MEMORANDUM FOR GOVERNOR JOHN SUNUNU

FROM: Carla A. Hills CAH

SUBJECT: Michael Moskow

Attached is the resume of Michael Moskow, who I am recommending be appointed Deputy U.S. Trade Representative, replacing S. Linn Williams, whose resignation takes effect today.

At the White House earlier this week, Michael met with Chase Untermeyer, Boyden Gray and Andy Card.

Today, he is sending by Federal Express the relevant papers for security clearance to Boyden's office.

He is a superb candidate. With Linn's departure and our very full plate, I would appreciate it so much if you could do everything you can to expedite this appointment.

Dear Andy:

When Governor Sununu recently attended a fundraising event for the Maine Republican Party, we had a chance to talk about the very successful golf tournament that President Bush was so gracious to headline for my campaign efforts last summer.

There have been a lot of suggestions that since the event was so successful we make it an annual event and benefit our federal candidates as well as legislative candidates. I raised this issue with Governor Sununu and he thought the President would be interested in doing it again.

We would be hoping for a mid- to late August date and would try the same format: $5,000 for corporate players in the golf tournament preceeded by a $1,000 per person brunch.

Proceeds from the Second Annual President Bush/Governor McKernan Golf Tournament would benefit Olympia's campaign with personal contributions and my PAC at the State Party with the corporate contributions. These contributions would be used to try to turn the numbers around in the Maine State Legislature.

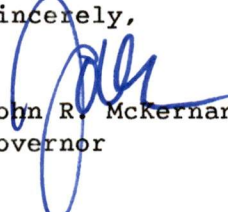

In Maine, the Republican Party is at a crossroads. While the state is leaning heavily Democratic, we still have been able to elect statewide Republican candidates but we must now attack the problem in the Legislature and begin to build a stronger base and farm team.

I would like to get this request in the scheduling process now. Last summer, we managed to organize a very successful event with three weeks notice of the date. If we had three to four weeks it would ensure the chances of a very successful event.

I know you have many items on your schedule now but I cannot tell you what a key difference it made in my campaign last year and what a key difference it would make in Olympia's campaign and in the legislative races in the fall of 1992 for Maine Republicans.

Thanks, Andy, for putting this request into the pipeline and for any help you can be in getting a speedy answer back to me on the likelihood of this request becoming reality.

Dear Mr. Card,

This hand written letter is done to demonstrate the sincerity and deep sense of commitment which is behind its design.

~~We are two teachers within the Boston Public School System.~~ We average over twenty-two years of urban teaching experience covering the areas of Special Education, Reading, Supervision-Administration, and most importantly, classroom experience. This past May, we both completed our doctorate work, after three years from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst focusing on the urgent problem of parental involvement in urban as well as urban private schools. We have also been appointed to the advisory board of the new Horace Mann Foundation, a new reform-improvement forum for school change. All of this information is for the purpose of ~~requesting consultation to be part of the President's advisory panel on improving schools.~~

Being urban educators, experts from the trenches, we are offering our knowledge, insights, commitment, and inspiration to this effort on improving our schools for the betterment of our children.

Yes, this letter is rather abstract in its nature but hopefully, its uniqueness will peak your curiosity and cause you to request further information from us. We would be glad to supply your office with the necessary documents concerning our characters, status, and educational histories. We are in person over this letter.

Dear Andy;

Your respective bosses are about to take off for the London Economic Summit. I think it is going to be an interesting occasion.

France is becoming an increasing problem for the United States, mainly in the trade arena, but also in the regional defense issue. Mitterrand's party has an election coming along next year or so, and his narrow political instincts will argue for a typical "to hell with you" posture. If he manages to play this game successfully, you can kiss the Uruguay Round good by, say hello to an independent European defense force unconnected to the existing broader defense arrangements, and start the ball rolling toward a new multi polar economic and defense arrangement that will sow the seeds for major turmoil in the next century.

In years past, I have had some experience in dealing with the French on issues where they have taken an independent and anti U.S. position. I have discovered that the French do not respond to polite requests. Neither do they respond to public demands. They respond only to a quiet but very firm and very concrete threat that impacts an interest that they care about. Right now, France wants to have its cake and eat it too on the trade front. They wish to appear to be the friend of the third world but at the same time torpedo the trade round that would be helpful to that same constituency. Take Taiwan. Right now, there are two massive projects that the French are interested in: a high speed rail system, and a nuclear power plant. The French say that they are in favor of having Taiwan enter GATT, and are acting as Taiwan's most visible sponsor. In return, they are claiming political rights to these two big projects.

We are not without clout in Taiwan, if we choose to exercise it. Nor are we without reach in other third world markets of interest to the French. The French do not hesitate to paint us with dark colors in their efforts to expand their commercial interests in individual countries. Perhaps the time has come to have STR carefully review current major French trade interests, and then map a U.S. campaign to deprive France of some very important contracts. Perhaps the President should tell Mitterrand at a private meeting that if France successfully obstructs a Uruguay Round, that he can expect from the United States a major response that will cost France in the end more than France will gain by killing the round. He will want to be prepared to talk about potential U.S. steps, or perhaps better, dispatch a surrogate to deliver the more detailed message, after he delivers the general message.

THE WOODROW WILSON CENTER

We have very big fish to fry at this point. You will find many of my former colleagues at the French desk arguing against such measures because they know that the dust will fly, and State always likes to avoid confrontations when it can.

The truth is that I don't much like confrontations either. But sometimes they are unavoidable. If we don't have a successful confrontation with the French now, we will all regret it ten or twenty years from now when we have to live with the consequences of today's drift.

Sincerely;

If I can be of any help to the President and the administration regarding the Space Station, please let me know. I most humbly submit that there aren't too many people in the administration that know more about the space program than I do. If you talk to Ron, please ask him to give me a call sometime. I want to get back on the campaign ASAP. Hopefully this time in a Press position. Also, if he needs any political help back in the White House, I would be more than happy to come back. That will give Dave Demarest less to worry about.

We are all aware of the tremendous burden the Savings and Loans mess is putting on our country and finances. What you read in the papers and hear on TV, it is obvious that the Trust has to be reorganized with strong leadership. It would seem to me that it should be divided into two segments, one to manage the failed S&L and another to liquidate their assets.

To that end, I am enclosing a resume of a gentleman I have known over twenty years and has the credentials, I believe, to handle liquidations in a businesslike manner without suffering the tremendous losses reported in print.

Re: Thomas Nomination: What Goes Around Comes Around

Note the enclosed memo from me to Bobbi Kilberg of January 15. It produced NO action from Kilberg or Watkins.

It is absolutely astonishing to me how the Bush Administration can so completely stiff an organization comprised of some 90 major Black groups, who really want to support the President and who are asking only a day of White House briefings in support of their Assault on Illiteracy program (AOIP).

Anyway, now that you are fighting for Black support for the Thomas nomination, how do you propose to enlist the help of such people as Calvin Rolark and Benjamin Wright, after your White House has stiffed this absurdly reasonable request by the organization of which they are the leaders?

In fact, Dr. Rolark is supporting Clarence, because I think he is a friend of Clarence's; and I am pretty sure Ben and Nathan Wright would be willing to speak out for him in the Black community (70% of Black newspaper readership receives their syndicated commentary on national events).

These people are better Christians than I am. After the stiffing they took from Watkins and Kilberg, I would be thinking payback time for the Bush White House, unless I happened to have a personal relationship with the nominee.

So are you going to have somebody set up a day of White House briefings for AOIP, or do you now have so much Black support for your nominee that such an exhausting effort on your part is not necessary?

