REMARKS FROM CONSTITUENT LEADERS
REGARDING THE PRESIDENT'S 1992 STATE OF THE UNION ADDRESS

ECONOMY

"On behalf of the Chamber's 185,000 members, I commend the president for his leadership and the comprehensive action plan he proposed to revitalize our economy...In his speech, the president addressed all areas that are essential to restore America's economic vitality."

-- C.J. "Pete" Silas, Chairman
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

"The President clearly has seized the legislative agenda with this State of the Union Address...the country needs a solid plan to get us out of the economic doldrums and cure the discontent prevalent in the land. The President has given us the blueprint and provided the leadership to do just that."

-- Dirk Van Dongen, President
National Association of Wholesaler-Distributors

"President Bush came through loud and clear -- with proposals to stimulate the economy that are timely and on target from our viewpoint in the construction industry."

-- Marvin M. Black, President
Associated General Contractors of America

"The President has proposed an aggressive, detailed blueprint that strikes a sensible balance between short-term action and long-range vision. It combines all the key elements that are badly needed for our economic recovery and long-term competitiveness, namely fiscal discipline, regulatory reform, economic growth, trade expansion, and job creations incentives."

-- Drew Lewis, Chairman
The Business Roundtable

"President Bush has proposed an impressive package for addressing the current weak economy and spurring long-term growth while maintaining budget discipline...NAM will strive to develop bipartisan support for the elements of the President's package."

-- Jerry Jasinowski, President
National Association of Manufacturers

"No one anticipates that the President's program will sail through Congress. Whatever its final disposition, the program announces in the State of the Union message put the right issues on the table: growth, investment, savings, and deficit reduction."

-- Barry Rogstad, President
American Business Conference

"President Bush's State of the Union Address offers sensible and necessary tools to get the economy moving again and to keep it healthy. We are especially please about the President's ambitious plan to spur capital formulation throught the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Small Business Administration and the Treasury. These moves offer renewed hope to small business which have been seeking the capital needed to grow and provide jobs."

-- John Galles, Executive Vice President
National Small Business United

"The President's plan will stimulate the economy without violating last year's budget agreement. We are strongly committed to working with the President to get Congress to act on the plan by the March 20 deadline."

-- Robert J. Verdisco, President
International Mass Retail Association

"The President's proposals are positive steps that must be followed through and implemented...elimination of over 240 federal programs and the freeze on discretionary federal spending and employment are important proposals, but the most important is the proposed line-item veto...I am encouraged by the Bush Administration's initial efforts, and CSE looks forward to working with the administration to implement these much-needed proposals."

-- Paul Beckner, President
Citizens for a Sound Economy

"There can be no doubt, President Bush is a champion for small business...His State of the Union was right on the mark...The President zeroed in on the need to reduce the adverse cumulative regulatory burden on small business...The President had been working on fixing the credit crunch for some time and we are already seeing results. His new initiatives should finish the job."

-- Phillip R. Chisholm, Chairman
Small Business Legislative Council

"This is the shot in the arm the economy needs to get back on its feet...This is good news for the middle class. It will stimulate new jobs, bolster consumer confidence and provide new homes for the people who need them the most -- young couples who are just starting families and careers of their own."

-- Robert "Jay" Buchert, President
National Association of Home Builders

EMPOWERMENT

"The empowerment element of President Bush's state of the union address and accompanying budget is a significant first step in transforming what have merely been safety-nets for low-income people into ladders of opportunity that can enable them to climb out of canyons of dependency. Significantly, this is the first time that a U.S. president has devoted an entire chapter of the budget to the issue of empowerment..."

-- Robert L. Woodson, President
National Center for Neighborhood Enterprise

EDUCATION

"The President's strong commitment to parental choice in education is especially appreciated by the membership of AACCS. They believe that parental choice in education will develop the type of competition that is necessary to cause all schools in our nation to be concerned about the product they are producing. The AACCS is calling upon the Democratically-controlled Congress to pass President Bush's "choice in education" initiatives for the good of our children."

