SUBJECT: MR. DOUG WEAD
DATE: SEPTEMBER 30, 1990
TO: PRESIDENT GEORGE BUSH
THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON, DC 20500
FROM: JACK AMEN
~~US EMBASSY, HONDURAS~~
APO MIAMI 34022

Mr. President I recently read that you have dismissed Mr. Doug Wead. As I understand Mr. Wead held the position of special liaison to the religious community and played a large part in your 1988 campaign. Mr. Wead's part in the 1988 campaign was to attract the votes of the evangelical christians.

As to the reasons for the dismissal I understand that it is over the invitation to the White House of a number of homosexual organizations. My information has it that Mr. Wead was fired because he objected to the invitation of the homosexual organizations.

As I see it Mr. Wead was looking out for your best interests. As you know the evangelical christians are a growing force and are well organized. Leaders such as Pat Robertson and James Dobson and their media networks can lend a lot of support or damage to one candidate or another.

The dismissal of Mr. Wead may have been over some other difference of opinion rather than a thing such as who is on an invitation list. However, it sends a confusing message out as to where you stand on such issues as family, abortion and morality. Remember, evangelical christians are watching you and if the nations gets bogged down in the middle east with increased taxes and increased energy expenses you may need all the support you can get in the next election.

Respectfully

Jack Amen.

Dear Mr. President,

I trully believe that our nation has been blessed by God in the past because of our efforts to please Him.

However, the invitation to militant homosexual groups to visit and take part in ceremonies at the White House is not pleasing to God. It is an abomination!

Please re-consider your decision to allow these groups to spread their sin. I do not look forward to the future if they are gaining control over our government.

I sincerely support your presidency!

Thank you,

Bush welcomes homosexuals to White House, fires Christian liaison

Bowing to demands of militant homosexuals, President Bush last month fired Doug Wead, special liaison to the religious community. Wead had spent years working with the President and played a key role in getting Bush elected. The firing came after Wead protested the President's invitation to leaders of homosexual groups to two meetings at the White House. Bush is the first President in history to officially invite representatives from homosexual groups to the White House.

Bush first invited representatives from the homosexual groups to attend the signing of the Hate Crimes Bill at the White House in April. When contacted about the invitation, Wead responded to letter writers that Mr. Bush "is a man who lives as well as speaks about family values." He went on to say: "Quite frankly, the President's staff did not serve him well by inviting some of the groups which attended the Hate Crimes Bill signing ceremony. In no way does the President endorse the lifestyle of all groups which attend such events. I can assure you that he is especially offended by the attacks against Cardinal O'Connor and other manifestations of religious intolerance that some of the homosexual groups have espoused... Hopefully, it will not happen again."

History showed Wead was wrong. Another invitation to leaders of the homosexual community went out. Five representatives of militant homosexual organizations were invited to be present when the President signed the Americans With Disabilities Act on July 26.

The Washington Blade, a homosexual newspaper, was given White House press credentials and the Blade sent a photographer to cover the event. A spokesman for the Blade says that "gays were instrumental" in the passage of the act, which also protects people with AIDS under the anti-discrimination provisions of the measure.

When Wead complained again, he was fired. Columnist Cal Thomas said that "Mr. Wead has been a target of the [White House] liberals 'from day one.' They are said to resent his close relationship with the evangelical Christian community that Mr. Wead helped to organize behind Mr. Bush for the 1988 campaign. Mr. Wead's 1988 book, George Bush: Man of Integrity, was written to convince conservative evangelicals that Mr. Bush is one of them." Bush's margin of victory came from the evangelical community, from which he received a higher percentage of the vote than from any other group.

The firing of Wead is only the latest in a series of events which point to the President's decision to weaken his ties to evangelical community. Earlier in the year, Bush invited Playboy publisher Christie Hefner to a meeting at the White House.

Previously, the President came out in support of continuing government funding of anti-Christian bigotry and pornography by the National Endowment for the Arts. He said he favored no content restrictions of tax-funded art.

Dear Mr. President,

We are praying for you in this time of International Crisis.

I would like to say I admire and respect you and your position.

[But there is an issue that has taken place on the domestic front that puzzles me. That is, the firing of Mr. Dong Wead from the White House staff.

As a christian, and conservative I believe this move is mistake and possibly the start of a changing tide of principles this country was founded on.

Please don't abandon the principles you enunciated in the campaign.