Asst to the President for Public Liaison

Dear Bobbi:

Back in November I opened discussions with Gregg Petersmeyer's office about a White House briefing for leaders of the Assault On Illiteracy Program (AOIP). This is an extremely broad coalition of African-American self-help organizations led by recognized leaders in the African American community. Gregg's office decided that the briefing ought to be the responsibility of your office, and it was turned over to Mr. Joseph Watkins for action.

On December 15, you may recall, I contacted you to let you know that Mr. Watkins was being very unhelpful in working out a suitable date for briefing meetings which all involved, including Mr. Watkins, had agreed were desirable from the standpoint both of AOIP and the Administration. My call to you apparently produced some motion on the part of Mr. Watkins, but it was regrettably shortlived. In the attached letter Dr. Calvin Rolark of AOIP notes that every phone call from AOIP to Mr. Watkins since just before Christmas has gone unanswered.

I am wondering who commissioned this turkey Watkins to rebuff and humiliate these good people, who are trying valiantly to remain friends of the Bush Administration despite Mr. Watkins' continued refusal to even talk with them. When I worked in the Reagan-Bush White House, I didn't even treat the President's enemies in this way, let alone people trying to be his friends.

If the "Education President" wants to improve his standing among concerned African Americans, somebody above the level of Joseph Watkins is going to have to rescue this situation, and bend over backwards to make amends in the process. This is UNCONSCIONABLE, and a larger and larger circle of AOIP leaders is becoming aware of it. Eventually this matter will surface in the African-American press and the national press, unless this is fixed, and quick.

I am extremely embarrassed by this. How Benjamin Wright and Dr. Rolark have been able to keep from exploding over this mistreatment is a testimonial to their Christian charity. If I were in your position, I would have put Mr. Watkins out on the street long ago.

At this point, someone of your stature needs to contact Ben Wright and assure him that the briefing sessions will be organized promptly on a mutually agreeable date, or else explain to him that President Bush is not enough interested in inner city education or African American support to bother with AOIP.

Yours truly,

John McClaughry

Re: How Can We Move Ahead With The AOIP Leadership Briefings?

Dear Brother Watkins:

Greetings! What can we do to be of help to you? We know that you have an extremely busy schedule...and arranging meetings like one for 50 or so of the Black leaders of some of our most influential groups has had to take a "backseat", at least temporarily.

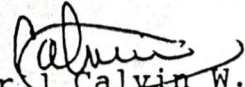

I was somewhat concerned, however, when a routine check of "urgent things to be done" with my office in New York City revealed that no Call Backs had been received from your office since the week before Christmas. Again, we know that both you and your staff have been extremely busy, and despite numerous calls (as you instructed us) to the lady named "Lydia", our records show no return calls.

My dilemma is that I have to be at a major meeting of AOIP leaders (mainly publishers) in Nassau, Bahamas on Wednesday morning...and I'll be leaving my office around 3:00PM on Tuesday afternoon. Ben Wright will be with me to help make the report on our situation with the White House.

Thus, this note has been dictated by me on Saturday morning for FAXing to you so that you or someone from your office can be in contact with me (here in local office at 783-9300) or with Ben or Emille (Smith) at (212) 967-4000. They are the people with whom arrangements will need to be made. [And Ben loves the Bush's for how they have always helped him.]

Again, we know that you are extremely busy...and we, too, are accountable to others who have been most anxious (and patient) in terms of awaiting a response of some kind from your good offices. If you need my help, please call me. Our aim is to help the Bush family, as we gain knowledge for our mission!

Most sincerely and appreciatively yours,

Congratulations are due, again, and again, to President George Bush, his entire White House team and of course our beloved American troops for the positive outcome of the Gulf War. Truly our thoughts, love and prayers were answered.

COUNCIL MEMBERS

We have attached a copy of the December 8th Overnite Letter to Rev. Watkins, which outlines the benefits of liaison establishment with the leadership of AOIP and the simple needs.

Because of the war and other various scheduling predicaments a date was not set. However, now that things are getting back to "relative normal on the homefront", we would like to again pursue your assistance in getting this briefing set.

May we please hear from you at your most earliest convenience.

AOIP's Goals for The Year 2000 and Beyond

(To be adjusted regularly)

1. Completely eradicate all "functional illiteracy" within Black America.

2. Have 80% of our Black community population give priority support (including tithing) to Black-run religious institutions and have 100% accountability from these institutions.

3. Have at least 80% of our college-bound Black students attend a historically Black college and/or, only secondarily as a choice, a college wherein Blacks have a high measure of control and is focused on the equitable building of our communities. (The other 20% may choose, for various reasons, to integrate other colleges.)

4. Have at least 80% of our Black community businesses owned by Black or other persons who live in or immediately adjacent to--and identify completely with the needs of--our people and doing the same for Black professionals. (The other 20% can be seen as an equitable exchange for a reasonable percentage of Black ownership of businesses outside our communities.

5. Eliminate the need for unemployment entirely from within Black America by having skill training and equitable opportunities for all.

6a. Eliminate the high incidence of teen and adult pregnancies both among persons not able to properly rear and support children and otherwise.

6b. Eliminate substance abuse, child abuse and crime completely from our neighborhoods and create safe aesthetically valuable communities.

7. Own and support fully in a primary way all of the means of communications which are working totally on our community-building behalf such as those cooperating fully with AOIP by providing guaranteed regular publicity at the national or local level at all times, as well as carrying all of AOIP's "affective-oriented" learning materials.

8. Have all corporations and other entities that directly or indirectly benefit from the Black community to deal equitably with the Black community as set forth in our Credo For Justice and Equity.

9. Have our people in proportionate bargaining positions in all major political parties so as to assure that an equitable number of Blacks working for us are elected and we can obtain an equitable share of all benefits from the political system.

10. Have Black Americans assuming full fiscal obligations for the basic needs of our interorganizational, interdependency-producing efforts like AOIP in a manner such that necessities will never have to be begged for when "others" feel threatened by Blacks' becoming independent...and our "retiring" national officers never have to be dropped completely from leadership roles with dignity even after they leave office within their organizations.

11. Have at least 80% of our Black families investing in ownership/savings plans that build for their fiscal independence and the same percentages strengthening their family ties both spiritually and economically.

AOIP's overall objective is to begin immediately to transform the discrete communities within Black America, through pride-instilling "togetherness," into such Shining Oases of Hope that all therein not only will be motivated to want to learn and become productive parts of our own then-wonderful communities, but also there will be a greatly lessened desire, or "felt need," to abandon support for Black-led organizations that opened economic and other doors, Black-owned businesses and professional entities, Black churches, etc., by inordinately integrating and/or invading the communities and social and other institutions developed by (and for) other ethnic groups. And, for those who assist us toward this end in priority ways, we must demonstrate our appreciation in priority and mutually-pleasing ways.

Are you tithing weekly to your church, as well as monthly supporting the NAACP, NCNW, SCLC, Operation PUSH, your local Urban League, IFESH, your United Black Fund of America and IUBFA?

Participating Organizations in AOIP include (partial listing only--(4/23/91):

On Wednesday 8/28 I will be in town with Joe DioGuardi, former Congressman from Westchester who may well run to reclaim that seat; and Richard Schwartz, a wealthy ($200 M) NY ex-clothing manufacturer, age 54, who was a Bush/Quayle co-chairman in Westchester in 88, a Bush elector in 88, and a major GOP con-tributor.

Schwartz, who is really an excellent guy who is bored managing his investments and wants to manage an operation again, is very interested in some top (Level IV) administration position.