-- Dr. Carl D. Herbster, President
American Association of Christian Schools

"It is not easy to educate this country to the new paradigm. But this President knows the ways of the past won't work in the future. He has a sense of history in these troubled times...Educational choice will certainly empower parents to make decisions for their children. This will also bring some needed focus on the strengthening of the family [because] so often the family in this society feels removed from the decisions affecting their children and their destinies."

-- Dr. Lois Gerber, President
National Independent Private Schools Association

TALKING POINTS ON THE PERSONNEL FREEZE

- o The President's FY 1993 Budget proposes to freeze Federal domestic employment for 1993 at exactly 1992 levels. This means that the total number of FTE's (Full-Time Equivalents) in domestic agencies in FY 1993 will be the same as that in FY 1992.
- o This freeze would apply to the aggregate employment of all agencies in the Executive Branch (except FDIC and RTC).
- o Within this aggregate freeze, some agencies would be allowed to expand employment while other would have to cut back from 1992 levels.
- o Each agency head has been provided specific employment limits for 1992 and 1993 so that increases and decreases in employment levels can be accomplished in an orderly manner.
- o Each agency head has already agreed to these limits as part of the budget process.
- o Including reductions of over 40,000 civilian employees of the Department of Defense (DoD) and over 122,000 DoD uniformed personnel, the President's Budget would decrease Executive Branch employment by over 162,000 -- or 4% -- in 1993.

THE BUDGET DEFICIT

- o The President has been tough on Federal spending.
  - In his proposed FY 1991 Budget, his first full budget, total spending grew by 3.0 percent.
  - In his proposed FY 1992 Budget, total spending grew by only 2.6 percent.
  - In his proposed FY 1993 Budget, total spending grows by only 2.8 percent, and domestic discretionary spending is frozen.
- o In each of these three years, the growth in spending in the President's proposed Budget has been below the rate of inflation.
- o Although the budget deficit has grown since 1989, this is due to: 1) Congressional action to increase spending above the levels recommended by the President; 2) growth in deposit insurance outlays (and the failure to dispose of these assets as quickly as was hoped); 3) the continuing growth in entitlements; 4) lower than expected revenues due to the recession; and 5) the growth in interest payments.
- o The President's FY 1993 Budget proposes to reduce the deficit from $399 billion in 1992 to $352 in 1993.
- o Only the President has proposed to attack each component of the deficit, through:
  - (1) A freeze on domestic discretionary spending. This freeze, which keeps new domestic discretionary appropriations for 1993 at exactly 1992 levels, will reduce spending below the limits permitted under the summit agreement.
  - (2) Complete elimination of 246 programs where funding is not sufficiently justified.
  - (3) Specific, identified cuts in defense. An orderly and carefully-planned further reduction in defense spending of $50 billion by 1997 will make the total real defense cut 29 percent since 1989.
  - (4) Specific, identified reforms of entitlement programs. These reforms will reduce entitlement programs by nearly $35 billion by 1997 -- nearly $73 billion including reform of the deposit insurance and pension guarantee programs.
  - (5) New caps on the future growth of these entitlements and on the cumulative subsidies of hidden liabilities. (No one in Congress has yet proposed such a cap.)
  - (6) A set of policies that promote economic growth. Congress should enact these policies promptly.
- o The President's proposals will, if enacted, reduce deficits as a percent of GDP from 5.6 percent in 1993 to 2.3 percent by 1997.

I am getting a little tired of Kasich's carping and criticizing.

I believe he is one who needs to know that this carping will not help.

The VP told him as much when he was critical back in December, but he is very difficult and arrogant.

DEPUTY ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT FOR POLITICAL AFFAIRS

SUBJECT: OHIO BUSH ADMINISTRATION APPOINTEES

Please find attached an article from the Columbus Post Dispatch dated February 5, 1992.

The article suggests that the State of Ohio has received less than its share of appointments in the Bush administration. This contention is largely promoted by Republican Congressman John Kasich of Ohio, who is quoted extensively throughout the article. While it is true that no current or past member of your cabinet hails from Ohio, current data indicates that Ohio has been very well represented in the Bush administration.

