Dear Mr. ⁰²Day:

Andy has sent your very thoughtful letter along to me to make certain the appropriate folks are aware of your interest and concern.

You are, of course, 100% correct in describing the President's successful and unparalleled efforts on behalf of the disabled community.

You may be sure the senior staff now in place for the campaign will welcome your comments, and will be in touch with you in the near future.

Best regards,

SUBJ: ATTACHED LETTER FROM OSBORNE

Mr. Day is an old friend of the President's and has been active in his support for some years. As you can see from the attached, he is really interested in helping out with the disabled community. I'd very much appreciate it if someone could give him a call. Thanks for your interest.

Mr. Andrew Card

The White House

Dear Andy:

This letter follows up on our recent conversation in your office about the importance of a presence on the re-election team for the disabled population vote.

As you know, a poll by Lou Harris showed at the time George Bush was elected President that about 2 million disabled voters had switched from the Democratic side to vote Republican. This was largely because disabled persons 1) believed that George Bush sincerely recognized their aspirations for mainstreaming and independence and 2) that he properly conveyed this message in the election process. Of especial importance was his mention of disability in his acceptance speech.

This switch in votes was achieved in part through an informal group of persons who worked with George Bush's staff to make sure the right message went out to the disability community. Included in this group were Evan Kemp, Justin Dart, Sandy Parrino, Judy Brotman, myself and from time to time others. On the White House side three persons played key roles: Boyden Gray; David Bates, who was always ready to give support and advise; and Bob Grady, who played a major role in placing the right message in candidate Bush's speeches. We worked without formal support and recognition from the top brass on the election committee that the disabled were an important target group in the election. In fact, the Committee gave the disabled community a small fraction of the attention that the Black community received even though the potential Republican vote of disabled Americans is considerably greater (there are 43 million disabled Americans, not to mention their families who are greatly influenced by the policies toward disabled people) than that of Blacks.

During the last three years the President's popularity with disabled Americans has held up because, among many other actions, he vigorously placed many disabled persons in his administration and he enthusiastically supported the ADA.

Although the President now has an edge with the disabled community, the democratic candidates can be counted on to woo this community. Senator Harkins, for example, views himself as a champion of disabled people. It will be necessary when democratic candidates challenge the President on disability matters that their plans are known and that the correct response goes out quickly. This means the Bush re-election committee must take seriously the importance of the disability community as a voting group.

All the above leads to a request that the disability vote has formal recognition on the re-election team and support from top leaders. The purpose of course is to make sure that the President holds and increases the loyalty of this very large block of voters.

As someone who has ready access to disability leaders supporting the President (Evan, Justin, etc.), I offer to coordinate a disability structure for the campaign.

Sincerely,

Osborne A. Day

Just wanted you to know that I appreciate your taking the time to send along Dan Cross' resume.

As you'll note from the copy of my letter to Dan, we haven't geared up (except for the senior types the President selected this week) and probably won't until after the President announces his candidacy.

Certainly, we'll keep Dan's resume on file for future review.

Dear Daniel:

Thank you for your interest in helping out on the re-election campaign. Meredith Dale sent a note to Andy Card on your behalf, and Andy in turn gave your resume to me.

We certainly appreciate your obvious enthusiasm to be involved in the re-election effort, but, quite frankly, planning for 1992 will not begin until the President says that it's a "go". If and when he declares he is a candidate for re-election, a committee will be formed and the campaign process can start. Until that time everything is on hold.

Once again, thank you for your interest. Your support of the President and this administration is very much appreciated.

Dear Andy:

I am very enthusiastic about Janis M. Berry, who is a candidate for one of the above judicial vacancies.

I serve with Janis on the Governor's Judicial Nominating Council. She is a highly respected member of that committee. I base this on my observations of her and her relationship with the other committee members, during numerous meetings since last spring.

I do not need to tell you that Janis has been a loyal and positive force within the Massachusetts Republican Party for a long time. The combination of her political background and professional qualifications is not easily found in Massachusetts.
I know you understand that and hope that you will recommend her candidacy.

I do know some of the other candidates, who have excellent credentials. Janis stands out, even in this strong field.

Very sincerely,

I am writing to you as President of the Franklin County
Womens Republican Club in Greenfield, Massachusetts.

We would like you to be our guest speaker at our annual meeting on Saturday, January 13, 1992 at 1:00 p.m.