Chase Untermeyer met with him twice, liked what he saw, but couldn't find the right spot.

I had hoped to get Ron to go to dinner with us that evening but he is out of town that day. Connie Horner isn't on board and organized yet and in any case is on vacation until Labor Day.

Any chance you would meet for dinner or even just a drink with us on 8/28, late afternoon, socially, just to size Schwartz up?

You will soon be asking Schwartz for more money for Campaign 92, so you might as well start being solicitous now.

Please have somebody call me Tuesday and advise.

PS: Don't you wish all the Black organizations that Kilberg and Watkins stiffed were out clamoring for Clarence Thomas now?

Dear Andy:

Attached is a copy of the letter of thanks for arranging to greet the President and Mrs. Bush July 4th in Grand Rapids and providing a private family tour of Air Force one.

This Friday, July 26, is the first anniversary of the American With Disabilities Act of 1990. The President has invited me to attend a Rose Garden Ceremony at 10:00 A.M. to celebrate this historical event.

The President will give a short speech on ADA and is looking for an outstanding employer who has set the course in hiring Americans with disabilities to mention in his remarks Friday morning. Could you have Linda have the writer of the President's ADA speech contact John S. Schall in the Domestic Policy Office at the White House.

Evert Mellema, President and CEO, of the Decc Company in Grand Rapids, Michigan presently has over 50% employees with disabilities working full time since the ADA Bill was passed last year. Mr. Mellema is a leader in the nation in making ADA a success and should be noted in the President's Rose Garden speech this Friday. John S. Schall, Deputy Executive Secretary and Associate Director of the Domestic Policy Council at the White House has visited this outstanding company in leading the way since ADA was signed into law by the President. John can be reach at Ext 2564.

Andy, I have been invited as a member of the National Council on Disability to attend the ceremony and I would like John Schall to escort Mr. Mellema Friday morning. If possible I would like to arrange to have a photo opportunity with the President and Mr. Mellema in the Oval Office right after the ceremony a few minutes. I did ask the President in Grand Rapids if he would like to do this. He said yes because it is the corporate private employers who will provide the jobs. I look at this special opportunity for the President and not the same usual voices from the beltway circle.

In the afternoon after lunch, I will try to schedule a visit with the Vice President concerning the attached Memorandum for Bill Kristol and Al Hubbard, and then a photo opportunity with the Attorney General, Dick Thornburgh, Senator Bob Dole, and Jim Brady at his office before hosting a private dinner at the Capitol Hill Club.

The dinner will be at 6:00 P.M. and I am inviting you and a guest to join us if you will be in town. If not, maybe Linda or one of your staff would like to have dinner with a few friends.

If you have any questions, please have Linda call me or contact John Schall directly. He has more information on Mr. Mellema in requesting the opportunity to meet the President and to attend on Friday morning.

God bless you and your family, Andy, as you serve the President and the nation.

Bob

PRESIDENT'S DRUG ADVISORY COUNCIL
EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT
Washington, D.C. 20503

June 6, 1991

The President
The White House
Washington, D.C. 20500

Dear Mr. President:

To bring you up to date since our last meeting January 30, this is an informal but encouraging update and report from the President's Drug Advisory Council.

Because the problems created by drug abuse remain deep and pervasive, our continued national drug control efforts must remain a high priority on our domestic agenda. However, the Council's work to date clearly indicates that private sector anti-drug efforts have had good response, particularly at the grassroots level.

Our hearings and research show that we need to find a way to accurately measure the progress against drugs, make the public more aware of that progress, encourage and expand effective private sector anti-drug organizations and make their success more visible.

In order to help achieve those goals, and in keeping with the charge you gave to the Council, we have consolidated our efforts into two major projects. In addition, we will conduct a quarterly poll which will measure the nation's progress against drug abuse:

1. The Workplace Committee
2. The National Coalition Committee
3. The Moss/Gallup Poll

THE WORKPLACE COMMITTEE

Before we can recommend a drug-free workplace program that can involve the millions of employees in America, we must proceed carefully and thoroughly. In that regard we are doing the following:

1. Reorganizing the Workplace Committee to include new members with extensive experience at the employer and the employee level. The new committee will be chaired by Al Casey. Each member will assign an experienced vice president or assistant to a working group.

2. Conducting planning sessions with Council members and the working group that will assist them. The first session will be held on June 10 in the Roosevelt Room at 10:30 a.m. A midsummer retreat, a September 10 committee meeting, and October and November planning sessions are also scheduled. (See attached list of Council members and the working group.)
3. Holding a seminar and regional hearings with CEOs and employees on effective drug-free workplace policies.

CITY	DATE	SPONSOR(S)
Phoenix	April 10-11, 1991	Motorola
Boston	April 22	Boston Herald & the Ritz-Carlton
Washington	April 24	President's Drug Advisory Council
Chicago	June 6-7	Kemper Insurance
PLANNED:
Los Angeles	September	to be arranged
San Francisco	September	to be arranged

Based on the planning sessions, working groups, regional hearings, and information from expert polls, the Workplace Committee will make its recommendations to you for a national workplace policy by late November at the Camp David meeting. Our report will include recommendations to implement this policy during 1992 and beyond. This will be an appropriate setting to give recognition to those who have made major contributions to our drug-free workplace plan.

If you agree with our recommendations, this meeting could be the springboard to the largest and most coordinated drive for a drug-free workplace ever launched in America. The timing is excellent because many people will no longer tolerate drug abusers in their workplace.

THE NATIONAL COALITION COMMITTEE

The National Coalition Committee, under Alvah Chapman's chairmanship, delivered its first report to you in the Oval Office last January 30. With your encouragement, Alvah has enthusiastically pursued the expansion of this national effort.

Alvah has scheduled the second National Leadership Forum for January 9-11, 1992, at the J.W. Marriott Hotel here in Washington. We expect 800 leaders representing 400 coalitions from 325 cities and towns in virtually every state of the Union. Participants will include the coalitions receiving grants from OSAP this year and the grantees of the "Fighting Back" program of the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation. This would be an ideal opportunity for a major drug policy speech.

On September 11, Alvah is gathering his key organizers and supporters in Room 450 of the OEGB from 1:15 to 3:00 p.m. for a presentation to the full Council and more than 150 invited guests who have an interest in the success of our national coalition. This will be the kickoff for the January National Leadership Forum.

THE MOSS/GALLUP POLL

The major polls dealing exclusively with drug abuse have not been universally accepted. They have been criticized because of the time lag between the survey and its publication (typically, nine months from start to finish). A quarterly poll has been commissioned on behalf of the Council which will survey 1100 experts who deal with the problem on a daily basis. The purpose of this poll is to keep current information available based on expert opinion, not public attitudes. (See attached list of the groups being polled.)

The results will be available in early July, October, January, and April. Hopefully we will get a real handle on the progress being made. All results will be confidential for ONDCP and your office.

Key executives from the Gallup organization, who are assisting in this effort, are of the opinion that this is the most exciting poll they have seen on this subject.

COOPERATION WITH ONDCP

The Council continues to work closely with ONDCP on these projects. Governor Martinez and his staff have been very cooperative and we are especially grateful that the Governor has attended several of our Council meetings. He will also speak to the participants at the Workplace planning session on June 10 and will speak to the coalition leaders on June 14.

I welcome your reaction to these suggestions.

President's Drug Advisory Council

Dear Andy:

It's been over a year since I last wrote to you, and while I have been out of touch, I have remained intensely interested in what's going on down your way, and I also remain fiercely committed to, and extremely proud of, President Bush and the great job he's doing.