Kasich is simply wrong in his assertion that the White House only responds in an election year. I, and members of my staff, have met frequently with Ohio GOP leaders regarding Presidential appointments over the past three years. Keith McNamara and Bob Bennett were frequent visitors during my days in Presidential Personnel.

Please find listed below a quick summary of Ohio Bush appointees, for your information. In addition to these names, keep in mind that Nick Calio, Joe Hagin, Rob Portman, and Jim Wray -- all top members of your White House staff, call Ohio home.

Bush to face Ohio GOP angered

By Roger K. Lowe

Dispatch Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — When President Bush arrives in Cleveland to deliver a major health care speech Thursday, he'll be in a state where Republicans are increasingly frustrated that they seem to get the White House's attention only during election years.

Bush' trip is no accident: The state is vital to his re-election chances, and Cleveland is the hometown of Gov. George V. Voinovich, general chairman of the president's Ohio campaign.

Ohio Republicans say their efforts helping win the presidency seem forgotten after the ballots are counted. They are angry that no Ohioans hold cabinet-level positions, upset that top federal projects such as a new postal hub go to other states, and frustrated that federal regulations and laws are threatening Ohio projects and jobs. In short, they wonder where the spoils of victory are.

Robert T. Bennett, the state Republican chairman, says Republicans have been complaining to him about

Ohio being on the short end of the political stick.

Time and again, Bennett said, he is asked why the state has no cabinet secretaries or assistant secretaries when a nearby Midwestern state such as Illinois has three — and until recently four — cabinet posts.

Among some of the louder critics are GOP members of Congress.

"Nobody has been more vocal in expressing frustration than me," said Rep. John R. Kasich of Westerville. "I don't think there's any reason why Ohio doesn't have a cabinet appointment or somebody who is at the very highest levels, such as No. 2 in some department."

He believes the only way Ohio's fortunes will improve — should Bush win a second term — is if Republicans make their concerns known now, while the White House is listening.

by lack of federal appointment

"Beyond that, we need to be aggressive with the president and the vice president," Kasich said. "When they come into our state, we need to make it clear to them that we have been disappointed with what we have received.

"I can promise you that Dan Quayle and George Bush do not want Ohio to get the shaft, but you've got to tell them."

Others agree that phone calls to the White House seem to be returned much faster in an election year.

Voinovich, while pleased by his rapport with Bush, expresses frustration with Environmental Protection Agency regulators.

In a battle last month over EPA threats to block modernization of a USS-Kobe steel mill in Lorain, Voinovich became so incensed that he called new White House Chief of Staff Samuel K. Skinner in what proved to be a successful effort to stop the EPA action.

Voinovich argues that the blame for Ohio's lack of political plums must be shared by the White House and Republicans.

"There are some areas where they may not have been as sensitive as some people would like them to be," he said. "On the other hand, we have to have focus, we have to have a congressional delegation that's more focused on bringing home the bacon for their state and for their districts."

One area of particular frustration for central Ohioans was the loss of an appointment to the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. A majority of Ohio's Republican congressmen backed Columbus attorney N. Victor Goodman for an opening created by a Cleveland judge's retirement.

The GOP delegation pleaded Goodman's case with White House

Counsel C. Boyden Gray, but the post went to a person from Tennessee. The feeling was that Ohio lost, but Voinovich disagreed.

"We weren't out in front on it early enough with the political people," he said. "We just didn't get in the door. There are some areas where if you're not on the ball and get your foot in the door early enough, it's all done even before you get in there."

Top-level personnel appointments and federal facilities have not been won in the past because of lack of concentrated effort, Bennett said.

Ohio won approval of its first federal prison in 25 years last month after intensive lobbying by Voinovich and Rep. Ralph Regula, R-Navarre.

"We have lost out on other federal projects because our delegation wasn't unified," Bennett said.

Cabinet appointments have not been forthcoming because of a dearth of top-notch candidates — and no unified support for those who are qualified, said Bennett and Rep. Chalmers P. Wylie of Columbus.

