The Honorable Edward M. Rogers, Jr.
Deputy Assistant to the President and Executive Assistant to the Chief of Staff
The White House
Washington, D.C. 20500

Dear Mr. Rogers:

Thank you for speaking with me earlier this morning. Enclosed is a brief biographical sketch along with my resume. I am confident that I can make a contribution to the Administration in meeting the challenges ahead.

Should you like to see any writing samples please do not hesitate to ask. I would also be happy to provide any references that might be helpful.

Again, thank you for your interest. I look forward to speaking with you again.

Sincerely,

My desire to make a contribution to the political life of our country has its roots deep in my youth. Although circumstance did not allow me to take the most direct route to Washington, I came here a year ago to begin my effort to make an impact on the national life of the country I so deeply love.

My path here has been circuitous. Circumstance did not allow me to leave high school and go directly to college. I first had the opportunity to spend time in the business and financial world, a period of my life which gave me a hands-on appreciation for the engine which helps drive our nation.

But my eye never strayed from the goal I had set for myself in my earliest years. Five years ago I put aside the security of my business career to strike out on a new path which I hoped would lead me to Washington and the fulfillment of my long-held goal. I arrived on Capitol Hill a year ago, having earned my B.A. in History and my M.A. in International Affairs in the intervening four years, and fresh from a summer spent as Editorial Consultant to former President Nixon for his book, In the Arena: A Memoir of Victory, Defeat and Renewal.

Since coming to Washington in August 1989 I have been the Budget Staff Associate and a legislative aide to Congressman Dean A. Gallo (R-NJ-11). As Mr. Gallo's Budget Committee staff associate my responsibilities encompass all of the Congressman's Budget Committee personal staff work, including hearings briefings, analysis of various proposals, and preparation of hearings questions and statements.

As a legislative assistant I currently cover banking, foreign affairs, housing, judiciary, and tax issues. My legislative duties include briefing the Congressman on pending legislation and current trends, writing floor statements, assisting in the preparation of speeches and press statements, representing the Congressman in meetings with constituents and lobbyists, and answering correspondence to the Congressman on these topics. I have also served as acting press secretary in his absence.

Earlier this year I had an extraordinary opportunity with former President Nixon. At President Nixon's request, Congressman Gallo granted me a partial three month leave of absence, so that I could serve as the former President's Special Consultant for the Nixon Library and Birthplace. I spent Monday through Thursday at the former President's offices in Woodcliff Lake, New Jersey and returned to my duties with the Congressman on Friday (and usually Saturday) in Washington.

Bostock

During the twelve weeks I spent on this project, my responsibilities included writing museum text, liaison with the museum design team in New York, photo selection, and video review. I wrote the exhibit text for the following exhibits: 1968 campaign, the Soviet Union, Vietnam, the Middle East, Drugs, Crime, the Economy, the White House Staff and Cabinet, the Vice Presidency, the Supreme Court, the 1972 Campaign, and Watergate.

As I mentioned at the beginning of this sketch, my route to Washington was somewhat untraditional. Immediately after graduating from high school I went to work. After a stint with Dean Witter Reynolds in New York City, I joined Columbia Savings and Loan Association in Fair Lawn, New Jersey as a teller.

Within a short time I had worked myself into branch management. By 1983 I had been named an officer and the manager of a $90 million branch with fifteen full-time employees [I should note that Columbia was one of three thrifts in New Jersey to fully comply with the FIRREA standards when they went into effect].

My interest in politics first found its expression in 1972 as a fourteen-year-old telephone bank volunteer for the Bergen County Committee to Re-elect the President. I continued to be active in local campaigns, and was, for a time, the youngest Republican County Committeeman in the State of New Jersey. I was the Republican nominee for Fair Lawn Borough Council in 1978 (at age 20) and again in 1982.

It was clear to me that if I was to realize my goal of coming to Washington I would have to further my education. In 1985, with the full support of my wife (and despite the fact we had a mortgage to pay), I left the bank to attend Drew University full-time (Drew has recently received national attention with the selection of its new president, former NJ Governor Tom Kean). I completed my BA in History (Political Science minor) in three years, summa cum laude. I was elected to the National Political Science and the International History honor societies and made Dean's List each semester.

Drew awarded me a full scholarship in their Masters program in International Affairs (a one-year program). As the Robert Smith Scholar I received my M.A. in May 1989, having earned the Kenneth Thompson Book award for best student in the program and the McMinn Award for the best Masters thesis.

Before graduation I secured the position with Congressman Gallo that brought me to Washington last August.