Back here in New Hampshire we now have to say "Thank you, Mr. President," instead of the other way around, because he's shown the country and the world just how right we were when we got the ball rolling on February 16, 1988.

I'm writing now because it's been almost two years since my unfortunate domestic incident, and I would like to be able to start helping out again this summer when the President comes to Kennebunkport for his vacation, if you can really call it that. I hope you can help me.

I've talked to Dale Jenkins about it, and he's supportive, especially given his new position in the Weld administration and the demands upon his time within the confines of the Commonwealth.

And with another election year just around the corner, I would like to have the opportunity to work with and/or for the campaign not just here but anywhere in the country where I could be of service to the President and his reelection effort. Seems like this summer would be a good time to start.

Dear Gloria -

Times sure have been hectic. It was great to see you, even if briefly, at Tabetha's wedding. (Isn't she beautiful?)

The lighting situation at the Summer Field makes no sense. Has a solution been found?

I bet Chris is looking forward to his discharge on July 1. Will he be home for the "Mother of All Celebrations" on July 4th?

Dear Andy,

Help! We need some advice! This is the second year that the FEDERALLY FUNDED lights at Sumner Field have not been turned on. Reason: Holbrook DPW (since the dissolving of the Park Commission) has decreed that no one may use lights without hiring and paying DPW personnel - time and a half - minimum of 1 hours - (even tho lights were on from only 6:00 til 10:30 PM).

At present, all leagues pay for uniforms, equipment, umpires and cost of electricity. There is no league that can afford a "light switch man" at union wages.

There are still 100's of young men and women (ages 12 to 35) who want to play baseball, softball, etc. on our four fields, evenings, from May 1st til August 30th. It is too logistically difficult to get in all games, weekend days, between Sumner and Brookville.

George Jamesen tells me that no town department can be sole caretaker of FEDERALLY FUNDED lights. In fact, non-Holbrook residents have right to use of lights whenever Holbrook is not using them.

If you could shed any light (pardon the pun) on this matter, Andy, we would certainly appreciate it.

Item 2:

We are happy to report that Lt. Chris Murphy, USMC, returned from Saudi, Arabia, on April 6th, to Cherry Point, N.C. It was 8 very long months for all of us, needless to say. We will be ever grateful to the team of President Bush and "The Bear" for the "hit 'em hard and go home early" approach to that whole desert mess.

Chris is due for discharge July 1, 1991, and to be married August 10th, to Susan Cambio of Cranston, R.I. While Sue prepares wedding details, Chris gives all of his free time to the civilian job-search. (I'm enclosing a resume just in case you run into someone who needs Chris and his "outstanding" qualifications.)

Please give our very best to your family, and for heaven's sake, take care of the President's health. We need him desperately for the next 5 years!!

Sincerely,

Gloria Murphy

Dear Mr. ~~Card~~, Andy

I am writing in regards to the new Internal Revenue Service regulations scheduled to take effect on July 1 that would adversely affect Wellesley and many other Massachusetts cities and towns. Under the new regulations Wellesley's pension costs will increase $1.5 million.

It is important to note that these regulations are based solely on an interpretation of federal law. The problem lies in the difference in the definition of and calculation of pension compensation. Currently, Massachusetts excludes overtime and has imposed a salary cap in calculating pensions. These practices fail to meet the new Federal pension standards. The new IRS regulations mandate that if a municipal pension plan does not satisfy the Federal standards, all employees must also be enrolled in Social Security.

This new system threatens to not only cripple cities and towns with additional pension costs, but to also destroy the Massachusetts Retirement System. Is it possible for the IRS to review this interpretation and possibly amend it? Clearly, implementation of these regulations would be devastating.

Your assistance in this matter would be greatly appreciated. This is extremely important to Wellesley and to every pension system affected by this ruling. As always thank you for your time and assistance.

Best Wishes,

Re: U.S. CoCom Position on Networking Software

Dear Mr. Card:

Allan Walker, with whom I worked when I was Legislative Director and Counsel for Warren Rudman, suggested I contact you with respect to the referenced issue. My goal is to successfully follow-up on the letter sent to Governor Sununu by Jerry Jasinowski, President of the National Association of Manufacturers. The issue is of significant importance to both Digital as an individual company and to the computer industry as a whole. We would not be raising the issue to the White House level if we did not believe it necessary. A copy of the original letter and a one page point paper on the networking issue are attached. Additional information on the pervasive availability of networking software is being collected and will be forwarded to government officials by week's end.

The issue must be resolved within the next two weeks inasmuch as CoCom is scheduled to meet May 23 and 24. U.S. policy officials at State, Commerce and Defense have been unable to reach a decision. All agree that no "technical fix" is possible. A final, unsuccessful attempt to bridge the gap was made today in a meeting at which NSA explained its position in detail. We believe the policy issue is headed next to the NSC. NSA is the agency pushing for strict control, State and Commerce appear to be on industry's side, and Defense has stated it has no wish to apply strict controls if the software is so widely available as to make controls of no real consequence from a national security perspective.

President

May 3, 1991

Governor John H. Sununu
Chief of Staff
The White House
Washington, DC 20500

Dear Governor Sununu:

During our meeting last week on the "fast track" legislation, you asked me to raise with you any major export policy issues where your personal attention would help sort things out and ensure that U.S. export interests were not shoved aside. I would like to take you up on this offer and bring to your attention two critical issues remaining in the COCOM Core List exercise. While several industry groups are generally quite pleased with the results of the effort, the two largest industry sectors affected by export controls--computers and telecommunications--are still facing major problems that if left unresolved could seriously undermine the basic goals set forth by the President when he announced the Core List initiative last summer. I believe your personal intervention will be necessary to resolve the current impasse.

One of the remaining critical issues is the treatment of computer systems with networking functions. These networking functions are now used in both computer and telecommunications applications. The Core List proposes to control computers on the basis of these networking functions which are widely available, routinely included in all major vendors' software packages, and part of internationally accepted standards and protocols. This proposal constitutes a major rollback or recontrol for computers and attempts to distinguish between computer and telecommunications equipment, an increasingly impossible task given the convergence of these modern technologies. This would have a devastating effect on American computer companies.

Our NAM Core List Working Group met with Allan Wendt of the State Department recently to discuss the only viable solution to this problem--elimination from all Core List categories of these networking functions as control criteria. He agreed, and indicated his intent to pursue this solution. We are concerned, however, with ensuring that this position is adopted in the interagency process. It is clear that there is no compromise solution that would solve the problem without discriminating between computer companies or unfairly burdening telecommunications manufacturers. We hope that you can help to ensure this outcome.

In the area of telecommunications, the U.S. and the COCOM allies have been deadlocked for months. Industry has provided the Administration with specific recommendations, generally forming a middle ground between original U.S. proposals and the more liberal European positions. Specifically, we would like to see the removal of all remaining COCOM approval requirements for telecommunications equipment exported to Poland, Hungary, and Czechoslovakia. For the Soviet Union, the most difficult issue has been with optical fiber transmission systems. To address the problem, we proposed following the precedent of "phased decontrol" as used in China years ago. This approach would permit higher-speed fiber systems only in urban "intra-city" applications, and on civilian international gateway links. In other technologies such as common channel signalling and microwave radio, industry supports similar proposals for phased decontrol.

We believe that our Western European allies are in basic agreement with the positions outlined above. A serious effort by the United States Government to move in this direction, therefore, is necessary to reach agreement in COCOM and to help ensure that the President's original goals for the Core List are achieved.

We would be happy to discuss these issues in greater detail at your convenience.