Please don't leave this firing unchecked.

You may have lost one of your best supporters in the White House

Dear Mr. President:

As a life long Republican I am writing regarding your traditional values Campaign Pledges. I am with you in upholding what is right, honest and true; our God our Country, Family and Business.

However, Honorable President, I feel that a corner of this which you stand for has been washed away. Doug Wead has stood beside you and fought for integrity in these United States. Doug Wead is a man of high moral standards himself and is for the family, which we all know is from where the next generation president will come.

Who you have now in the White House determines who will be the next president. Shall he be a family man as yourself or of non-family group?

Therefore, it is my strong feeling that we need Doug Wead back in the White House.

Dear Mr. President:

This letter is sent in protest to the firing of Mr. R. Douglas Wead as Special Assistant to the President.

As a conservative Republican, I have cast my votes not to those that crumble under every political whimper. Instead, I cast my votes to those that stand up for their beliefs and convictions.

I understand that Doug Wead was fired for discussing concerns for the number of gays in the White House. Mr. Wead should be applauded for his stand rather than fired. This country still allows freedom of speech, the White House is our prime example of which to follow. Was Mr. Wead expressing his freedom of speech? YES! And he should not be fired for it!

Dear President Bush,

I'm writing to you as someone who did actually vote in the last Presidential election, and I voted for you.

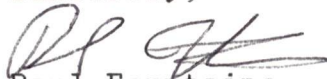

Your values closely resemble my own, as I am a business owner, a lifelong Christian and a Republican.

I am angry, and confused. First China, then Lithuania, then taxes, this month Doug Wead. To invite "Gay" leaders to the White House? That is like inviting the "Prostitute" leaders, or the "Child Abusers" up for a visit.

In my 1 opinion you fired the wrong guy. These radical liberal groups didn't support you in the last election, and they won't support you in the next one. The american family unit is being ripped apart by the "Gay's", "Baby Killing (abortion)" and other such factions.

Please don't abandon the people who helped elect you. Your strength and leadership are needed now more than ever.

Sincerely,

Dear President Bush:

I am writing this letter with great distress in my heart at the news of Mr. Doug Wead's firing. It is hard to believe that such a loyal conservative as Mr. Wead, would not have a place in your employ.

Mr. President, you are a Christian as I am, and I'm at a loss to know why you have abandoned your fundamental Christian values for the likes of special interest groups such as National Gay and Lesbian Task force.

I am praying for you and your advisor to reconsider your decision and that you will reinstate Mr. Wead.

I have been a lifetime Republican but, I will not vote for a Party or Candidate without moral values and fundamental Christian beliefs.

Dear Mr. President,

We were distressed to learn of Doug Wead being fired based largely on the fact that he objected to homosexual activist groups being invited to the White House for bill signing ceremonies. We feel as Americans, homosexuals can chose to live any kind of life style they want. However, the attitude of the media and liberal population has tried to present their lifestyle as normal and acceptable to a moral nation.
We know several homosexuals and can testify that their's is not a normal or happy lifestyle. We do not want our child to grow up thinking this is one of his choses. The pain and suffering we have witnessed from the families and the homosexual himself causes us to side with Mr. Wead and protest the acceptance of a lifestyle that in the long run, if not the short run, only makes people miserable.

We are pleased with the appointment of Leigh Anne Metzger, as we feel she will uphold evangelical values and belief ssytem. However, we feel we must protest the firing of Doug Wead on an issue that we feel represents our values.

Yours truly,

Dear President Bush:

I am writing just a brief note to you to express my deep concern upon the recent dismissal of Mr. Doug Wead from your staff. As a life long conservative Republican who has been deeply concerned about the moral fiber of this nation, as well as being a minister of the gospel, I am disturbed when I see liberal elements within our society bringing undue pressure upon our political leaders.

I appreciate the job that you are doing as President of this nation and fully stand behind you but I want to strengthen your hand by saying please do not bow to the liberal pressures of our society by dismissing key conservative people like Mr. Doug Wead because of being bombarded by liberal organizations. We, I believe, the silent majority of this nation must be represented strongly.

Please, if nothing else considering his replacement, place another Conservative Evangelical Republican in his position to keep a strong representation of us, the Conservative Evangelical element of America, in your administration.

May God bless you richly. Be assured of the fact that we pray for you always knowing the pressures and stress of your position and may God give you wisdom as you lead this great land.