Our club was first organized in 1929. Our membership dues include us into the State Federation and National Federation of Republican Women.

Some objectives of the club are to promote an informed public through political education and activity, to foster and encourage loyalty to the Republican party, and to support the policies and objectives of the Republican National Committee and the Republican State Committee, and to work for the election of Republican party nominees.

Congressman Conte spoke quite often to our group; Nancy Bush Ellis spoke at one of our annual meetings, and last May, Steven Pierce along with Congresswoman, Susan Molinari, N.Y. spoke at our May luncheon.

This being the election year, we would like to have a speaker from Washington come and kick-off the 92 campaign.

A dinner precedes the meeting and we would accommodate you and a guest. We look forward to a favorable reply by December 4.

Dear Andy,

Rounding the corner towards the last campaign and Administration for President Bush, I'd like to rejoin the 1980 team full-time in 1992. The reason, there is nothing that professionally could be more fulfilling than again working for Mr. Bush and his team.

As a refresher, since the 1980 campaign, I've worked in Congress, at Treasury, as Finance Chairman of the CT State Party, on the '84 and '88 campaigns, Executive Staff of the Brady Commission and as a banker and chief of staff at the investment bank First Boston. If there is anything I can offer, it's an ability to organize and execute with some political insight and 150% dedication to Mr. Bush and your team.

I'd like to talk with you about working on your staff or directly in the campaign. I've written Ron and will try and coordinate a visit to see you both. //

Congratulations on all your success thus far.

August 24, 1991

The Honorable Andrew Card
Assistant to the President
Deputy Chief of Staff
The White House
Washington, D.C. 20500

Dear Andy:

I am writing to request your assistance in a very important matter. I have applied to the U.S. Marine Corps Judge Advocate Program and have been rejected because I am thirty-three years old and the age limit for the program is thirty-two years of age. I was thirty-two years old when I initially applied to the program in March 1990. My application was delayed in the Boston Marine Corps Recruiting Office due to an error by that office's staff. Thus I was not accepted into the program by Marine Corps Headquarters in Washington, D.C.. Since this rejection, I have attempted to reapply but was told that my application would not be accepted as I am over the age limit.

As you know, I have been a Marine since I was eighteen years old. I have demonstrated commitment and loyalty to the Marine Corps for nearly fifteen years. I feel these years of devoted service to my country should be weighed heavily when considering my application to the Marine Corps Judge Advocate Program. I am proud to have had the opportunity to serve my country and I feel that the Marine Corps will further benefit by my loyal service if I were given the opportunity to become a Judge Advocate.

In my opinion, the only imaginable reason for the Marine Corps not to allow someone over age thirty-two to enter the officer program is because of the casual relationship between age and physical fitness. I demonstrated my physical ability when I took the required Physical Fitness Test at the Boston recruiting office and scored two hundred and ninety-two points out of a possible three hundred points. Additionally, I recently completed the Staff Noncommissioned Officer Academy in Quantico, Virginia and graduated in the top ten percent of my class.

I am sure it is unusual for an enlisted man to rise through the ranks of the Marine Corps, get an undergraduate degree, attend law school, and seek to become a Judge Advocate. It is my assumption that the thirty-two year age limit was made with the intention that applicants for the Judge Advocate Program would be civiliam law school graduates. However, my background is ideal as I have a proven record in the Marine Corps and intend to become a career Judge Advocate.

Any assistance you can provide in helping me to receive an age requirement waiver for the Judge Advocate Program would be deeply appreciated. Please contact me if you require further information.

Very truly yours,

Dear Captain Roche,

Mr. Michael Darche has requested that I write him a letter of recommendation to assist him in entering the U.S. Marine Corps Judge Advocate's Program. Mr. Darche is presently a legal intern in the Office of the Legal Advisor to the Police Commissioner. He has impressed me as an enthusiastic and hard working individual. His demeanor has always been professional and he has earned the respect of his fellow workers.

As a legal intern, Mr. Darche has been primarily assigned to prepare and prosecute cases of alleged misconduct by police personnel. The cases that Mr. Darche prosecutes are administrative in nature and are Department level hearings conducted pursuant to Massachusetts General Law, Chapter 31, section 41. Mr. Darche has done an admirable job.