Part of the problem has been timing. In contrast to Illinois, which has had a Republican governor for two decades, Democratic Gov. Richard F. Celeste held office from January 1983 to January 1991, during much of President Reagan's tenure.

Democrat Jimmy Carter was president from 1977-81 while Republican James A. Rhodes was governor. The only overlap came when President Reagan took office in 1981, but Rhodes, at the end of his fourth term, had few cabinet officials likely to move to Washington.

Wylie believes that Ohio's fortunes would improve in a second Bush term with fellow Republican Voinovich in office.

"We have people in place in cabinet positions in Ohio who will have a track record and will be able to move up into similar jobs with the federal government," Wylie said.

Kasich said, "If you aren't going to raise hell and if you aren't going to really push for things, you aren't

...any push for things, you aren't going to get anything.

"You don't get anything in this town by being Mr. Nice Guy. You have to be pleasant with people, but you have to be firm, and we need to do better."

Dear Sam:

You are the best!

Your appearance at the GAMA Directors' meeting last Thursday was unusually thoughtful and provided a real shot in the arm for the entire organization.

Your comments, as always, were right on the mark. Following the meeting, we succeeded in convincing Ed to let us remove the word "interim" from his title.

We also recognize the challenge in developing an appropriate tax incentive (which is sorely needed by the industry!), but I'm convinced that relief in the recapture area is a win-win solution. It will help us sell airplanes and the revenue impact is stretched over five years.

I'll contact Jack Frazee and Larry Fuller about some dates in May or June and will be back to you shortly.

In the meantime, hang in there. You're doing a superb job.

Thanks for breakfast.

Sincerely yours,

Russ

RE: CFCs and international environmental policies

On Friday you asked me to write down the bullet points I ticked off orally concerning how the U.S. has been a leader in responsibly addressing the CFC/ozone depletion problem. What follows is the text of a one-pager I sent to Senator Wallop on Thursday for his use in the Senate Floor debate which summarizes these points:

THE BUSH RECORD ON INTERNATIONAL ENVIRONMENTAL ISSUES: CFCs

- * President Bush was one of the first world leaders to endorse the total phaseout of CFCs by the year 2000.
- * The U.S. was the first nation to actually legislate (in President Bush's Clean Air Act) to complete phaseout of CFCs.
- * The U.S. was the first nation to actually pay in to the Montreal Protocol Fund to help the LDCs meet their obligations.
- * The U.S. has already reduced CFC emissions by 42% just since 1986 -- far ahead of the internationally required schedule.
- * The U.S. enacted (in the FY 1990 Reconciliation bill, fall of 1989), a tax on CFC production of over $1.00 a pound. No other country has done this. That -- a Bush proposal -- is what has put us ahead of schedule on the phaseout.
- * It is also critical to get other countries to sign up to the phase out under the Montreal protocol. For example, India -- scheduled to be one of the largest emitters of CFCs -- hasn't yet signed up.
- * Europe is meeting its initial obligations to phase out under the Protocols by phasing out aerosols -- something the U.S. did in 1978.
- * The Administration, in light of the science, is already considering speeding up the Montreal Protocol time schedule. But let's remember -- the U.S., under President Bush's leadership, has already done more than anyone else.

Administration Statement re: FBI Reports

We are very pleased that the Judiciary Committee has agreed to make substantial improvements that will help protect the confidentiality of FBI background reports on nominees before the Senate for confirmation. These improvements were shown to be necessary by the unauthorized disclosure of material from the confidential FBI reports on Judge Clarence Thomas' nomination as well as from Anita Hill's confidential statement to the Committee. The Committee agreed to the changes as a result of the President's refusal to continue providing raw FBI background reports to the Senate Judiciary Committee in the aftermath of the disclosures.

We are hopeful that by agreeing to these improvements in the procedures for handling and protection of these FBI background reports on nominees, the Committee can avoid a repeat of the leak of confidential FBI information during Judge Thomas's Senate confirmation process, which created such a public outcry last fall.