Dear President Bush,

I am writing to express my feelings of betrayal by your staff in the dismissal of Doug Wead. I fail to comprehend why every liberal group is courted and given credibility while at the same time the evangelical community is once again discriminated against.

I am well aware that Iowa is of no importance to your personal political future, but I assure you that there is coming a day when some evangelical political betrayer will pay the price for the continued bigotry shown after the election is over. While it may not be you personally, it may be a candidate for Congress that you will need.

In closing I would say that if all viewpoints are to be represented then let's be fair with the evangelical community and stop the blatant discrimination that is presently being practiced by your administration.

Dear President Bush;

I am a pastor of an Assemblies of God church with about 100 members in Oklahoma.

Recently, I learned of your dismissal of Doug Wead-special liaison to the religious community. It gravely concerns me that this firing came after Mr. Wead protested your inviting Homosexual representatives to the signing of the Hate Crimes Bill ceremony.

Mr. Bush, this nation is in a serious quandery with the crisis in the Middle East. You, and the nation, are going to need all the prayers that you can get to help you make the hard decisions that you are going to have to make. Do you sincerely believe that God will lead you when you are making decisions that are blatantly against his Word?

Please understand that I am for you as President--and I believe you have shown incredible ability thus far. However, you should not have fired Mr. Wead for having the courage to stand for what he believes is right. There are few left who will.

My prayers and support are yours.

Mr. George Bush, President of the United States of America

Dear Mr. President:

I am writing out of a concern for something which I recently learned of as I read in the American Family Association magazine (September, 1990 edition). I read that you fired one of your staff members for protesting against the two occasions in which you have invited militant homosexuals to the White House. I read that you fired Mr. Doug Wead. If this is true and it is the case, then, I wish to register with you as one of many clergyman and a Christian citizen of this nation that I object and that I feel you are not being true to God as number one. You are in a position to influence many peoples across our country and around the world. You have a responsibility to express Christian values and to protect the moral values of family life. On those occasions when you concede and give in to media pressure and/or the lobbyists of special militant groups you are declining to fully accept and carry out your responsibility.

I am disappointed to have been lead to believe that you are an outstanding man of integrity who will uphold the values, and qualities of life in the United States when I learn that you seem to count as less and less important those values in which this country was founded on. When you allow everyone who has a "freedom of speech" mandate to overrun you and influence policy in the White House and the country I believe you have neglected the responsibility of helping our people see that "freedom of speech" and "freedom of rights" carries the responsibility to look out for others too and not just do "your own thing". Our country's ethics, morals, and values are deteriorating because we allow the minorities to influence everything which the majorities live by. It is important to be involved with equal rights, and to help with AIDS, and to share with the poor and homeless. You will find that we preach, teach and believe these things in our churches. But, it is not right to mandate to the country that anyone be given free license to simply do ^{and} as he or she wishes without thinking of the consequences for the masses in the future.

I pray you will take more seriously your commitment to God first and lead His people in the United States with that in mind. I believe you have made a big mistake by firing a man who was interested in and devoted to preserving the morals, and your relationship to the Christian communities throughout this country. Please know that I am still in support of you and most of what you are doing.

But, in this area I feel you are wrong and I implore you to use better judgement and allow the Lord, not the people, to dictate to your conscience what is right and best for the people. Rule with the Lord and you will indeed be blessed and will make this nation a blessing to this world.

Thank you for taking the time to hear me out and I send my encouragement to "Hang in there" and I include you, your family, the leaders of our nation, and the world in my prayers. May God guide you in the days ahead. And may you know the joy of His omniscience. and peace.

Sincerely,
In Christ's Love,

Dear President Bush:

I was an alternate delegate to the New Orleans Convention, past County Chairman, active in all phases of the party and a Christian. Christians were a vital part in your election to the Presidency. The Republican Party is the only hope that the Conservatives and Christians have but you appear to be alienating the large voting block of Christians. Inviting homosexuals to the White House not only once but twice is unprecedented and contrary to morality and ethics. Then firing Doug Wead who is a conservative Christian is a devastating loss.

You are trying so hard to win the immoral vote---but losing the moral Christian vote. We were for you and are still for you but do not want to see you go off on a tangent.