My wife Mary and I have been married for nearly nine years. She works for the Republican National Committee as a computer programmer-analyst.

Dear Mr. Card:

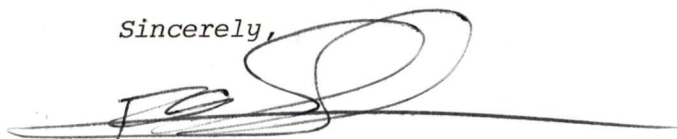

Thank you very much for your timely response to my recent letter and your words of encouragement. I really do appreciate your personal interest in my situation and hope that your interest will result in a positive conclusion to my quest for a D. C. reassignment/relocation.

I have recently been interviewed for positions in the Washington, D. C. Area Office of HUD and have also applied for the position of Deputy Manager of the Richmond, Virginia Office. Each of these positions I would gladly accept, however as I have noted before, it is extremely difficult coming from a small office in New England.

Enclosed is an article published in the summer edition of the New England Assisted Housing Management Association Newsletter. I am forwarding it to you merely to illustrate a bit of my background if I have not previously provided it to you.

Once again, thanks for your personal attention in this matter. Hopefully one day when I am on duty in D. C. I will be able to say thanks on a more personal basis.

Sincerely,

NEAHMA Profile: FRANCIS GROS LOUIS

by: Donna Headrick, ASC Computer Systems

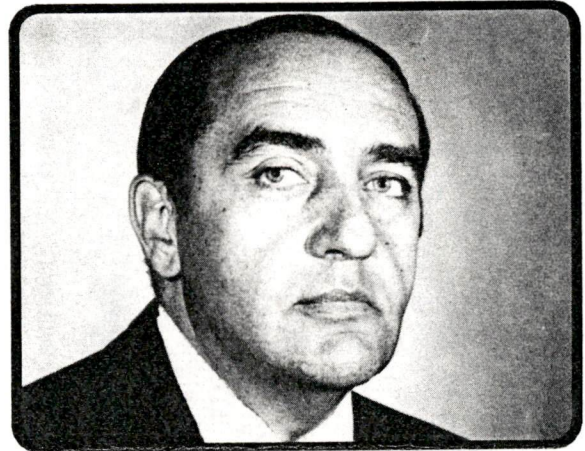

The Loan Management Branch of the Manchester, New Hampshire HUD offices quietly oversees over 600 assisted housing projects ranging from elderly, nursing homes, state agency projects to multi-family units. Heading that branch, also quietly, is a remarkable man.

Francis Gros Louis (and his last name is "Gros Louis" no hyphen, both names capitalized) is a member of the Huron Wendat Nation of Laoretteville, Canada, whose current chief is his grandfather's brother. Proud of his Indian and New England heritage, Mr. Gros Louis is the author of "A Small Town Hick and Proud of It," and a soon to be published Indian cookbook.

A twenty year HUD veteran, Francis graduated from Boston College with a degree in Public Administration, spent four years in Strategic Air Command Intelligence (SAC) doing Russian Transliterations on aerial charts and then returned home to New Hampshire to run a family owned textile company from 1955 to 1970. During that time he was civically active as a selectman, Vice President of the NH Municipal Association, and had his family and lifestyle rewarded by being named the New Hampshire All-American Family representing their state at the National pageant in Florida. During this period he also was the recipient of a White House Citation for saving a young boy's life and the Sears Foundation Conservation Award for published writings.

The last two years of his textile business career were spent lobbying in Washington against foreign imports which was ultimately not successful and company closed. Francis recalled a speech given by President Nixon during which the President indicated that he thought workers displaced by foreign imports should have a high priority for employment.

Going straight to the top, pen in hand, he said: "Dear Mr. President..." Two weeks later, a letter arrived from George Romney who was HUD Secretary at the time inviting him to test for a HUD position and two months later he was employed. The last twenty years have provided experiences ranging from Code Officer to his current position as Chief of the Loan Management Branch in Manchester, but Francis describes his most regarding period as being the seven years he spent working out of the Denver Regional office as an Indian Programs Officer.

"It was a thoroughly exciting time...I got to see an entirely different side of life." During one visit to a reservation, he stopped at a home of an elderly couple who invited him in for dinner. Dinner was a stew from a kettle hanging over a fire in a dirt floored home with two sleeping blankets laying in the corner. Describing the experience as one that was humbling, this HUD representative began a program called "Operation Clothesline." Soliciting the assistance of readers of metropolitan newspapers all over the country, this program to date has delivered over nine tons of clothing to Indian families in his service area.