Improvements

--Committee will designate one custodian trained by Senate Security with responsibility for maintaining the confidentiality of FBI files.

--Logs will be maintained on those who review or are briefed on the reports, including date and time.

--Logs will notify those with access that by accepting access they agree to maintain the confidentiality of the reports.

--Xeroxing or reproduction of FBI reports prohibited.

--FBI background summary reports only (not full FBI report) will be provided on executive branch appointees, except the Attorney General, the FBI and DEA directors, and U.S. Attorneys and Marshals.

DANFORTH COMMENDS AGREEMENT ON HANDLING FBI MATERIAL

U.S. Senator Jack Danforth (R-MO) welcomed announcement today of measures to protect the confidentiality of FBI reports on nominees who are before the Senate for confirmation.

Danforth, the Senate sponsor of Justice Clarence Thomas' nomination to the Supreme Court, stated:

"The leaking of material from FBI reports and Anita Hill's confidential statement was a gross breach of trust. This breach of trust inflicted unimaginable pain on Justice Thomas and his family. It damaged the Senate in the eyes of the nation. It embarrassed our system of government in full view of people around the world. The Senate Special Counsel is investigating this leak.

"To strengthen the integrity of the nominating process and hopefully spare future nominees from such 'hit jobs,' the President insisted on changes in the way FBI material is handled in the Senate. It is my understanding that new Judiciary Committee procedures will include the maintenance of logs to record who is briefed on FBI reports or reviews these reports, a prohibition on photocopying, and other steps.

"These are constructive changes, and I commend the Administration, Chairman Biden and Senator Thurmond for reaching this understanding."

Judiciary Committee Will Again Get FBI Reports on Nominees (

By JAMES ROWLEY=

Associated Press Writer=

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has dropped its refusal to give FBI reports on judicial nominees to the Senate Judiciary Committee — a rule imposed after Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas' bitter confirmation fight, officials said Thursday.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., said the two sides were close to an agreement to resolve the dispute, which flared up following White House charges that FBI reports containing Anita Hill's allegations of sexual harassment against Thomas had been leaked to the press.

Thurmond gave no details of the deal in making the announcement at a committee meeting.

But officials familiar with the talks said an agreement in principle had been reached to resume the old procedures under which FBI reports were given to the committee.

The agreement was expected to be signed Friday by White House Counsel C. Boyden Gray and ranking committee members, said the officials, who spoke on the condition of anonymity.

As part of the agreement, the Judiciary Committee has accepted several White House recommendations for tightening procedures for keeping track of who reads the FBI reports, said the officials.

The White House will furnish FBI reports of background investigations on 36 nominees pending before the panel and future nominations for the lifetime posts. FBI reports will also be forwarded to the panel for U.S. attorney and U.S. marshal nominees.

But the panel will receive only summaries of FBI background reports on other officials, such as assistant attorneys general, officials said.

President Bush announced last fall that he would withhold raw FBI reports on judicial nominees and said that in the future the panel would receive only summaries of the FBI reports, similar to the procedure followed for nominations under the jurisdiction of other Senate committees.

The disclosure of Hill's sexual harassment charges propelled the Senate into holding an extraordinary set of weekend hearings.

Thomas was confirmed on a 52-48 vote and the fight has left a bitter aftertaste in the Senate. A special counsel is currently investigating the alleged leak and has subpoenaed the two reporters who broke the story.

Nina Totenberg of National Public Radio and Timothy Phelps of Newsday have said through attorneys they will refuse to identify their sources.

Bush's refusal to give the panel FBI reports has stalled processing of nominations as time grows short in this election year for the president to put more Republicans on the federal bench. There are 86 vacancies that Bush has not moved to fill in addition to 42 nominees pending in committee.

Last fall, the committee's eight Democrats and six Republicans unanimously passed a resolution asking Bush to change his mind.

The resolution said that without the FBI reports, the panel's investigation of nominees would take much longer. Sen. Joseph R. Biden Jr., D-Del., had threatened not to move any nominees without background checks.

MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDINGSENATE JUDICIARY COMMITTEE AND WHITE HOUSE COUNSELFEBRUARY 7, 1992

1. Reinstate the 1989 agreement, as described in the exchange of letters between Counsel to the President, C. Boyden Gray, and Chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, Joseph R. Biden, and Ranking Minority Member, Strom Thurmond, dated April 12, 1989, and April 24, 1989.
2. Add the following clarifications not detailed in the 1989 agreement:

A. Physical Control of Files

Document control experts from Senate Security periodically review the effectiveness of procedures used to maintain physical custody of files.

B. FBI Reports and Summaries

Full FBI reports provided for judicial nominees, U.S. Attorneys and U.S. Marshals. With exceptions listed below, summaries of FBI reports would be provided for other non-judicial nominees. Exceptions are the Attorney General, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Director of the Drug Enforcement Administration. In addition, the Chairman and Ranking Minority member shall be provided with full FBI reports for any other non-judicial nominee when necessary to the confirmation process.

C. Access to FBI Reports

Access to FBI files shall be available to staff listed and described in the 1989 agreement in accord with the terms and conditions of that agreement. In addition, the Committee will designate one person trained by Senate Security with custodial responsibility over FBI files to ensure their confidentiality. This responsibility includes maintaining logs listing all persons who receive access to the file (including date and time), or who are briefed on the contents of the file. Logs will contain a notification stating that in accepting access to the file the recipient agrees to protect document confidentiality.

Prior written clearance from the Department of Justice must be obtained for all staff with access to FBI files. The FBI will conduct full field background investigations of staff with access to FBI files.

Senate Judiciary Committee will inform White House Counsel in writing of current roster and subsequent changes of staff with access to reports.

D. Prohibiting Reproduction of FBI Files; Provisions for Notes and Memoranda Derived from Files

Photocopying or verbatim reproduction of FBI reports is prohibited.

Notes and memoranda on FBI files are secured in a manner identical to FBI reports. At the conclusion of Senate action on nomination, FBI files are returned to the Department of Justice, and notes and memoranda derived from FBI reports shall be destroyed or continued to be secured in a manner identical to FBI files.

E. Unauthorized Release of Information From FBI Reports

Staff members with access to FBI files are informed in writing at time of employment and at departure from the staff that information from FBI files is to be kept confidential and that unauthorized release of information from FBI files is cause of summary dismissal and risk of civil and criminal penalties.

F. Review

Senators, committee staff and representatives from the Department of Justice and White House Counsel will periodically review, either annually or as need arises, procedures for access to FBI files.

Dear Mr. Skinner:

I wanted to thank you for your support of the Advanced Automation Program during your term as Secretary of Transportation. Our Advanced Automation System (AAS) contract relationships with IBM were improved and highlighted by your relationship with John Akers. The visibility given the program by you personally was a very positive influence to the men and women working on the AAS.

Your support and that of Joe Del Balzo is vital to all we are trying to do with AAS teambuilding and the FAA-IBM partnership that will make AAS successful.

Best wishes to you in your new role and in building the White House team to support President Bush.

COMMITTEE ON WAYS AND MEANS

U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

WASHINGTON, DC 20515

February 11, 1992

ROBERT J. LEONARD, CHIEF COUNSEL AND STAFF DIRECTOR

PHILIP D. MOSELEY, MINORITY CHIEF OF STAFF

The Honorable Robert H. Michel
 Republican Leader
 U.S. House of Representatives
 H-232, The Capitol
 Washington, D. C. 20515

The Honorable Bill Archer
 Ranking Republican
 Committee on Ways and Means
 1106 Longworth Building
 Washington, D. C. 20515

Dear Mr. Leader and Bill:

Thank you for your letter of February 7, 1992, indicating that you both have introduced H.R. 4200, the Economic Growth and Job Creation Act of 1992. It is my understanding that H.R. 4200 contains a modified version of Title I of H.R. 4150 (the President's Economic Growth Act of 1992), as well as selective provisions from other titles of H.R. 4150, and has been referred to five Committees of the House. It is my further understanding that you have changed the President's proposals by modifying Title I of H.R. 4150 with respect to the treatment of capital gains under the minimum tax. In your letter, you suggest that H.R. 4200 be used as the starting point for the Ways and Means Committee markup scheduled tomorrow.