Mr. Darche is supervised by the Legal Advisor and his staff of attorneys. That office has a reputation for excellence and has reported that Mr. Darche has performed his assignments surprisingly well considering that he is a second year law student and has been assigned cases normally assigned to attorneys with one or two years of experience. Much is expected of Mr. Darche and, based upon his performance in the Department, he will succeed in his endeavors in the field of law.

As Police Commissioner and as a former Marine I highly recommend Mr. Darche as an applicant for the Judge Advocate's Program.

Very truly yours,

Francis M. Roache

Dear Capt. Schehl:

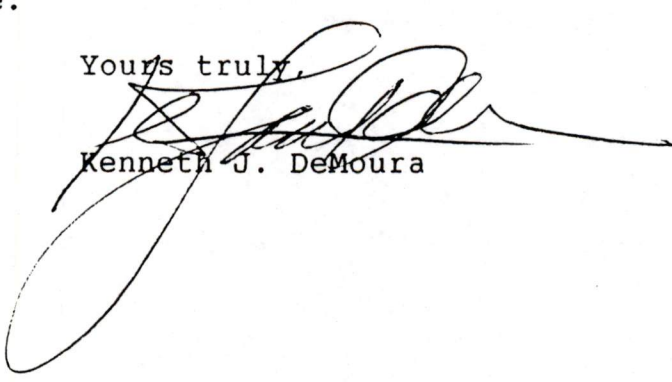

Mr. Darche was a student in my Legal Methods class in the academic year 1989-1990. The course is conducted to develop the research and analytical skills of students. Students are given fact situations and asked to respond to them as attorneys for one of the parties. The course culminates in the presentation of a moot court argument before a panel of "judges".

Mr. Darche demonstrated an impressive ability to marshal facts, and demonstrated a fine talent for advocacy. His work product was well organized and demonstrated his ability to work independently and promptly complete assignments.

At Moot Court, Mr. Darche's oral argument was delivered with confidence and enthusiasm. He responded intelligently to questions posed to him by the panel of judges. Based on his performance in my classroom, I am confident that Mr. Darche will be a fine litigation attorney.

If there are any further questions, please do not hesitate to call my office.

Yours truly,

Mr. Andrew Card
The White House
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. Card

I am writing to you at the suggestion of my stepfather, Mr. John Ryan of Boston. I am looking to obtain a position with the Bush Administration or on the upcoming presidential election campaign.

My government experience consists of an Intern/Special Assistant position with the Foreign Affairs Committee's Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade. Prior to this, I worked as a Parliamentary Aide while attending college in Great Britain. I also worked on the Steve Pierce for Congress campaign in June of this year.

At present, while completing my graduate thesis for the University of London and working part-time on a project basis for Ryan Elliot and Company in Boston, I have been looking for Legislative Correspondent and comparable entry level positions with Republican Senate offices. I have also been looking at various positions at the GS-5 to GS-7 level with government agencies.

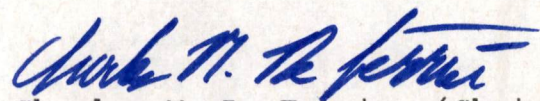

My primary interest is foreign affairs, although I am extremely flexible in this regard, as one must be when looking for work.

A position with the Bush Administration or on the upcoming election campaign would be a great honor as I come from a long line of Republicans and I have been an ardent supporter of George Bush since the early Reagan years.

Enclosed please find copies of my resume and some writing samples. Any assistance with this matter would be greatly appreciated. Thank you.

To Whom it May Concern:

I am pleased to recommend Charles M. De Ferrier for a Senate staff position.

Charles has all the qualities of an outstanding staff member: exemplary academic background and prior experience on the Hill. He successfully completed a rigorous undergraduate program at the University of London, balancing coursework with demanding responsibilities as a Parliamentary Aide in the British Parliament. He has likewise completed a year of graduate study at the University of London.

Charles has impressive professional staff experience. As a Parliamentary Aide and Intern with the House Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade, Charles has drafted numerous memos, floor statements, and other Legislative correspondence. In short, he understands both Congress and the workings of a Congressional office. He is a quick study, enthusiastic, and highly motivated. Charles is a rare find, and would be a true asset to any Senate office. I recommend him highly.

Mr. John H. Sununu

On Friday, November 22nd, Hudson Institute will host its 3rd Annual Doolittle Awards Luncheon, conferring the Jimmy Doolittle Award for "creative contributions of thought and action to the national security." The luncheon will be at the Shoreham Hotel in D.C. Past recipients were David Packard in 1989, presented by Secretary Dick Cheney, and James Schlesinger in 1990, presented by Vice President Quayle.