Sincerely,

Jerry J. Jasinowski

NETWORKING TALKING POINTS

Problem

- The US proposal would control wide area networking (WAN) products that are used globally in routine commercial applications and are so widely available that they cannot be effectively controlled.
- It would result in controlling computers that the USG says would be "liberalized" under CTP controls, meaning in effect that no liberalization occurs.
- Controlling these products on the basis of their potential use ("capability") would produce tighter controls at the same time the USG says these controls are decreasing.

Background, Availability, & Controllability

- Computer networks are used in civilian applications, including airline reservation systems, banking systems, light manufacturing, retail inventory control, and university data base systems.
- Most WAN software products are sold via worldwide mass market channels -- DEC alone has 350,000 DECNET licenses outstanding. The DECNET products were freely copied and distributed in the Bloc prior to 1990.
- Other WAN products, like TCP/IP, are freely copied and sent over "consumer" bulletin boards such as that of ham radio operators and through widespread distribution of Berkeley Unix code. TCP/IP is also imbedded in the IBM PS/2 and AS/400 computers and can easily be copied. These products are available from tens of thousands of retail outlets in non-proscribed countries.
- WAN access protocols, such as X.25, are international standards and are implemented, or are being implemented, in the USSR, PRC, and most of Eastern Europe. The USSR and Bulgaria have indigenous production capability.

Policy Considerations

- When the Core List began, the USG said that foreign availability and controllability would be primary factors in determining whether to control a product. We can document widespread availability, and due to the inherent nature of these products, they cannot be controlled.
- WAN controls will undermine the USG's stated goal of rebuilding economic infrastructures of these countries, since WAN's are vital to this goal.
- Initial customers for these products will be other Western companies investing in proscribed countries. They have hard currency and will want the standard of service they expect from computer companies.
- If COCOM restricts these products, there are many firms in non-COCOM countries who can fill the void.
- This is not a new issue. The business community has been voicing these concerns throughout the Core List exercise.

Solution: Based on these considerations, we conclude that there is no sound rationale for imposing controls on computer wide area networks.

Dear Andy:

Some time ago I sent you an article from an October issue of the official newspaper published in Tirana. It was about my grandmother, Rose Wilder Lane, and I was told that it was favorable.

Now I have the translation of the article and here it is. It's obvious that the Albanians still know of and respect her. But most interesting is the fact that this newspaper publishes nothing that the government does not approve--and for her name to appear favorably at the present time means, after many years of being considered an enemy of the State, that the Albanian government approves of her.

Might it not be that the government might also approve of her grandson as Ambassador, in view of the fact that they might consider--correctly--that I could be of some help in healing the wounds of the last half century?

All the best,

Foreigners Speak About Albania
"The Peaks of Shala" and Its People

Albania has drawn the attention of many scholars and travelers who in their journeys through our country have come to know the worldviews and the psychology of our courageous and patriotic people. One of them is Rose Wilder Lane, a writer and a scholar from California, USA. In 1922, she took a trip through Northern Albania and the Mati region, leaving for us some very interesting material, descriptions of her journey, later collected in one volume, The Peaks of Shala, published in 1922 by Harper's of New York. She left also additional informative material published in the magazine World Travelers, vol. XV, dated 3 March 1922, under the title "Unknown Albania"

The book is found in the library of the museum of Shkoder. It contains an interesting subject, and it is written in a pure and beautiful English, filled with youthful inspiration and attractive scenery. In the description, the author gives truthful slices of life, philosophy, psychology, and of the aspirations of Northern Albanians for their country. As she puts it, her journey through Albania was not planned, and oftentimes unplanned trips turn out to be most beautiful.

Initially, she was heading for Istanbul, after having finished her stay in Montenegro. Then, her two companions, Miss Betsy and Miss Cleveland suggested to take a trip through the Alps of Northern Albania, a country that would later inspire her, and offer her the chance of meeting a rare, noble, hospitable and chivalrous people. She decided, without any hesitation, to leave for Shala and to meet the Shala people of Albania.

From the initial contacts, the author is surprised at her immediate feeling of sympathy for the ancient Albanian race. She wrote : "What a lie it is! All this is the work of foreign propaganda. How can one say that Albanians are against civilization? And yet, one must admit, they have resisted the violent armed attacks for thousands of years...and have preserved their language and their ancient customs."

The author of the book is an artist at heart. She knows well the world history, literature and arts. Oftentimes, she describes the beautiful physical features of the Albanian race, as she observes in detail and with great joy, the different mountaineers, men and women, with whom she had the opportunity to meet during her trip.

She saw the woman from Pulti and compared her to the Rembrandt model.

The author, inspired by her trip in the heart of our mountains, expresses the attachment of a young lady for the land of the eagles. "My wish is to come back here and work, and live for Albania, by giving the warmth of my heart to this country."

Through the pages of this book we become acquainted with her companions in this trip that she calls "fantastic" going through those high and rugged mountains with breathtaking views "where one step separates us from heaven and the unexpected death, but in Albania of my guides I feel absolutely safe." She speaks with admiration for the little 12 years old boy, Rexh, the attractive young man from Shkoder who spoke English as if he were born in London, and whose intelligence amazed her. Whenever he spoke and discussed with the mountaineers as an adult, Rexh would transmit, thanks to his professional translation, a clear idea of what his interlocutors were saying in their very ancient idiom. The author understood the suffering of the Albanians, the injustices imposed upon them by the Great Powers, and concluded that this was a people who has the willingness to advance, to work and not to remain behind. She is impressed by the Albanians' desire to have their own Albanian schools. The great admiration for this people strengthened her will to overcome all the difficulties of the journey.

She admires the majestic mountains" among the most beautiful mountains of the world "and the picturesque landscape of Albania. In her book, she introduces us to many other guides, and speaks of them with respect and affection, such as for Rrok from Peja(Kosova) Qeremi, Mark, and also Lulash, the young and pleasant boy from Thethi, an intelligent young man (" he had never seen the sea, he had never been to the town of Shkoder, he had never left (the village of) Thethi, the mountains and the Alps where he was born.")

In her book, the author Rose Wilder Lane speaks very highly of the intelligence and the traditions of our people. She gives us a great amount of information about the customs, the rich folklore, the canon of the mountains, the hospitality, and the "besa" (the pledge). In the book we find also information on life in the town of Shkoder, a city of ancient culture and traditions. The reader becomes familiarized with many cultural aspects, as well as with the efforts of the mountaineers struggling for freedom and national and social emancipation, as well. (Gezim Oruci)

Dear Andy:

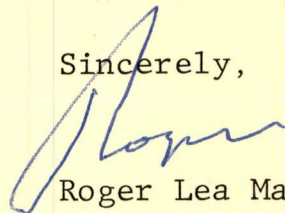

Further on the Albanian situation:

As you probably know, the United States and Albania are planning to restore diplomatic relations shortly. Here's a copy of an article from today's NEW YORK TIMES on the subject.

And here also is a copy of an article from the government paper in Tirana from last October. It is a favorable commentary on the activities of my grandmother, Rose Wilder Lane, in Albania during the 1920s. They've even altered her name as you'll see to an Albanian version! I presume that's complimentary to her. It might imply that if the first Ambassador in half a century to Albania were her grandson, that it would be taken as a mark of good will from the United States to that country.

Anything further you can do in this regard would be most appreciated.