Citing the increasingly transient nature of our society, Francis describes phone calls from families who have arrived in New England from Tennessee having heard of employment possibilities but with no place to live but their automobiles. "And we have waiting lists of three years."

During a methodical career, Francis Gros Louis of Manchester has been nominated for the HUD Distinguished Service Award, The Presidential Management Improvement Award and earned fourteen out of twenty Outstanding Performance Annual Awards. In 1988 he received the New Hampshire Federal Executive Association President's Award for outstanding lifelong community service, and in 1989 received a cash award and Commendation for a suggestion improving the accountability of the single Family Property Disposition Program. Still enthusiastic, he is especially pleased with the choice of Jack Kemp as HUD Secretary saying: "If you hear him speak once and you don't commit yourself to excellence, you weren't listening."

Dear MR. CARD,

I HOPE THAT YOU AND GOVERNOR SUMNU ARE WELL AND NOT TOO OVERWORKED. THANK GOD FOR YOUR SERVICE TO THE PRESIDENT.

IN THE THREE MONTHS SINCE WE MET I HAVE STAYED IN TOUCH WITH LINDA AND ALSO WITH RON KAUFMAN. ON THAT DAY YOU QUESTIONED ME ABOUT MY TIME FRAME FOR WORK AND I TOLD YOU THAT I WOULD WAIT FOR SOMETHING TO OPEN UP. THIS DESIRE OF MINE TO SERVE AT THE WHITE HOUSE GREW FROM THE ENCOURAGEMENT OF MOTHER TERESA, AND REMAINS MY HOPE. HOWEVER, AFTER NEARLY TWO FULL YEARS OF VOLUNTEER WORK FOR MOTHER, FIRST IN MEXICO AND NOW IN THE AIDS HOME IN WASHINGTON, MY FINANCIAL RESOURCES ARE DWINDLING AND I HAVE RESPONSIBILITIES TO MY OWN MOTHER, AND SO YOU CAN SEE THAT I AM NOT IN A POSITION TO WAIT INDEFINITELY. I DID NOT EXPECT TO BE HIRED BY THE WHITE HOUSE IN FEBRUARY WHEN GOVERNOR SUMNU RECEIVED MOTHER TERESA'S LETTER, OR EVEN BY NOW FOR THAT MATTER! BUT I AM HOPEFUL THAT YOU WILL BE ABLE TO GIVE ME A SENSE OF YOUR PLANS WITH RESPECT TO MY APPLICATION FOR EMPLOYMENT. PLEASE BE ASSURED OF MY GRATITUDE FOR THE TIME YOU HAVE TAKEN TO CONSIDER ME FOR WORK AT THE WHITE HOUSE, AND ALSO OF MY PROMISE NOT TO CRY (TOO MUCH!) IF YOU DON'T FEEL THERE IS A PLACE FOR ME THERE. TO ME IT IS AN HONOR THAT MY APPLICATION IS STILL BEING CONSIDERED — AND I REITERATE

My Hope TO Repay your kindness with some Humble work on my part. I wish THAT I could wait indefinitely BUT THE Realities OF Two years without ANY income ARE setting in! IT HAS BEEN my privilege TO serve THE Missionaries OF Charity AND Mother Teresa AND Her poor, AND now I MUST RETURN AT Some point FAIRly soon TO THE work world.

I look Forward TO Any guidance - or good news - THAT you MAY be ABle TO OFFER. I would BE Happy TO come in AT Any time TO TALK THIS over - THE WASH. POST ARTICLE SAID you were A workaholic, so I CAN STroll over THERE AT midnight, if you like.

John L. Baker President

John L. Baker is president of the 300,000-member Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association, having been elected to that post in May of 1977. Baker is also president of the International Council of Aircraft Owners & Pilot Associations (IAOPA) through which he represents 355,000 pilots in 32 countries.

A decorated U.S. Air Force fighter pilot who earned the Distinguished Flying Cross and other air decorations during the Korean War, Baker was 15 when he learned to fly, and has since logged more than 12,000 hours. He holds a commercial license with single-, multi-engine land, seaplane, and instrument ratings.

Baker graduated with honors from the Creighton University School of Law where he earned his Doctor of Jurisprudence degree. Baker then began his civilian government service as an aviation trial attorney in the U.S. Department of Justice. From there he moved to the U.S. Senate, first as an assistant to a U.S. Senator, and then as minority counsel for a subcommittee of the U.S. Senate Judiciary Committee.