Former President Reagan has agreed to be the 1991 recipient, and I hope that President Bush will agree to present the award. This appearance makes sense because:

1. It presents an opportunity to re-establish, without downside risk, the tie between the two presidents, and send a positive message to Reagan fans in the party's conservative base.
2. It presents a chance to remind the press and public of the centrality of defense preparedness to the recent expansion of freedom all over the world, and the continuing importance of a strong defense in an uncertain world.
3. It presents an opportunity to evoke the success of Desert Storm once again.

I could go on, but you get the picture. Speaking of pictures, I could imagine a great one of two well-known World War II flyers (General Doolittle is still alert and active in his 90s, and will attend the luncheon health permitting.)

I really believe that this event would be very much in President Bush's interest, and would give him a convenient platform for several politically useful messages. Please give it close consideration.

Dear Sir:

I am the youngest daughter of Charles W. Grinnell from Boston, Massachusetts. He is formerly an executive in the Dept. of Commerce under former Presidents Ford and President Nixon. He also was the news secretary to the six New England Governors. He suggested I write to you in the hope that you might be able to help me.

I have an 18 1/2 year old son, who has been very involved in collecting everything from Desert Storm cards, magazines, and even daily newspapers; anything concerning the Persian Gulf War. My husband is 100% disabled veteran from Vietnam. I guess our patriotism has been very obvious to our son, Craig.

Craig would love to have a Presidential pen and maybe an autograph from President Bush. He has also asked for a personal autograph from General Powell and General Schwarzkopf.

I realize this is a lot to ask and we will understand if these things aren't possible.

I want to thank you for taking time from your busy schedule to read my letter.

Dear Assistant Card:

It is with great pleasure that I write this letter urging you to consider Mr. Van Christo for the position of United States Ambassador to Albania.

In my work as Managing Partner of an international management consulting firm, I have met thousands of America's business leaders. It is my assessment that few, if any, display the qualities of leadership that Van Christo possesses. In the four years since I have been associated with Mr. Christo, he has impressed me immensely with his strong sense of vision, entrepreneurship, human empathy, creativity, determination and communication skills.

I believe that the renewal of diplomatic relations between the United States and Albania presents a strategic window of opportunity which can only be served through the most skillful decisions. Mr. Christo, an Albanian born American citizen, would bring a unique understanding of the Albanian people, historical realities and regional uniqueness to the position of Ambassador. He is acutely aware of the current conditions in Albania and actively involved in creating public awareness throughout New England about the environment in Albania. Additionally, he is bilingual in both English and Albanian languages. By my assessment, these qualities could only be an asset to the United States which must be interested in increasing its influence in that region.

In closing I would like to add that Van Christo has had a successful business in New England for almost 30 years. The various professionals I have known all respect Van Christo as a consummate professional who can be relied upon for sage advice as well as uncompromisingly excellent work. Therefore, I would recommend without qualification Van Christo for the position of United States Ambassador to Albania.

If I can answer any questions or be of assistance in any way, please feel free to contact me.

MEMORANDUM

TO: Andy Card

FROM: Frank Donatelli

RE: American Newspaper Publishers Association (ANPA) Meeting

The new ANPA CEO, Cathleen Black, would very much appreciate the chance to meet briefly with you to introduce a select group of her Board of Directors who will be in Washington September 23-25.

Included in the meeting with Ms. Black would be:

Robert Erburu	-	Chairman/Times Mirror
Frank Bennack	-	President & CEO/Hearst Corporation
Charlie Brumback	-	President & CEO/Tribune Company
Don Newhouse	-	President/The Star-Ledger

The group is primarily interested in discussing the issues relating to the Modified Final Judgement (MFJ) restrictions, which ANPA feels are now at a critical juncture. While Hill action remains likely to precede administration policy finalization, given the recent judicial ruling and other developments they are interested in such brief discussions with those likely to participate when such intra-administration discussion on MFJ begins again in earnest in the future.

Thank you so much for considering; will follow up shortly.

Dear Andy:

Every two years the Michigan Republican Party hosts the Mackinac Island Republican Leadership Conference. The purpose of the conference is to bring together Republican leaders and workers from across Michigan to prepare for the 1992 election.