Sincerely,

Roger Lea MacBride

Të huajt për Shqipërinë

«Majat e Shalës» dhe njerëzit e saj

Shqipëria ka tërhequr vëmendjen e shumë studiuesve dhe udhëtarëve të ndryshëm, që gjatë ekspeditave janë njohur edhe me botën e me psikologjinë e popullit tonë trim dhe atdhetar. Ndër ta bën pjesë edhe Roza Uajlnder Lejn, shkrimtare dhe studiuese nga Kalifornia e SHBA. Në vitin 1922 ajo ndërmoi një udhëtim nëpër Shqipërinë e Veriut dhe në Mat, duke na lënë një material mjaft interesant për këto udhëtime, që e përmbledhi në librin «The peaks of Shala», «Majat e Shalës», të botuar në vitin 1922 nga shtëpia botuese Harper's e Nju - Jorkut, si dhe një material informativ në revistën «World Graves», vëllimi-XV, 3 mars 1922, me titull: «Shqipëria e panjohur», «Unknoron Albania».

Libri ndodhet në fondin e muzeut popullor në Shkodër. Është mjaft interesant, me një stil dhe gjuhë angleze të pastër, plot frymëzim rinor e skenë tërheqëse. Ka 224 faqe, me ilustrime. Në përshkrimet e saj autorja na jep me vërtetësi jetën, botëkuptimin, psikologjinë dhe aspiratat e shqiptarëve të Veriut për lirinë e vendit. Siç thotë edhe ajo vetë, udhëtimin në Shqipëri e bëri të paplanifikuar dhe shpesh udhëtimet spontane janë më të bukura. Ajo ishte nisur për në një udhëtim në Stamboll, pasi kishte mbaruar një tjetër në Mal të Zi, kur dy shoqet e saj Miss Beci dhe Miss Klivlend, i propozuan për një udhëtim në malet e Shqipërisë Veriore, një vend që do ta mbushte me frymëzim e ku do të prezantohej me një popull të rrallë e fisnik, mikpritës e të besës. Ajo vendosi kështu të nisej menjëherë për t'u njohur me Shalën dhe shaljanët e Shqipërisë.

Që në fillim të udhëtimit autorja befasohet dhe ndjen simpati për racën e lashtë shqiptare. Ajo thekson: «Sa gënjeshtëri! Këto i bën propaganda e huaj, si mund të thotë njeriu se shqiptarët rrinë kundër qytetërimit? Duhet thënë se ka kundërqëndruar, një sulm të egër me armë për mijëra vjet... dhe ka mbajtur gjuhën e zakonit e tija të hershme...».

Autorja e librit është me shpirt artisteje, ajo e njeh mirë historinë e letërsisë e të artit botëror. Shpesh përshkruan bukuritë fizike të racës shqiptare, duke vërejtur me hollësi dhe kënaqësi, tipat e ndryshëm malësorë e malësorë me të cilët i binte rasti të takohesh gjatë udhëtimit.

Figurën e gruas nga Pulti e quan model rembrandian.

Autorja, e frymëzuar nga udhëtimi në zemër të maleve tona, shpreh simpatinë e një vajeze të re për vendin e shqiptarëve: «Dëshira e ime është të vi e të punoj, e të rroj për Shqipërinë, duke siguruar aktivitetin e zemrës sime për këtë vend».

Në faqet e librit lexuesi njihet edhe me shoqëruesit e saj në këtë udhëtim, të cilin e quan fantastik, në ato male të lartë e të thepisur, me një panoramë magjepsëse, «ku një hap na ndante nga qielli dhe vdekja e papritur, por ku në Shqipërinë e shoqëruesve të mi ndihesha tepër e sigurtë». Ajo të flet me simpati për djalin e vogël 12-vjeçar, Rexhepin, shkodranin simpatik i cili e njihte anglishten sikur të kishte lindur në Londër dhe e çudit autorin me inteligjencien e tij. Kur kuvendonte dhe diskutonte me malësorët si i rritur, nëpërmjet përkthimit me kompetencë të jepte një ide të qartë të asaj që shprehnin ata me gjuhën e tyre të stërlashtë. Ajo njeh vuajtjet e shqiptarëve, padrejtësitë që u janë bërë nga fuqitë e mëdha dhe e vlerëson si një popull që ka vullnet të përparojë, të punojë, të mos mbesë prapa popujve të tjerë dhe thekson dëshirën e madhe të tyre për shkollat shqipe. Simpatia për të e bën këtë udhëtarë të papërkulur edhe përpara vështirësive të rrugës. Ajo admiron malet madhështore, «nga më të bukurit e dheut», natyrën piktoreske të Shqipërisë. Në libër ajo të prezanton dhe me shumë shoqërues të tjerë, të cilët i përshkruan plot respekt dhe dashuri, si Rrokun nga Peja e Kosovës, Qeremih, Markun e deri tek Lulashi simpatik i Thethit, një djalë inteligjent («ai nuk kishte parë asnjëherë det me sy, ai nuk kishte shkuar asnjëherë në Shkodër, ai nuk ishte larguar asnjëherë nga Thethi, mali e bjeshkët ku kishte lindur»).

Në libër autorja Lejn vlerëson inteligjencën dhe traditën e popullit tonë dhe jep të dhëna të ndryshme për zakonet, folklorin e pasur, kanunin e maleve, mikpritjen dhe besën. Aty ka të dhëna dhe për jetën në qytetin e Shkodrës, një qytet me kulturë të lashtë dhe me tradita kulturore. Lexuesi njihet me shumë aspekte të kulturës dhe të përpjekjeve të malësorëve për liri dhe emancipim kombëtar e shoqëror.

GEZIM URUÇI

U.S. and Albania to Restore Full Links

By DAVID BINDER

Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, March 12 — The United States will resume full diplomatic relations with Albania on Friday, ending 52 years of nonrecognition, American and Albanian officials announced today.

Administration officials said Foreign Minister Muhamet I. Kapllani was flying to Washington to take part in the formal act of diplomatic recognition with Assistant Secretary of State Raymond G. H. Seitz.

Months will pass before a United States ambassador to Tirana is named and still more time before an American embassy begins functioning in the Albanian capital, an Administration official said.

But the Bush Administration has concluded that it is desirable to act now because "we want to get engaged in the democratic process in Albania," the official said and because the Communist Government of President Ramiz Alia "is at least attempting reform."

'Greater Engagement' Urged

On March 31, Albania is to hold its first multiparty elections since the Communists seized power in late 1944.

The Administration official said the State Department would send a small group of American diplomats to Tirana to become acquainted with the situation before the elections. Since early December, Albania, a country of 3.5 million, has been swept by waves of unrest marked by popular demonstrations against the Communist system.

Richard A. Boucher, a State Department spokesman, said the turmoil called for "greater engagement, not less" by the United States. He also cited humanitarian concerns. There is currently a food shortage in Albania.

The United States and Albania had close ties before World War II. Americans of Albanian origin returned to the Balkans in 1912 to help establish the first Albanian Government. President Wilson was credited with having been the most powerful defender of Albania's territorial integrity in international councils immediately after World War I, when Italy, Yugoslavia and Greece vied to seize chunks of the country. There was also an American teachers college in Albania.

U.S. Reviled as Evil

Diplomatic ties between Washington and Tirana were severed in June 1939 after Italy's invasion of Albania. An informal American observer mission was sent to Tirana in 1945 to explore resumption of relations. The Communist Government refused to honor prewar treaties and harassed the members of the mission so much that they were withdrawn in November 1946.

The Albanian Government resumed diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union last year, after a break of 29 years. Albania and China have also agreed to increase trade and economic cooperation as part of Albania's effort to improve its international ties, and Albania has obtained observer status at the Helsinki talks in Europe, which emphasize human rights.