Baker has served as an Assistant Administrator for Congressional Relations at the Federal Aviation Administration and then moved to a similar position at the Department of Transportation. He subsequently returned to FAA as Assistant Administrator for General Aviation.

Baker has also held an executive position with Grumman Aircraft Corporation, and immediately prior to joining AOPA, Baker was Executive Director, Federal and Public Affairs of the Air Line Pilots Association, involved in the union's political, Congressional, public relations, and air safety activities.

Baker has received numerous awards for his achievements in aviation, including being named aviation man of the year in 1983. He is the recipient of an honorary Doctorate in Aviation Management from Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University, and is listed in Who's Who in America as well as Who's Who in Aviation. Baker is considered the premier spokesman for general aviation.

Honorable Andy H. Card, Jr.
Assistant to the President and
Deputy to the Chief of Staff
The White House

Dear Mr. Card:

This is a very difficult letter for me to write based upon my lifelong, conservative Republicanism and my level of respect and admiration for Governor Sununu, however I would like to respond to your earlier note and your letter of May 23, 1990.

As you are aware, it is very difficult under the terms of the Hatch Act to actively engage in partisan politics. As a result of this a federal employee such as myself can only look back upon previous years of conservative Republican activism with some degree of pride and knowledge that many, many hours were spent on behalf of candidates of our choice. However, that doesn't appear to score very well years later when one attempts to seek the support of his Party and particularly his Presidents Administration. Do not interpret this as a criticism of Governor Sununu, yourself, or the Administration. It is merely fact based upon my experiences of the past 18 months in which, despite the assistance of Governor Sununu, yourself, and others, I have been unable to obtain a relatively simply request, a reassignment/transfer to the D. C. area.

My knowledge of the inner workings of the bureaucracy has only furthered my frustration. Thanks to Governor Sununu I was able to come to D. C. at my own expense for an interview with OMB and really thought this would materialize, however, despite what was termed by the Director of Planning as an outstanding interview, nothing ever happened. Then I received a letter from Congressman Douglas of my District that he could not help me as, "As you know, I have tried, but given the fact that John Sununu personally wanted to clear anyone from the New England area, it appeared to be an uphill battle." Compounding this was information I received from some very good friends at HUD Headquarters noting that my "identification" with this Administration rather than the former campaign of the HUD Secretary would impact negatively upon my chances with HUD. Then I received your letter of May 23rd which appeared to indicate that, despite my qualifications or recommendations, my Administration/Party was telling me I was on my own. Mr. Card, this hurts just a little believe me!

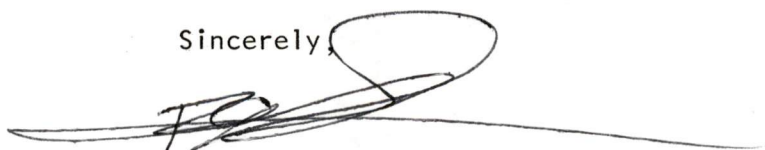

I guess this week was the final crusher for me when I received the news clipping I have taken the liberty of xeroxing on this page. The individual named in this news item is a lifelong, financial contributor, to every liberal Democratic Candidate in the state of Colorado. She has been a well known, outspoken vocal critic of the past and this Administration, and as a Lt. Commander in the Naval Reserve openly told associates in the Denver Office that Gary Hart's election to the White House a few years ago would have meant her appointment as the first Secretary of the Navy. This is not a normal run of the mill Democrat, but a ultra-liberal, outspoken critic of everything our Administration stands for. However, ~~she~~ she has been appointed to an important position as the Manager of an important HUD Office right in the President's home state!

Mr. Card, please don't take my ramblings too seriously. I guess this letter is just a culmination of 18 months of frustration, anxiety, and disappointment. I remain, and always will be, a conservative Republican ready to campaign when called upon, ready to contribute to the extent of our financial capability when called upon, and ready to extoll the virtues of people I admire the most like the Governor and his wife Nancy. I just wish Nancy had made a run in the 2nd District!

Knowing you perhaps may mention my letter to the Governor in passing some day, please extend my sincere thanks to both he and his wife for their support in the past 18 months. This has been a very trying and frustrating time for our family, but it has not dimmed our admiration, support and respect for our Administration and I think it is important that you know that.

Thank you once again for your two letters and your words of encouragement in them.

Sincerely,

Francis Gros Louis

Dear Mr. Card:

I am writing on behalf of Gloria Gaylord who is currently seeking appointment to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (F.E.R.C.) in Washington, D.C.