An important and popular feature of the Mackinac Conference is the workshops featuring prominent Republican experts such as yourself. I would like to extend to you an invitation to be part of one of our Mackinac Conference workshops. //

The 1991 Mackinac Conference will be held on September 19-22, 1991 (Friday through Sunday) on Mackinac Island, Michigan. The workshops will be held on Saturday morning, September 20, 1991.

Please let us know if your schedule allows acceptance of our invitation. Further arrangements can be planned after we hear from you. An early response to this invitation would be greatly appreciated so that we may coordinate our workshops with all of our speakers.

Please contact me if you have any questions. I hope that you will be able to join us and help make our Nineteenth Biennial Mackinac Island Republican Leadership Conference a great success.

Sincerely,

Dear Peggy -

Thank you very much for your note. More significantly, thank you for all that you have done for the President. In 1988, you helped make it possible for America to have George Bush's leadership. At the White House you helped formulate the words of President Bush as he stimulated historic changes in the World.

I'm proud to have worked with you. Please keep in touch. Sincerely, Andy Card

Joe Dial takes his oath of office for the Commodity Futures Trading Commission from Judge Clarence N. Stevenson in a Victoria County cornfield on Thursday. President Bush nominated Dial to the Washington, D.C.-based panel in April.

With the bright Texas sun high in the sky and 5-foot tall cornstalks waving in the breeze, Joe Dial took an oath of office Thursday surrounded by family, friends and farmers.

Dial, who moved from his hometown of Victoria to Washington, D.C., 10 days ago, was sworn in as one of five commissioners for the Commodity Futures Trading Commission.

"I chose to be sworn in as a commissioner of the CFTC in a Victoria County cornfield in order to focus on the two most important aspects of my role as a regulator," Dial said after being sworn in by Judge Clarence N. Stevenson of the 24th Judicial District of Texas.

"First, as a public servant, I serve the citizens of the United States, and it is fitting that I take my oath of office in a community that is representative of the people of America," Dial said. "Second, as chairman of the Agricultural Advisory Committee, it is my responsibility to make sure that the voice of America's agriculture producers is heard at CFTC."

Dial promised the crowd he would remain a "true Texan — never to be a bureaucrat, never to be a Washingtonian."

His term is for five years and is a full-time position.

Victoria County Farm Bureau President Keith Johnson, a cotton and milo farmer, said he thinks Dial's appointment to the commission is a step in the right direction.

"He's from an agriculture background and conservative, just the type of person we need in Washington," Johnson said.

Dial said that the 1990 Farm Bill has a provision that the U.S. Department of Agriculture is to increase educational opportunities to study how farmers can use the futures market.

He said that as commissioner he intends to take an active part in expanding the applications of the futures market for farmers and ranchers.

The commission is based in Washington, D.C., and oversees futures and options trading in commodities and financial instruments.

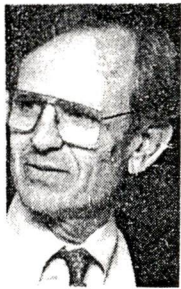

Dial will take oath in city for new post

D'ANN MABRAY

Advocate Staff Writer

Former Victoria County rancher Joe Dial will take his oath of office Thursday in Victoria as one of five commissioners for the Commodities Futures Trading Commission.

Dial, who recently moved to Washington, D.C., after 42 years as a Victoria resident, will be sworn in by state District Judge Clarence N. Stevenson.

Dial

He was to take his oath of office in Washington, but because he will be in Victoria Thursday, a district judge can legally perform the ceremony.

Dial said the five-year term as one of the senior executive service commissioners for the CFTC will be a full-time, full-salaried position.

"The position as a commissioner is very challenging. I am responsible for 135 financial instruments in 15 futures exchanges in Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, Kansas City and Minneapolis," Dial said.

An extremely thorough investigation into Dial's background was performed, similar to the investigations required of a U.S. Supreme Court justice nominee, Dial said.

He said the FBI, Office of White House Counsel, White House Office of Personnel, the Office of Government Ethics, the General Counsel Office of Ethics in the CFCT, and finally the U.S. Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition and Forestry investigated his background, requiring full financial disclosure.

"I guess the White House wanted to know more about me," Dial said, referring to his nomination for CFTC commissioner.

Dial is replacing Kalo Hineman of Kansas, whose five-year appointment expires Thursday.

Dial said he believes about 100 people nationally were considered for the post.