Until a little more than a year ago, the Communist Government regularly reviled the United States as an evil superpower bent on subjugating small countries like Albania. In fact, in the early 1950's, the United States was actively engaged in a plot to overthrow the Albanian Communists with paramilitary forces.

Talks on renewing ties were begun last summer and were virtually concluded in September. But senior State Department officials objected to moving ahead on the ground that human-rights abuses were continuing in Albania, causing the project to be delayed.

Political Prisoners Pardoned

VIENNA, March 12. (Reuters) — The Albanian Government said today that it had pardoned all the country's remaining political prisoners.

"Following this pardon, there are no more political prisoners in re-education centers and prisons in Albania," the said Albanian radio, monitored by the BBC.

The report did not say how many people were affected by the pardon. The International Helsinki Federation, a human rights monitoring group, estimated that there were 200 political prisoners in Albania's jails.

May be gone
by now.

Dear Andy,

Rather than do nothing and wait around for Bill Well to call me I'm heading off to the Far East, specifically Taiwan, Philippines and Thailand, look for markets for Massachusetts companies and their products. I will leave in mid-May and be over there for 6-8 weeks.

It would be most helpful if I could meet with the U.S. Ambassadors to those respective countries. Could you help me arrange that before I leave? Such a meeting would make the trip very productive.

Whatever you could do in the midst of your very busy schedule I would most appreciate.

I hope you get a chance to enjoy the spring

Stand Up and Pledge

"I pledge allegiance to the flag..." are the words heard throughout the school at quarter to eight, every morning, Monday through Friday. Mr. Mahanor speaks the words with dignity, proudly confessing his devotion to the United States of America. He can be heard clearly over the silence or the whispers that fill most classrooms. His words resound while students are on their feet, some with hands to heart, listening but not saying a word.

Holbrook High would be an ideal setting for a modern, patriotic film—except for one thing. Students in only two or three classrooms are "pledging" along with our gallant leader. The ones who do are directed or ordered to by the homeroom teacher.

The majority of classes are silent during, or oblivious to, the "ceremony," not thinking of those who fought—so recently—for our nation, our freedom. Maybe they're worrying about unfinished homework, an unstudied for test.

My homeroom is in the silent classification, but I'd like to see it be one of respectability. I can honestly say that I would like to state my dedication to my country, along with Mr. Mahanor, but it would be hard to recite alone. Instead, I and a few others, stand straight, silent, hand on heart, eyes on flag, saying it "to ourselves."

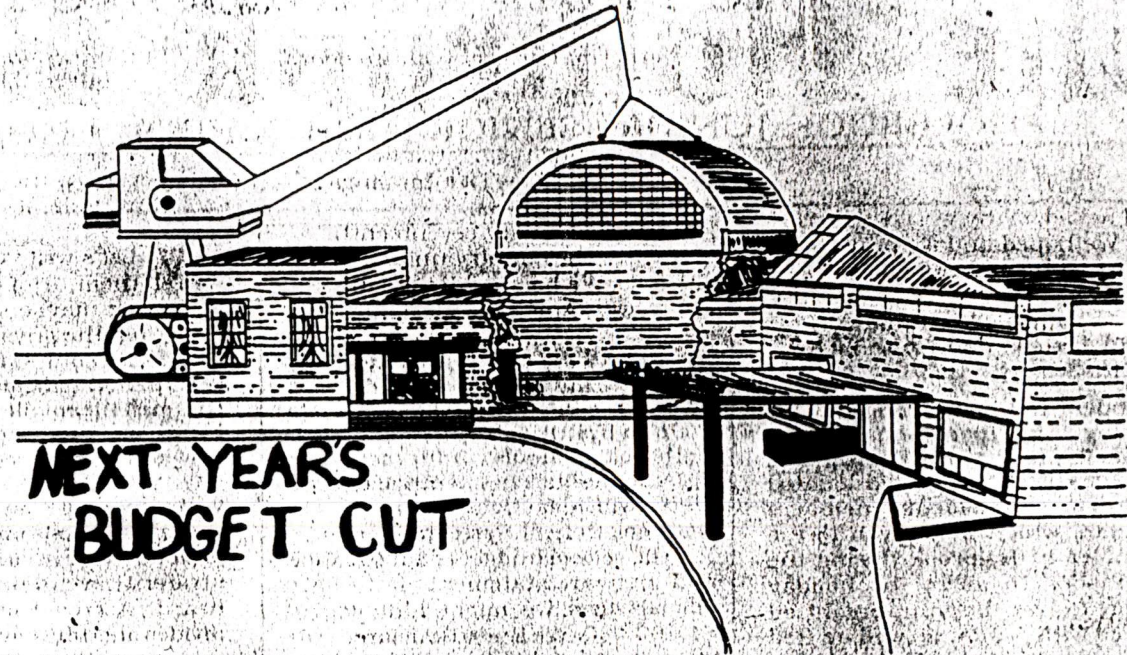

What's the problem with being proud of America? It's a wonderful place to live. We've got freedom; we've got rights. Problems? Yes. Still, it's the best country on Earth.

Let's make it our responsibility, our moral code to say the words, be proud of the words. Think about what living here means. Then let's stand up straight, hand on heart, eyes on our nation's symbol and pledge our loyalty, our faith—our allegiance—out loud.

of the students?

"These cuts have gone so deeply into the heart of the school system that we are on the edge of dismantling important aspects of education in Holbrook. All categories of programs will be affected, including special education."

2. What programs will be cut?

"The things that will be hit severely are classroom teachers, transportation, art and music; extracurricular and athletics could have some difficulty."

"The word 'possible' should go before everything I have mentioned, seeing that nothing can happen without the vote of the School Committee."

3. Do you think funding would become available?

"I'm optimistic, and I believe the School Committee make possible cuts in January."

5. Would there be an override and, if so, when?

"I believe there will be an effort for an override, and I predict it will happen in June."

6. What will happen in June if the override passes? If it doesn't?

"We will approach the override reasonably; there are too many tasks to do before June. Also the Persian Gulf hostilities have been lifted which will help. Spring will be here, which will help. It is difficult right now to think of an override. We hope to get some programs back. If the override is defeated, people will expect us to do our best. The School Committee would do their best to keep things moving along for as long as we are able to."

Dear Mr. ~~Card~~, Andy -

Pursuant to the conversation between my friend, Charles Monahan, and Ms. Linda Casey of your office, please find enclosed a copy of his letter to me.

I have known Charlie for a good number of years and have been aware of his interest in mass transit for a long time.

As you may know, the Scituate to Braintree/Boston link (Greenbush Line) has caused much controversy in my district. While the populus wants mass transit there is much conflict as to what kind, especially as to the potential damage that train service would cause. Charlie's suggestion makes sense as a reasonable alternative. His ideas could make great savings in the project development and also help maintain and or create local jobs. That would be the best of combinations.

I am sending this to you for your information as well as your possible assistance with Secretary Skinner of the Department of transportation problems. The idea for a bus alternative would be an less expensive and more efficient answer to the above problem.

Thank you for your help and I will keep you advised of our project.

Dear Representative Murray,

Pursuant to our recent conversations, here are some of my perceptions concerning the potential benefits of bus utilization rather than trains on the Old Colony Line.

1) The cost of both establishing and maintaining a bus alternative should be considerably cheaper especially considering the current existing need for buses for regular routes and the difference could be reflecting in the fare box.

2) The use of buses permits far greater latitude and flexibility for both scheduling and routing and by reason thereof expanding bus routes could permit more commuters to be less car dependent on the South East Expressway.

3) Expanded bus routes should enable potential customers from Boston and the South Shore to more easily reach local malls and stores.