Sincerely,

R. A. Ullrich

Dear Mr. President:

This letter is in regard to the dismissal of Mr. Doug Weed. For several years now, the media has commented on Mr. Weed's applaud of your commitment to traditional values. And now he has been dismissed by your staff, which supports what you are against. Why wasn't Mr. Demarest and Ms. Killberg dismissed for having Playboy Magazine come in? (Playboy is offensive to conservatives, fundamentalists, women.) I agree with Mr. Weed's letter; you are being very poorly served by your staff. This situation is not only socially offensive, but it is politically unwise as well.

I voted for you in 1988 as a new voter; I hope that you haven't forsaken the principles that you articulated in your campaign. I don't think you could possibly understand how it distresses me to see the White House use its credibility to honor Playboy, The Washington Blade, and the Homosexual leaders.

I support your values - do you truly believe that the aforementioned will. Acting on your traditional values is imperative to my generation's success. Please direct your staff to return to the values you spoke of when I elected you.

I was very sorry to see Mr. Doug Wead dismissed from your staff. You need Doug to provide you with honest and truthfull advice.

As you study the leadership of other presidents who had lasting contributions to our nation, you will find they were men of faith and truth first and politicians lastly.

Hear Mr. President:

To say the least I was deeply saddened to read that you had fired Doug Wead. But most of all I was shocked to learn you had invited homosexuals and the Playboy published to the White House.

I was lead to believe when listening to you, that you are a God-fearing man. Yes, a man who lives and speaks about family values.

I keep wondering - am I a bad judge of character? Or have the pressures from all sides at the White House worn your integrity down and given Satan a foothold?

If you remember in the Bible it tells that God destroyed two cities because of their immorality. Homosexuality is wrong - God says so and that should be the final word.

I am also very much against giving the National Endowment of the Arts any taxpayers money without very strict restrictions. They are promoting some of the worst filth I could ever imagine.

It seems to me the government could start to balance the budget if they would stop passing out money to organizations that tear down anything good.

I know I sound prejudice and bias. Maybe I am. Almighty God, Creator of heaven and earth has laid down certain laws of right and wrong. It doesn't matter if 99% of the people disagree with them, the laws still stand. If we don't change our ways as a nation very soon we will have to face the wrath of God.

Mr. President, I beg you - spend quality time with the Lord. Listen for His voice and then do it!!

There are many of us praying for you. Don't give Satan an inch.

As I write this I wonder if you will ever see it, or if an Aid will be the only one to see it.

At any rate - God Bless You, Mr President, May God guide, direct, protect and keep you in His care.

Respectfully,

Shirley Friedrich

Dear Mr. President,

My name is David DeVon Coutta, Jr. and I live in the Greater Birmingham area of Alabama. I wish to protest the firing of Mr. Doug Wead, from his position at the White House, for his speaking out on specific moral issues. //

Mr. President, I feel you have been ill advised in alienating some 50,000,000 American citizens, evangelical supporters of the morality of our people to be specific, just to please the homosexual lobby. You will note that homosexuals can not be fired from jobs in public schools, governmental positions, the private work place, or any other endeavor because of their stand. Yet Mr. Wead was fired BECAUSE HE SPOKE OUT ON MORAL ISSUES !

The homosexuals are constantly reminding Government and the American public of their rights. They, however, DO NOT want to recognize our religious or moral rights to speak out against them.

Is the American Public about to lose the right to speak out against minority groups who seek to undermine the morality of your and my country ?

Please, do not allow those around you to influence your heart felt convictions, Mr. President. I personally support you and your platform, however, I can only continue giving you my support for as long as you and your advisors act responsibly towards the moral and spiritual "fabric" which holds our great Republic together.

I know that you are as aware as any citizen of the crumbling of authority in our school systems, local governmental bodies and even our very home life. Much is attributable to the lack of overall morality of our people.

No longer do we fear punishment from the Judicial System. No longer do we respect the liberties of others, and No longer does the Majority rule Lead the way, Mr. President, in bringing AMERICA back to the place where we strive to overcome those who seek to destroy the very foundation of our society.

I, and fifty million other people just like myself, stand ready to support a man and a party who will DARE TO STAND UP AND BE HEARD.

Yours In Christ,

David DeVon Coutta, Jr.

Dear President Bush,

It must be very difficult for you to have every aspect of your personal life out in the open. It must equally be as difficult to try to have all groups of people accept you if not like you.

You have always prided yourself in being a family man. Have you ever once considered what you would do if one of your grandchildren was molested or your children raped? This is a great probability for many children as long as we promote homosexuality and pornography.

