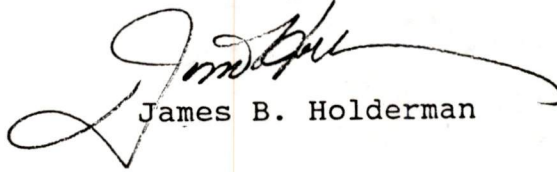

Your extremely prompt provision of emergency federal support for the State of South Carolina following the hurricane disaster is only the most recent evidence of the long-standing affection you have shown toward our State, and the wonderful personal ties in which that has resulted. Your visit will be an especially poignant opportunity to reflect on the trials we have come through, to celebrate the achievements of your first year in office, and above all to look ahead to what we can achieve by focusing in the next decade on the needs of the family, a cause to which you both have dedicated so much service and leadership.

On behalf of Governor Campbell and our University family, I do hope, Mr. President and Mrs. Bush, that you will both accept our invitation.

Sincerely,

James B. Holderman

My dear Mr. President:

Clare Boothe Luce was a good friend of The Heritage Foundation as trustee, benefactor, advisor and participant in our programs. We have mourned her loss for the two years since she passed away.

Before she died, Clare and I had a number of conversations about the necessity for participants in the foreign policy arena to think about basics -- "strategic concerns, not the tactical issues that overwhelm everyone in Washington," she once told me. Her concern was at least partly due to her long-time membership on the President's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board.

We have given a great deal of thought and consideration to Clare's wishes, and have decided that they can best be carried out by an annual lecture, to be designated the Clare Boothe Luce Lecture on Foreign Policy. She was particularly keen that the dimension of foreign intelligence should be considered in these lectures. The lecture will be delivered annually in Washington before a selected audience of the foreign policy community and key Heritage supporters. The stipend for the lecture will be substantial and will be accompanied by an appropriately engraved plaque.

We anticipate that the lecture will receive significant media attention and, of course, it will be published as a Heritage lecture shortly after it is delivered.

You would honor us, and Clare, Mr. President, if you would deliver the inaugural Clare Boothe Luce Lecture, preferably on December 5 or 6 at a luncheon or dinner at an appropriate location in Washington, D.C.

I will contact your staff to determine your availability for this invitation.

Dear Mr. Holmes:

Thank you for your letter of April 27, 1989, regarding your invitation to the President to participate in the dedication of Nantucket's new school and community facility in October or November, 1989.

As Joe Hagin has indicated to you, it is indeed difficult to commit time on the President's schedule this far in advance. However, I will keep your invitation in mind for discussion at a scheduling session as the time draws nearer.

Again, the President appreciates your desire to have him be a part of your celebration on this important occasion.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Card:

I would like to have your assistance in the matter of arranging for the President to visit Nantucket some time in October or November of this year. The occasion would be the dedication of our new high school, middle school and community facility.

I have had correspondence with Mr. Joseph Hagin, Deputy Assistant to the President and he has been quite helpful. However, the matter of a scheduled appearance this far in advance is an uncertain thing and there is a reluctance to make a commitment. This is understandable.

Our School Building Committee would accept any sort of tentative schedule if something of that nature can be worked out. This new education/community resource is a tremendous advance for Nantucket and we would like to share our good fortune with the remainder of Massachusetts and the country.

An appearance by the President in Massachusetts in the October-November time frame, to dedicate a new educational facility, with the Massachusetts Commissioner of Education, would appear to be advantageous to all.

The facilities for the reception of the President, in Nantucket, are exemplary. The airport is equipped to handle all trans-Atlantic traffic and the flying time from Washington is about fifty minutes.

Your consideration of our request and your advice in this matter would be greatly appreciated.

Very truly yours,

Dear Andy:

Enclosed is the copy of the letter that we discussed which the Chief Justice has tentatively agreed to send to the President. I appreciate your willingness to "run the traps" on this issue prior to the time we formalize the request. I know the Chief Justice would like to bring the issue to a conclusion by sending a letter no later than the close of business Monday, September 18. If it would be at all possible for you to be in touch with me before that time with any guidance you may care to offer, it would be most appreciated. I can be reached at 633-6040.

Dear Mr. President:

I write to ask you to receive in the White House and address briefly those attending the Fifth International Appellate Judges Conference in Washington, D.C., September 11 through 14, 1990. We would prefer that this occasion take place the afternoon of Friday, September 14.

The Fifth International Appellate Judges Conference (the first such conference to be hosted by the United States) is sponsored by the Judicial Conference of the United States, which I chair. Invited to attend are the chief justices of all our states and territories, the chief judicial officer of each foreign country with which we maintain diplomatic relations, and the members of the Judicial Conference of the United States (representing the Federal courts). We anticipate about 200 judges, some of whom will be accompanied by their spouses.

The International Appellate Judges Conference provides a forum for discussing problems of judicial administration and of the relationship of the judiciary to the governments and to the peoples of the nations involved. This particular conference will also be in celebration of the Bicentennial of our Constitution and our Federal courts, and will address comparative constitutions.

Respectfully,