In mid-April, President Bush decided Dial was his nominee, and on April 23, the president sent his recommendation to the Senate, Dial said.

On May 17, Dial appeared before the Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition and Forestry and was questioned on CFTC jurisdiction and responsibility.

The CFTC is under the direction of that committee.

On May 22, the Senate committee "marked up their approval to the full Senate" and the entire Senate voted on his nomination, Dial said.

Dial said the trading commission was founded in 1974 and has between 500 and 600 employees in offices in Washington, Chicago, New York and Los Angeles.

Commodities

Dial said the CFTC is responsible for ensuring the economic utility of futures markets by encouraging their competitiveness and efficiency. The CFTC also ensures the integrity of the futures markets by protecting market participants against manipulation, abusive trade practices and fraud in the marketplace.

Dial said at least one of the five commissioners is required to have a background in agriculture. "I am the voice of American agriculture on the commission," Dial said.

Dial said the position requires much traveling, but he hopes to return to South Texas often.

Mr. President:

One of your aides (name not quoted in the paper) made a grave mistake of stating he did not know where Berkshire County, Massachusetts was and suggested you visit Boston to aid Steven D. Pierce in the coming June election for Silvio Conte's position for the 1st Congressional District! His ignorance will cost the Republican Party many votes. The people here are terribly angry to be so insulted.

Berkshire County is a 1 hour drive from Bradley International Airport (Hartford/Springfield). It is also just a 1 hour drive from the Albany, New York airport. We even have 3 airports of our own!

Boston is truly as far away as Washington, to us! The enclosed cartoons tell it all. The Republican prospect does not look good because of this. Mr. Pierce does not live in Berkshire County and may not understand the feeling here.