Dr. James Dobson once commented on you being one of the conservative leaders we as Christians can count on. Now I read where you fired Doug Wead because he stood up for what he believed and what you said you believed. Is it really true that you invited pornography into the White House? Have you honestly looked at some of the so-called art that is being funded by my money with the National Endowment of the Arts?

I will be sending you a book soon called In His Steps by Charles Sheldon. Please reconsider and stand up for what you truly believe in. You will only have to answer to God.

My prayers are with you

I am a Conservative Christian, Republican, and a 1983 graduate of the United States Military Academy (West Point). I am extremely mad at you for allowing gays and lesbians to influence your decision making in the White House. I have known of Mr. Doug Wead for many years and know that he is a loyal workman in the Republican party and represents the principles of God and Freedom. Therefore, I am angry that you would allow gay and lesbian supporters like Mr. Demarest and Ms. Kelbert to influence you in firing Mr. Wead.

Mr. President it is time that you take charge of the White House. I voted for you in 1988, because I believed you stood for Conservative Christian principles. I plan to influence the people in my community to vote for the Republican candidate in 1992. I hope you will turn things around in the White House and prove that you should be that candidate. Remember also that the gays and lesbians will not support you in 1992.

Dear President Bush:

I am writing in regard to what I feel is a very serious matter. I have become deeply disturbed by the termination of one of your aides, who I also understand is a close personal friend of yours, Mr Doug Wead. What bothers me the most about this termination are the reasons for it and the circumstances surround it.

I understand that he was fired because of his strong objections to the invitations extended to Gay Rights and other liberal groups to attend select White House and Government functions. It was Doug's feelings, and mine also, I might add, that organizations such as these do not embody the spirit of the groups that worked together to elect you to the Presidency. These groups, being conservative political organizations and Evangelical Christians, both of whom I support.

I feel that especially the Gay Rights groups represent a core of people that have a philosophy that is repugnant to all of us who believe in the sanctity and importance of the family.

I urge you to reconsider the termination of Mr Wead and to distance yourself from Gay Rights groups. Their association with your government can only damage your solid base with the groups of caring sharing family oriented people who helped elect you. Look into this rather carefully and make sure that you follow the conservative path in your policies and those of your close associates.

Bush welcomes homosexuals to White House, fires Christian liaison

Bowing to demands of militant homosexuals, President Bush last month fired Doug Wead, special liaison to the religious community. Wead had spent years working with the President and played a key role in getting Bush elected. The firing came after Wead protested the President's invitation to leaders of homosexual groups to two meetings at the White House. Bush is the first President in history to officially invite representatives from homosexual groups to the White House.

Bush first invited representatives from the homosexual groups to attend the signing of the Hate Crimes Bill at the White House in April. When contacted about the invitation, Wead responded to letter writers that Mr. Bush "is a man who lives as well as speaks about family values." He went on to say: "Quite frankly, the President's staff did not serve him well by inviting some of the groups which attended the Hate Crimes Bill signing ceremony. In no way does the President endorse the lifestyle of all groups which attend such events. I can assure you that he is especially offended by the attacks against Cardinal O'Connor and other manifestations of religious intolerance that some of the homosexual groups have espoused... Hopefully, it will not happen again."

History showed Wead was wrong. Another invitation to leaders of the homosexual community went out. Five representatives of militant homosexual organizations were invited to be present when the President signed the Americans With Disabilities Act on July 26.

The Washington Blade, a homosexual newspaper, was given White House press credentials and the Blade sent a photographer to cover the event. A spokesman for the Blade says that "gays were instrumental" in the passage of the act, which also protects people with AIDS under the anti-discrimination provisions of the measure.

When Wead complained again, he was fired. Columnist Cal Thomas said that "Mr. Wead has been a target of the [White House] liberals 'from day one.' They are said to resent his close relationship with the evangelical Christian community that Mr. Wead helped to organize behind Mr. Bush for the 1988 campaign. Mr. Wead's 1988 book, George Bush: Man of Integrity, was written to convince conservative evangelicals that Mr. Bush is one of them." Bush's margin of victory came from the evangelical community, from which he received a higher percentage of the vote than from any other group.

The firing of Wead is only the latest in a series of events which point to the President's decision to weaken his ties to evangelical community. Earlier in the year, Bush invited Playboy publisher Christie Hefner to a meeting at the White House.