I understand that Gloria has just completed six years as a member of the Ohio Public Utilities Commission and did an excellent job there. With her qualifications she is sure to be an asset to the FERC, therefore I hope you will give her serious consideration when recommending someone for this job.

Thank you for your consideration.

Dear Dr. Dreijmanis:

Andy Card has been kind enough to pass along your recent letter regarding your search for employment within the Bush-Quayle Administration. The process is a slow and complicated one; I apologize for your frustrations.

Fortunately for the President, we have been blessed with 75,000 resumes of people who want to work in his Administration. This gives us a wonderful pool of talent from which to choose. It does, however, cause frustrations, in that we only have 2,500 political jobs to give out. Here in Presidential Personnel, we have a responsibility not only to the President, but also to those folks who worked hardest to put the President in office.

At present, job opportunities are scarce. We do hope that over the next seven years, all good Republicans will have an opportunity to serve the Bush-Quayle Administration. We thank you for your continued interest, and we assure you that your file will be kept active for any appropriate openings.

From what Ray tells me you will soon begin recruiting volunteers for the reelection effort. As you know, I have some physical limitations but would be pleased to help within my abilities. I would appreciate it if you would pass on my name to the appropriate person.

Working with governors for thirteen years gave me an opportunity to develop unique skills, not the least of which is the ability to listen with apparent rapt attention while mentally compiling the grocery list. MEMORANDUM FOR RON KAUFMAN

FROM: ED ROGERS

SUBJECT: POTENTIAL EMPLOYEE

John Tuck has asked that we try to help the attached.

Please review his resume and cover note, with special attention to the third paragraph.

He's legitimate, so please keep him in mind should something become available.

Thanks.

cc: David Demarest

March 24, 1990

Dear Ed:

Thank you for taking time Friday to talk with me about employment possibilities at the White House.

While John Tuck may have told you a little bit about me, perhaps some further information would be helpful. I am a thirty-three year old Republican with an academic background in law and accounting. From 1982 until the fall of 1988 I worked in the office of Senator Mark Hatfield, principally in the capacity of legislative director and chief counsel. My work involved speechwriting, the management of his legislative staff, and extensive collaboration with the Senate Appropriations Committee.

In October, 1988, Mother Teresa asked me to assist her Missionaries of Charity on a full-time basis (I had been a volunteer with them since 1985). After spending a year in Mexico, followed by a short stay in Calcutta, I came to the Missionaries of Charity home in Washington, D.C. where I currently live and work. Presently I am handling two legal matters for Mother, but these obligations would not prevent me from beginning work for the President at the date of Governor Sununu's choosing.

You know of my desire to work in the Chief of Staff's office, but I realize that this is unlikely. Therefore, let me provide you with other areas of interest.

I would be privileged to serve the President in the Office of Communications, as a speechwriter. In addition, Senator Hatfield mentioned to me the work which Mr. Doug Wead is doing in the Office of Public Liaison, and perhaps I could be of service there as well. Finally, the Office of National Service is of considerable interest to me, in light of my experiences as a volunteer, and Mr. Gregg Petersmeyer's good reputation. Be assured that I would wholeheartedly serve the President wherever the Governor directed me.

My salary when I left the Senate was $55,000, but if necessary I would accept employment at the White House for a lesser amount of money. Both Senator Hatfield and Senator Alan Simpson could speak to you of my work on the Hill, and there are others who would do so, should that be requested.

Ed, thank you for considering this matter, and as you suggested Friday, I will call you in two days if I don't hear from you.

Warm Regards,

H. James Towey

Senator Mark O. Hatfield
Bates College
Lewiston, Maine
February 1, 1988

- I. With the first Presidential primary a week from tonight, the topic of "Religion and Politics," to which the Bertha May Bell Andrews Lecturship is devoted, is on the minds of the electorate.
 - A. Let me begin my address with a quote from speech given by a presidential candidate on the campaign trail: "America was born a Christian nation. America was born to exemplify that devotion to the elements of righteousness which are derived from the revelations of Holy Scripture."
 1. He went on to challenge his audience on this occasion that "if they would see America free and pure they will make their own spirits free and pure by (the) baptism of the Holy Scripture."
 - Were these the words of Pat Robertson? No; Woodrow Wilson, 1911, the year before he was elected president.
 2. And when he became president, Woodrow Wilson did what not even Ronald Wilson Reagan would do: He invoked God to sanction U.S. military action.
 - He said "When men take up arms to set other men free, there is something sacred and holy in warfare."
 - B. Here is another quote from a politician of presidential timber, and see if you can identify him: "The fundamental basis of this nation's law was given to Moses on the Mount. The fundamental basis of our Bill of Rights comes from the teachings which we get from Exodus and St. Matthew, from Isaiah and St. Paul. I don't think we emphasize that enough these days."
 1. Jack Kemp? No, Harry Truman in 1950.
 - C. Religion mixed with politics can cut both ways: Go back to John Adams, who proudly identified himself as a Christian on the date of his inauguration, and then blamed his reelection defeat on one tiny legislative proposal of his which called for a day of fasting, humiliation, and prayers to Christ.
 - D. Religion mixed with politics can also lead to the bizarre: Go back to William Henry Harrison who stood on the steps of the Capitol and proclaimed "A profound reverence for the Christian religion."
 - God loved him so much He gave him pneumonia and called President Harrison home in one month's time!
 - That precedent must have made Oral Roberts shake in his boots last year!