As you know, in my letter of February 6, I requested that all three revenue titles contained in the President's economic growth package -- Title I, Title II, and Title III of H.R. 4150 -- be introduced as a separate bill as a starting point for the Committee's markup. As I have consistently stated, the suggestion that there may be two tax bills this year implementing the President's economic growth package and budget proposals is totally unrealistic. Given the legislative commitments of the Ways and Means Committee with respect to trade and comprehensive health care reform, I remain convinced that there will be only one such tax bill this year -- written by March 20 as the President has demanded.

The Honorable Bill Archer

For these reasons, I find your introduction of H.R. 4200, containing only a modified version of Title I and other selective provisions of H.R. 4150, both surprising and regrettable. It is surprising because the first modifications to the President's revenue proposals have come from Members of his own party in the House, and invite selective modification and cherry-picking from others in the Congress. It is particularly regrettable because by failing to introduce Titles II and III, you are asking millions of hard-working, middle-class Americans to wait until some indefinite time in the future for a tax cut that they desperately need and richly deserve.

In addition, such selectivity among the revenue provisions of the President's program suggests postponing consideration not only of much-needed tax relief for the middle class, but also of such other important revenue initiatives as the permanent extension of the research and development credit, the deductibility of student loan interest and the repeal of luxury excise taxes. Along with many Members on both sides of the aisle, I believe that these and all other revenue provisions contained in the President's revenue package should be considered contemporaneously, not selectively, as you suggest.

After consulting with my Leadership, it is my understanding that Majority Leader Gephardt has introduced today H.R. 4210, containing the first three titles of H.R. 4150 in a separate bill, that was referred exclusively to the Committee on Ways and Means. It is my intention to use H.R. 4210 as the starting point for the Ways and Means Committee markup tomorrow. H.R. 4210 puts all aspects of the President's revenue proposals officially before the Committee. This new bill will, of course, be open to amendment, and could be amended by H.R. 4200 if you choose and a majority of the Committee agrees. Of course, in such an event, the Committee would have to consider the implications of deleting the proposed middle-class tax cut and other important revenue proposals contained in Title II and Title III of the President's program.

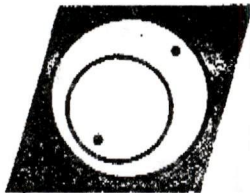

As I indicated at the Ways and Means Committee hearings last week and in my previous letter to both of you, we have every intention of trying to meet the President's March 20 deadline. I look forward to reporting the President's revenue proposals to the House as expeditiously as possible.

Sincerely yours,

Dan Rostenkowski
Chairman

Herefollows a brief bio for RAUL SAPENA BRUGADA, the chief of staff for the President of Paraguay.

Mr. Sapena will be coming to Washington next week to meet with a number of government officials. He would very much like to meet Samuel Skinner.

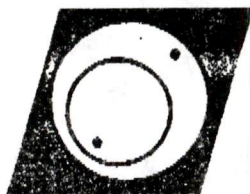

In view of the New Hampshire primary and other prior commitments which you mentioned Mr. Skinner has next week, I have been able to extend Mr. Sapena's stay in Washington until Tuesday, February 25. This means that he would be here to meet Mr. Skinner on Monday, February 24, if Mr. Skinner's schedule would allow that.

Following your advice, I have requested a meeting with Tim McBride to discuss the nuts and bolts of running a presidential staff. Nonetheless, it would still be useful for Mr. Sapena to meet Mr. Skinner, if only briefly.

I look forward to hearing from you at your earliest convenience.

Key would like to bring Mr. Brugada in f/a photo op. I understand he is meeting w/ Bill Kristol + Tim McBride. Set up photo op? Yes X 2:20 No

PROGRAM OBJECTIVES: As Secretary General of the Presidency, Mr. Sapena is intimately involved in managing the President's schedule, public appearances, and his relationship with the press.