Previously, the President came out in support of continuing government funding of anti-Christian bigotry and pornography by the National Endowment for the Arts. He said he favored no content restrictions of tax-funded art.

Dear Mr. President:

I want you to know that I have appreciated your pro-life and pro-family stance of the past.

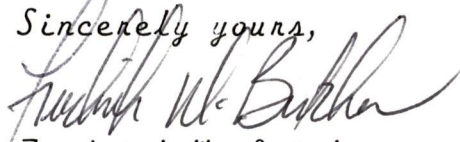

That is why it comes as such a shock to me that you have made this unprecedented support of homosexuals by inviting them to the White House. I am sure you must be aware Mr. President, that homosexuals are not just two people of the same sex who love each other. You are aware that their deviant life styles are sadistic and cruel and responsible for the AIDS epidemic.

I'm astounded that not only have you given them such recognition, but that you also fined Doug Wead when he protested your actions.

I really thought that you would be different than most other politicians. I really believed that you support the same values of the people who put you in office. We trusted that you would indeed be pro-family, but inviting homosexual leaders, the publisher of Playboy to the White House and supporting the NEA has certainly broken that illusion.

Mr. President, I would implore you, please break your ties with these anti-family groups and come back to those who played such a large part in your election as president in the first place.

Dear President Bush:

We are praying for you and believe you are being Divinely led concerning the Mideast crisis. Other events in the recent past have caused me great concern as a Christian and a Republican.

I am a seventh (7th) generation Republican. The late congressman Carroll Reece was a cousin of mine as is Paul Eggers of Dallas, TX.

But, for the first time in my life I am very tempted to leave the Republican Party and become an Independent. The enclosed letter and article serve to give further credibility to my concerns.

It appears, from the best information that I have, that Doug Wead was not the man who should have been fired but rather the person who, not once but twice, invited the Sodomites to the White House.

A lack of sensitivity in the matter to the concerns of the evangelical community (who make up 53% of all religious groups in this country) is alarming. After all, had it not been for this group who trusted you enough to work and vote for you, you would not have been elected President of this great country.

The George Bush who spoke at First Baptist Church in Dallas and in many other places around our country, with a promise to work for stronger traditional family values appears to have either backed down or is letting someone else speak for him. I am not so naive as to think that you can make every decision about every situation. However, a simple statement of apology to the Christian community and a 15 minute meeting with evangelicals could do much to repair the damage that has been done.

It is my opinion, Mr. President, that if you do not make amends the entire Republican Party will suffer. I will use my influence in the two national networks in which I am involved to urge other Christians to let their wishes be known at the polls in November, and beyond, if this offense to us, but even more so to God, has not been rectified soon.

It is imperative that a meeting be held soon to see if it's possible to repair the severe damage done to the President's support base by the Administration's apparent "open door policy" to gay-rights activists and the subsequent firing of Doug Wead.

Outrage over these events has spread like a summer brush fire. In the absence of a liaison to our community, I am prepared, along with Richard Land of the Southern Baptist Christian Life Commission, to bring a group of evangelical leaders to meet with you and the President.

As you know, this is not round one for this controversy. The NAE and Southern Baptists made their position clear after the first invitation to homosexual leaders was made public. The second such occurrence makes it appear that the Administration repudiates this policy concern. If this is not the case, we need to know.

Need I say that it would be a small courtesy, but an important one, to consult us before announcing any replacement for Doug Wead? I look forward to hearing from you.

Dear Mr. President:

The evangelical community supported your candidacy for the highest office in the land because we trusted your promise to support traditional values. The Republican Party platform not only implied opposition to a federal gay rights law, but you have said "I don't think we need a codification -- putting a stamp of approval on that lifestyle."

We expressed dismay at your inviting gay rights leaders to the White House for the public signing of the Hate Crimes Statistics bill. Nonetheless, the same kind of invitation was issued for the signing of the Americans With Disabilities Act. These actions put a White House "stamp of approval" upon the homosexual lifestyle.

Many evangelicals believe you are sacrificing your claim to be a "traditional values President." We are keenly interested in knowing the rationale for your actions, Mr. President. Before your Administration proceeds any farther in a direction it cannot reverse, I respectfully request the opportunity to bring a group of evangelical leaders to meet with you. Gay rights will be a defining moral issue in this last decade of the 20th century.