E. Last year we heard in the bicentennial celebration of the Constitution of the faith of our founding fathers, the origins of the first amendment, and the 200 years of what I term the "holy tension" which have existed between church and state.

1. So for those who are concerned that America this year will establish at the ballot box either a democracy or a theocracy, I hope those fears have been allayed.

-- History shows unequivocally that there has been a time-honored tradition of United States office seekers, from those seeking the chair in the Oval office to those seeking a seat on the city council, to be religiously minded, religiously guided people serving God in public office.

II. In spite of these unequivocal statements for 200 years by public officials at the highest levels of the U.S. Government of their religious beliefs, I want to turn to the Supreme Court's decision last year to strike down a Louisiana "creation science" law because the drafters' motivation was religious, and hence the law itself was unconstitutional.

A. In a subsequent editorial, Chuck Colson pointed out that the Supreme Court was saying that a law could be motivated by marxist ideals but not religious ones.

B. Colson's point, which I gladly underscore, is that religious views necessarily invade public policy and politics, because the lawmaking process involves moral judgments, and the notion that we can sanitize our laws to make them "morally neutral" is a dangerous drift in First Amendment interpretation.

C. Furthermore, legislation and the law-making process in general cannot be insulated from moral influences and their consequences; laws by nature reflect moral judgments.

1. The sanctity of life leads us to proscribe murder, euthanasia, etc.

-- There is a moral order that tells us that the taking of human life is wrong. This is true not because Moses said that God said it, but because thousands of years of human history tell us that killing is wrong.

2. Federal programs clearly are not "morally neutral": Food stamp program, Section 202 public housing, legal services corporation funding, Head Start, migrant and Indian health programs, etc.

-- All of these laws reflect moral choices and values: compassion, justice, charity, respect for life.

3. Another example: would the court say that a law based on a conservation ethic is permissible but that a law whose legislative history includes debate on Biblical stewardship, would be unconstitutional?
 - D. Those Supreme Court justices who feel obliged to crawl inside the heads of the legislatures to see if there was "religious motivation" in the process are undertaking a very dangerous task, and are engaging in an arbitrary, subjective exercise fraught with danger.
 1. True, we must separate the institutions of church and state, and I do not support any politician baptizing his or her political positions, but American history makes very clear that religiously motivated political activism is a necessary consequence of God's relationship with man.
 - E. Religious values do play a role in the political decisions of our time.
 1. And our country will never attain in a corporate sense what we are not willing to strive for as individuals; the battle for national aspirations has been and always will be fought over values.
 - We should ask ourselves today: what are those values upon which our society is based?
 - F. I believe materialism has become the greatest enemy of both religion and politics because it feeds the false notion that "having more" makes us happy, successful and complete human beings, and makes us a visionary government.
 1. Are we on this earth as mere consumers to buy and sell, to gather and gain? Is government here simply to facilitate such lives?
 2. Materialism is a violent affront to morality and to those values which have been developed through God's relationship to humanity, and have evolved through the years in our Judeo-Christian tradition.
 - It is through these values that our hope can be found: not in arms agreement but in loving relationship, first with God, then with each other.
 - And the greatest danger to the Judeo-Christian tradition and to its values is materialism, the value-less void, the black abyss, in which this civilization is in danger of falling.
- III. Our nation's spiritual strength is found in part by the way we live together, as "we the people," in our government's statement of purpose, proclaims.
- A. Similarly, the most frequently spoken prayer in the world begins with this same concept, with the words "Our Father," not "My Father."
 1. The emphasis is on relationships: families, neighborhoods, communities.