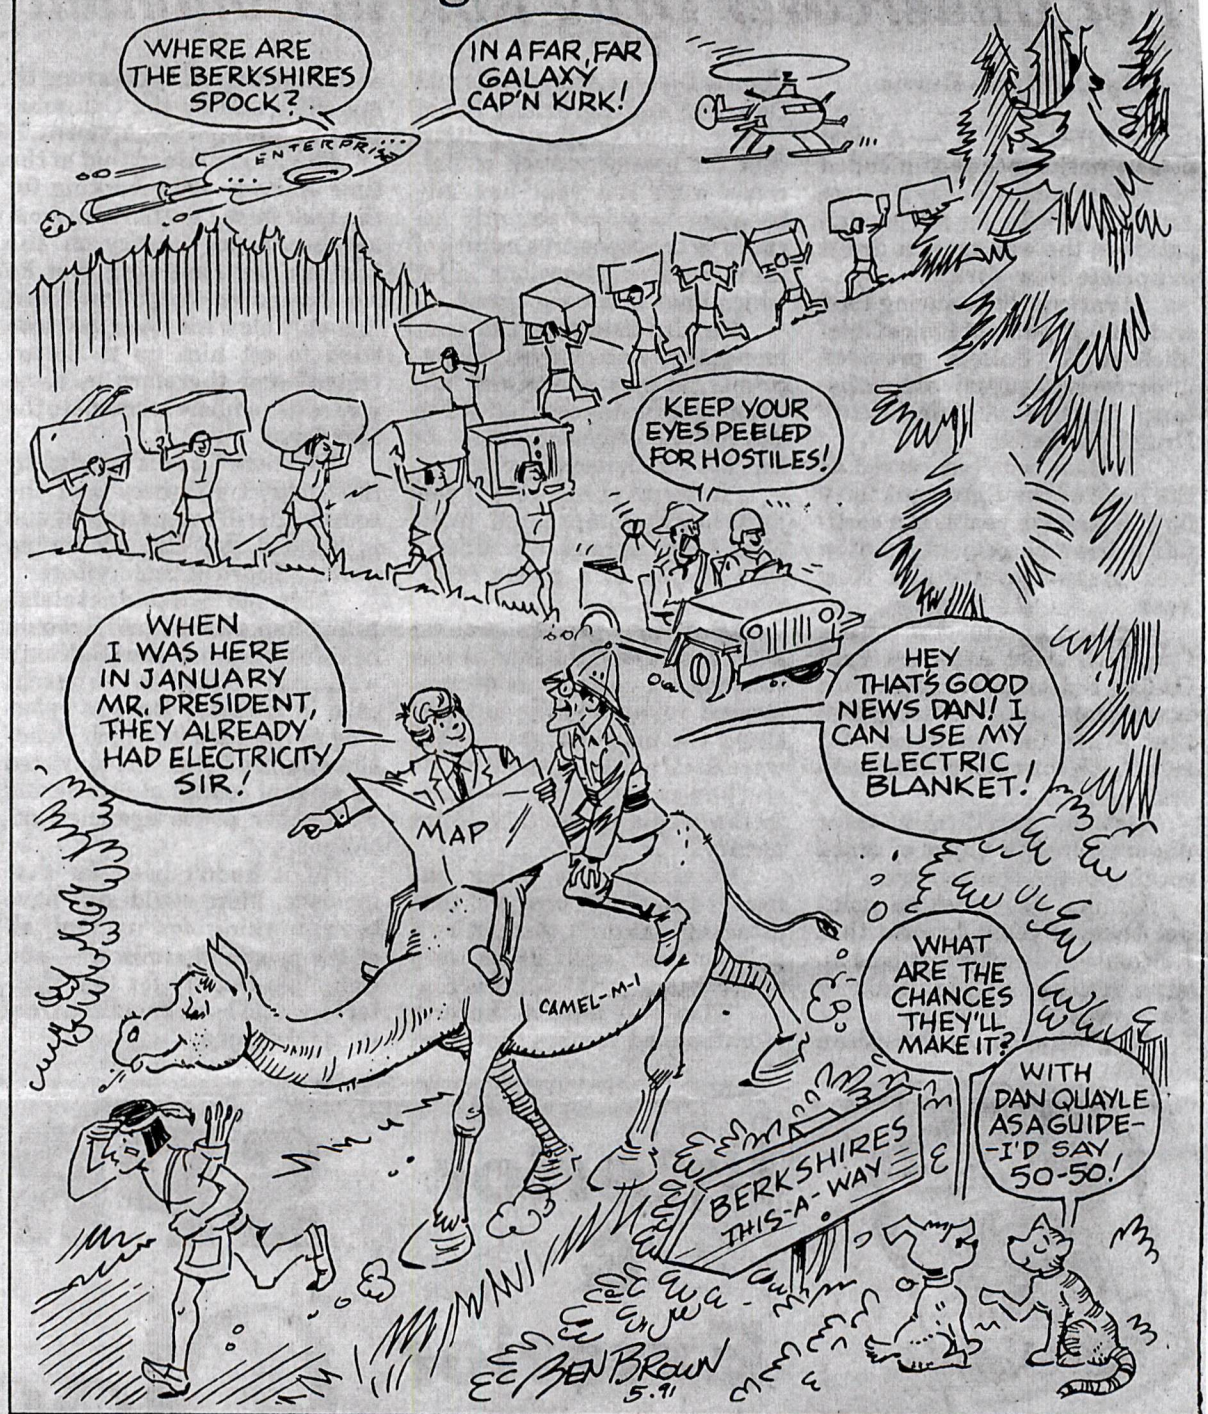

Sincerely,

Charlotte P. Davis

F.Y.I. President Bush:

You Can Get Here From There

"Tell him to go to Albany and hang a right," said one half-amused, half-annoyed Great Barrington resident when he heard the news that our Commander-in-Chief has refused to come to the Berkshires to campaign for congressional candidate Steven Pierce because his aides told him that they were too hard to find.

Instead of grabbing hold of the opportunity to take in beautiful scenery, President George Bush will instead capitalize on the all the money and influence that surrounds Boston and attend a rally there.

"That's a typical Republican for you," said Bill Fields, a history teacher at Monument Mountain Regional High School.

"It shows you right where his priorities are. If there's no money in the Berkshires, you won't see him here."

After all, does it really matter that Pierce is running for a congressional seat from this side of the state?

Maybe it doesn't as it was so eloquently expressed by one local store clerk who asked "Who's Pierce?"

In light of the administration's apparent lack of knowledge concerning this area, many Berkshirites interviewed had a few recreational suggestions for the president.

"Maybe somebody should tell him about the record breaking pike in Lake Buel," said Ivan Gottlieb of Great Barrington.

"He'd be up here in a second."

Other residents wanted to remind the president that election year is not all that far away.

"Remote? We're still part of the United States aren't we?" said Joseph Suarez, a bus driver for the Berkshire Regional Transit Authority.