4) South Shore buses could continue through the South Station terminals carrying riders directly to areas such as the State House or Prudential Center without the necessity of having to change vehicles.

5) Noise, air and other types of pollution could be more readily controlled.

6) With the increase in bus service more jobs would be saved/created for the MBTA since in house remanufactured of existed units could be utilized, as you know.

7) High density congested areas could be avoided by routing schedules especially during peak hours even with express service and other options.

8) The buses could be utilized for other routes and charters as necessary during non rush hour periods enhancing MBTA efficiency and cost effectiveness.

9) Buses do not require long start and braking sequences permitting the direct route buses to reach Boston faster than trains

10) The MBTA periodically needs new buses anyway so this solution solves many problems, as well as helping to alleviate the employment situation.

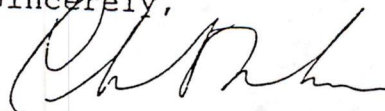

By paving over the Old Colony roadbeds for exclusive direct and local bus use, all current options are expanded and new opportunities arise with much less difficulties for abutters. In fact abutters may benefit from the increased transit services as a selling point should the decide to move.

As you know, I have a reasonable and much cheaper alternative to purchasing new buses which could create and/or retain jobs here in Massachusetts. The MBTA could have a completely modern and uniform bus fleet within a 4-5 year time frame and do it all "in house". The cost, which would probably be less than fifty percent of the purchase price of new buses would, in large part, be paid to Massachusetts workers as wages.

Since this is a Federal and State project involving a considerable amount of money, those funds should be more wisely spent in using twentieth century technology as a solution rather than one from the nineteenth which trains represent.

Massachusetts should be and is capable of taking care of its own problems. The bus alternative should be a transportation cornerstone in this evolution. More jobs, and less costly and more efficient commuting is possible for fewer dollars from the tax payers, and riders by using buses.

Sincerely,

Charles O. Monahan, J.D., MBA

Dear Andy:

Sincere thanks for the photographs of the President.
Rick Clancy, the mildly retarded individual who works at City

It is really great to see the President riding so high in the public opinion polls. The job that was done in the Persian Gulf was outstanding. All of the Boston cops I know are extremely proud of their early support of the President.

Of course fame is fleeting, especially in the world of politics. I suppose it won't be long before the euphoria of the great victory subsides. As a matter of fact, the radio talk shows here in Boston are already starting to harp on the economy and related matters. As you know, things are particularly bad in this area. Here in Marshfield there are over 400 houses for sale and very few are selling. Layoffs are taking place on a regular basis and I have observed in my own office the results of men laid off and unable to pay mortgages. I am confident that the President will take aim on these issues in the very near future and achieve the same results as those achieved in the Gulf. Needless to say, I am prepared to help in any effort that may be undertaken at any time.

By way of a further request, I would appreciate two additional photos of the President and, if possible, photos of him in his Navy flight jacket. I would like one for Captain Jack McElroy, U.S.M.C. Jack is the oldest son of my sister and a career marine. He arrived in the Persian Gulf last August and is still there, having seen a fair share of action and the taking of six Iraqi prisoners. He is a marine aviator who switched to the infantry for career broadening reasons. He is a great admirer of the President and would be elated to receive a picture. If possible I would like to have it inscribed "To Capt. Jack McElroy". The second picture is one I would like for my own office. Hopefully it could be addressed personally to me.

Again, please feel free to call upon me for any assistance that might be needed in terms of leg work, contacts or organization. In other words, I am just about ready for another campaign.

Re: Black Medal of Honor ceremony April 24

On April 24 the President is scheduled to present the Congressional Medal of Honor to the surviving sisters of Black WWI hero Freddy Stowers of South Carolina. To date no Black has been awarded the Medal for service in WWI or WWII. This has a lot of symbolic significance in the Black community (which is why the President is personally presenting the Medal.) I am told your Army attache is handling the WH details. Gen. Donald Jones USA is in charge at the Pentagon end (697 4166).

The pressure on DOD to award the Medal to Blacks in WWI and WWII began in Congress about 1986. Rep. Joe DioGuardi (R-NY) and the late Rep. Mickey Leland (D-TX) rounded up almost 200 liberal and conservative Members on a petition to DoD to reopen the cases of two Blacks who appeared to have deserved the Medal but who never got it. These were Sgt. Henry Johnson of NY (WWI) and Seaman Dorrie Miller of Texas (WWII).

As a result of this pressure, which continued even though Leland died and DioGuardi was defeated in 1988, DOD has finally come around, although their candidate for the Medal is not one of the two that Leland/DioGuardi promoted. Ironically, DOD appears to be crediting Frank Carlucci with being the guy who set this award in motion, when in fact Carlucci dismissed the Leland/DioGuardi initiative out of hand. It is quite possible that DoD/DoA did not like the insistent interest from Leland/DioGuardi on this question, and is not particularly interested in letting them share in the honor of the occasion.

My REQUEST, as a friend of Joe DioGuardi's, is that the White House invite Joe and Mickey Leland's widow Alison to the presentation ceremony on April 24. Neither wants to make a speech, but they deserve to be in the audience when the President takes this important symbolic action. It is the right thing to do, and doesn't cost anyone anything.

Joseph J. DioGuardi, 50 Baraud rd., Scarsdale NY 10583 914 472 6872

Alison Leland - don't know her address but Black Caucus office could surely produce it. They have a five year old son.

Dr. Leroy Ramsey, a distinguished retired Black NYU professor who has been a consultant to the Pentagon on Black service history, and who did much of the archival work on the Stowers case, also ought to be invited, although DoD may not have included his name on the manifest: 257 Osborne Rd., Albany NY 12211, 518 458 9095.

Thanks for your consideration of this.

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

January 29, 1991

Dear Joe:

On November 16, I was pleased to sign into law, H.R. 5687, the Chief Financial Officers Act of 1990. This legislation creates a new Deputy Director of OMB for Management, and statutory Chief Financial Officers in all the major agencies of the government.

I suppose that everyone who has worked on the issue of Federal financial management improvement recalls how hard you worked, starting back in 1986, to persuade Congress that the steps authorized by H.R. 5687 were badly needed. As a Certified Public Accountant you understood the need to strengthen the systems that provide the President, the Congress, and the American people with the information necessary to make informed decisions on how public funds are spent.

Now, Joe, your hard work has been vindicated by passage of the CFO Act by the House and Senate, and by its being signed into law. I regret only that you were not in the House to take part first hand in the ultimate passage of this important piece of legislation.

Barbara joins me in wishing you our best for your continuing success.

Sincerely,

The Honorable Joseph J. DioGuardi

Dear Andy:

Senator Lugar will be travelling to Europe at the end of April and the beginning of May on Foreign Relations Committee business. He will be visiting Germany and a number of the East European countries as well as the Baltic states. During the recent Senate leadership luncheon for the Polish President, Lech Walesa suggested that Senator Lugar adjust his itinerary so that he might participate in the Polish national holiday on May 3, 1991, celebrating the Bicentennial of the Polish Constitution.

The Senator would be inclined to adjust his schedule accordingly if in fact he could make a contribution on behalf of the United States to the Polish festivities. With that in mind, I am writing to inquire as to whether the White House would be inclined to consider the appointment of the Senator as the President's representative to the Bicentennial celebration of the Polish Constitution on May 3. The Senator has represented numerous Presidents and the country on a number of occasions abroad in the past.

It would be particularly useful to the achievement of the Senator's trip objectives to Poland if such a designation were forthcoming and he were able to participate in the May 3 celebrations in Warsaw as the President's representative.

I look forward to your response on this matter.

Sincerely,