- The focus is on caring and sharing people pursuing one goal: to improve the quality of life for others.
- 2. That is the goal government strives to accomplish, and it is a moral choice. It is through the contributions of individuals living in relationship with God and society that this goal can be attained.
- B. Prayer in public schools, "in God we trust" on our currency, and pledges of allegiance to God and country are not the measuring sticks of the spiritual strength of America.
 - They are evidences of civil religion and they cannot produce a spiritual people.
- IV. Thomas Jefferson "Men could be trusted with their own and other men's destinies and be truly free men only so long as they live in obedience to a higher authority -- the authority of God."
 - A. The greater the internal self-restraint born of love and commitment, the lesser the need for the external controls that governments impose upon their people.
 - 1. Civilized and humane democracies spring forth from, and are nurtured by, the spiritual strength of the people.
 - 2. I believe that without God at the center to inspire caring and considerate relationships, our freedom could be strangled by rules and regimentation and raw ego.
 - Since such restrictions are anathema to all freedoms, they are anathema to all progress.
 - So the greater the self-restraint, the fewer the laws.
 - That is democracy, and that is how true religion and politics interact.
- VI. Let me close my address on religion and politics with de Tocqueville: "Once religion is mixed with the bitter passions of the world it cannot avoid losing influence: The Church cannot share the temporal power of the state without being the object of a portion of that animosity which the latter excites."
 - A. Last week we had a debate in the Senate over the question of abortion, and this debate illustrated the point de Tocqueville makes: when you move from the pulpit to the political podium and from the parish council to the city council, you enter an arena where the means are analysis and the distillation of competing ideas into a consensus, and the ends are often imperfect and disappointing.
 - 1. That is what happens in a pluralistic society and its democratic process.
 - B. I am not proposing that compromise or cowardice are inevitable occupational hazards facing spiritually minded people who serve in the political arena.

1. I am saying that the First Amendment makes very clear that the person who enters political life because of his or her faith can do so provided that the Bible is held under the arm as an inspiration, not as a crutch.

Ending Roe v. Wade Wouldn't End Abortion

Those hoping for a significant curtailment of abortion on demand by way of a favorable ruling of the United States Supreme Court in the Webster case should look elsewhere. Not even an outright reversal of Roe v. Wade will accomplish that goal, toward which so many of us have struggled. If there is one lesson that I have learned after almost 40 years in politics, it is this: you can't replace something with nothing.

There are millions of abortions in America each year because many pregnant women face a terrible choice. Time and again a pregnant woman must decide whether to kill her own baby or bring that baby into a society that will punish both of them for the unwanted pregnancy. For this reason, abortion commands a measure of public sympathy, and public opinion tends to attempt to balance these concerns and find the greater good. Unfortunately, what is derived is, in fact, a lesser evil. At work is a moral relativism that argues that a quick killing of the baby before birth is more humane than a slow killing of the child in slums or communities where being a single or teen-age mother means at least a decade of suffering. A pregnant mother looking out at a society that prefers possessions to persons must

I THOUGHT I would CONTACT you TO RENEW my EXPRESSION OF INTEREST IN WORKING AT THE WHITE HOUSE
FOR THE GOVERNOR. THE TIME ARTICLE DEEPENED
THIS DESIRE OF MINE, AND I REMAIN HOPEFUL THAT IT WILL BE FULFILLED.

I REMEMBER WELL YOUR ACCOUNT OF HOW YOU GOT YOUR FIRST JOB AT THE WHITE HOUSE. BUT I HAD THE GOOD SENSE NOT TO CALL YOU WHEN MR. BATES AND MR. WRAY
ANNOUNCED THEIR DEPARTURES - THEIR JOBS BEING BIGGER
TIME THAN I AM! BUT IF IN THE RESHUFFLING A SPOT OPENS UP, PLEASE KNOW HOW DEDICATED I AM
TO FILLING IT. THE TIME PIECE MENTIONED THAT ED ROGERS
WOULD BE HANDLING SOME NEW DUTIES - ANYWAY, PLEASE
KEEP ME IN MIND. MOTHER TERESA CALLED FROM ROME, ASKED ME FOR A STATUS REPORT, AND TOLD ME TO BE
"PATIENT." I HOPE THAT I AM.

LINDA HAS BEEN QUITE HELPFUL, AND I WILL CONTINUE TO BE IN CONTACT WITH HER. THANKS AGAIN FOR CONSIDERING ME.

Warm Regards,

Jim Toney

Dear Mr. Card,

Thank you very much for the kindness and counsel which you offered to me yesterday. Meeting you has increased my desire to work at the White House, and while you pointed out that this may never come to pass, I remain very hopeful and encouraged.