"I voted for him. A lot of people around here voted for him. And if he doesn't clean up his act, he might not get reelected. That might give him a real heart attack."

Maybe Bush should look at the map a little closer. We can't be that hard to find. Just four months ago vice-president Dan Quayle made it to Pittsfield.

Dear Andy:

The event on the evening of June 12 was first rate in appealing to the disabled population. There were two signers for the deaf, many persons in wheelchairs in attendance, and the President mentioned disability on two occasions: 1) in referring to the disabled points of light winner and 2) when he said he was proud to have taken a lead role in the Americans With Disability Act. All this is excellent preparation for appealing for the votes of disabled Americans (about 40 million of them) in 1992 general elections.

We're making good progress at the Points of Light Foundation in encouraging disabled persons to be volunteers. What greater symbol of mainstreaming. One problem: the Points building on Jackson Place is not accessible and GSA is slow in surveying it prior to making accommodations for wheelchair accessibility. I'll shortly give you details of the slowdown and I hope you can move things along with a phone call.

One day I would like to discuss with you the RNC playing a more active role in soliciting the support of the disabled communities. Republicans are missing the votes of disabled people in Congressional and State elections.

I was very moved by your account of your grandmother's advice to you. She must have been a marvelous woman. I'm trying to convey the message your grandmother gave you to my four daughters (one now an intern in Gregg Petermeyer's office) but I don't have the stature of a grandmother.

Dear Mr. Card:

Litton Itek Optical Systems is pursuing a satellite surveillance program with the United Arab Emirates. We briefed the Honorable Augusta Hornblower on this program in April and asked her to arrange a meeting with you so that the administrative staff would be aware of the program. In a follow up telecon, you and Mr. Dick Wollensak of Itek agreed that we should delay briefing you until such time that the U.A.E. initiated action.

I talked with Mr. Bob Sar of your office via telephone on 3 July to update the status of this project. He asked that we telefax a synopsis of the program. As described in the attached fact sheet, the U.A.E. has submitted a request for an export license to the State Department for a System Concept Study and have provided Itek with a letter of intent to contract with us for this study contingent upon the export license approval.

The U.A.E. Emir, Sheik Zayid Ben Sultan Al-Nahyan intends to send Mr. Bush a letter in the very near future stating his desire for this surveillance system for his country. For this reason, we would like to offer to prebrief you and or your staff on the system concept we have discussed with the U.A.E. Please advise myself or Mr. John Montgomery (Vice President, Advanced Optical Programs) of a time which would be convenient to you. RE: Constantine Mitsotakis, Prime Minister of Greece

Dear Andy,

For a long time, I have been interested in attending a state dinner or other White House reception for the Prime Minister of Greece. I enclose my prior 1987 correspondence on this subject.

Mr. Papandreou was never invited, for good reason. It now appears that newly elected Prime Minister Constantine Mitsotakis may be invited to visit the United States in the near future.

Incidentally, the new Foreign Minister of Greece, Mr. Samaras, attended school in Massachusetts and is a close friend of my first cousin in Weston.

In addition to the personal satisfaction, I believe my attendance at such a dinner or reception would increase my political influence with the Greek/American community in Massachusetts in future elections. Now that Governor Dukakis is leaving, it seems to be an appropriate time to bring back many Greek/Americans to the Republican Party.

I will be in Greece from April 26th until May 20th. However, I will be in touch with my office on a regular basis, in case you need to get a message to me during that time.

Yours sincerely,

George C. Decas

A few years ago, when it appeared that the Prime Minister of Greece, Andreas Papandreou, would visit the United States, I wrote to the White House and requested that George C. Decas of Wareham and Middleboro, Massachusetts, be invited to participate in that visit. Mr. Papandreou did not visit at that time.

I wish to renew this request, in behalf of George C. Decas, that he be invited to attend a White House dinner or ceremony in the Prime Minister's honor (or a State Department event in his honor).

I enclose George's resume, including a sheet of highlights from the resume, for your review.

I have known George personally since 1979 and do not know of anyone who is a more deserving or appropriate person for this honor. I think you will agree with me after reviewing his resume. That is the reason I have renewed my request.

If there is anything further that I can do to advance this request, I would appreciate your calling me, either at my home (235-3311) or at my office (235-7000), the area code being (617) since I understand the visit will occur from March 9 through 12, and time is getting short.

I will be anxious to hear from you regarding the status of this request.

Respectfully yours,