As you recommended I will stay in touch, and try to bother Linda with a call now and then, rather than you.

Mother Teresa sent me a letter and a copy of the Governor's March 15th letter to her. That the Governor has taken a "personal interest" in the consideration of me for White House employment, is an honor and privilege I don't deserve. Perhaps one day I will be able to repay you both by working with all my energy for you.

Warmest Gratitude,

Jim Toney

MEMORANDUM FOR ANDY CARD

FROM: RON KAUFMAN RR
RE: H. JAMES TOWEY
DATE: APRIL 6, 1990

Attached is paperwork on Mr. Towey. As we discussed, Jim is interested in working at the White House. He is patient and willing to wait for the right opportunity. I was very impressed with Mr. Towey during my talk with him. If you can fit him in, I would recommend that you meet with him.

*Linda G. - Call Mr. Towey. I'll meet w/ him.

Honorable Andy H. Card, Jr.
Assistant to the President and
Deputy to the Chief of Staff
The White House

Dear Mr. Card:

This is a very difficult letter for me to write based upon my lifelong, conservative Republicanism and my level of respect and admiration for Governor Sununu, however I would like to respond to your earlier note and your letter of May 23, 1990.

As you are aware, it is very difficult under the terms of the Hatch Act to actively engage in partisan politics. As a result of this a federal employee such as myself can only look back upon previous years of conservative Republican activism with some degree of pride and knowledge that many, many hours were spent on behalf of candidates of our choice. However, that doesn't appear to score very well years later when one attempts to seek the support of his Party and particularly his Presidents Administration. Do not interpret this as a criticism of Governor Sununu, yourself, or the Administration. It is merely fact based upon my experiences of the past 18 months in which, despite the assistance of Governor Sununu, yourself, and others, I have been unable to obtain a relatively simply request, a reassignment/transfer to the D. C. area.

My knowledge of the inner workings of the bureaucracy has only furthered my frustration. Thanks to Governor Sununu I was able to come to D. C. at my own expense for an interview with OMB and really thought this would materialize, however, despite what was termed by the Director of Planning as an outstanding interview, nothing ever happened. Then I received a letter from Congressman Douglas of my District that he could not help me as, "As you know, I have tried, but given the fact that John Sununu personally wanted to clear anyone from the New England area, it appeared to be an uphill battle." Compounding this was information I received from some very good friends at HUD Headquarters noting that my "identification" with this Administration rather than the former campaign of the HUD Secretary would impact negatively upon my chances with HUD. Then I received your letter of May 23rd which appeared to indicate that, despite my qualifications or recommendations, my Administration/Party was telling me I was on my own. Mr. Card, this hurts just a little believe me!

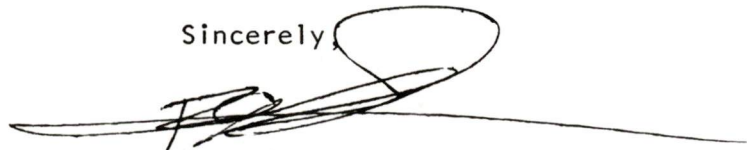

I guess this week was the final crusher for me when I received the news clipping I have taken the liberty of xeroxing on this page. The individual named in this news item is a lifelong, financial contributor, to every liberal Democratic Candidate in the state of Colorado. She has been a well known, outspoken vocal critic of the past and this Administration, and as a Lt. Commander in the Naval Reserve openly told associates in the Denver Office that Gary Hart's election to the White House a few years ago would have meant her appointment as the first Secretary of the Navy. This is not a normal run of the mill Democrat, but a ultra-liberal, outspoken critic of everything our Administration stands for. However, ~~she~~ she has been appointed to an important position as the Manager of an important HUD Office right in the President's home state!

Mr. Card, please don't take my ramblings too seriously. I guess this letter is just a culmination of 18 months of frustration, anxiety, and disappointment. I remain, and always will be, a conservative Republican ready to campaign when called upon, ready to contribute to the extent of our financial capability when called upon, and ready to extoll the virtues of people I admire the most like the Governor and his wife Nancy. I just wish Nancy had made a run in the 2nd District!

Knowing you perhaps may mention my letter to the Governor in passing some day, please extend my sincere thanks to both he and his wife for their support in the past 18 months. This has been a very trying and frustrating time for our family, but it has not dimmed our admiration, support and respect for our Administration and I think it is important that you know that.

Thank you once again for your two letters and your words of encouragement in them.

Sincerely,

Francis Gros Louis
