"Day with the All-Americans" Golf Tournament

Bob Hope

Bill McComas,
Brad Corbett,
Allen Paulson

The awe-inspiring Club at Morningside once again sets the stage for a day of high spirits, fun in the sun, and golf with the greats of the PGA tour and the worlds of sports and entertainment.

You'll be playing among the stars of the sport including the likes of Tommy Armour III, Lee Elder, Robert Gamez, Jerry Pate, J.C. Snead, Jim Thorpe and Lee Trevino. The superstars of the links will be joined by eminent amateur duffers including such luminaries as Bob Hope, Cong. Dan Rostenkowski, Dinah Shore, Robert Wagner among others.

In keeping with tradition, there will be exciting prizes for winners at the post tournament celebration and a handsome array of gifts for all participants. So don't miss out on this unique

THE FOUNDATION . . .

The "Day with the All-Americans" Golf Tournament is one of our ways of raising funds for the Foundation's extensive scholarship program which for over 27 years has helped provide needy and deserving young men and women attain college educations.

Since its inception, your support and the support of the pros who year after year volunteer to play in our tournament has enabled us to provide over 270 scholarships to our Nation's youth.

In addition, this past summer the Foundation launched the All-American Summer Golf Clinic to introduce and encourage minority youths' participation in golf.

RE: Accent on Architecture 1992

The Secretary has been asked to serve as member of the Honorary Committee for Accent on Architecture 1992. Governor Sununu, several members of the Cabinet, and Senator Dole have also been asked to serve.

Pursuant to the Department's policy on participation of DOT officials in charitable fund raisers, the Secretary may serve as a member of the Honorary Committee and lend his name but not his title in support of fund raising activities. However, his name may not be used in efforts to target transportation related interests for contributions.

The White House Ethics Counsel has agreed to review in draft form all materials that will feature the names of Honorary Committee members. Cabinet titles will not be used in the materials.

ACCENT ON ARCHITECTURE

A CELEBRATION OF DESIGN EXCELLENCE

July 26, 1991

The Honorable Samuel K. Skinner
Secretary of Transportation
Department of Transportation
400 7th Street, S.W.
#10200
Washington, D.C. 20590

Dear Secretary Skinner:

To commemorate the 200th anniversary of the White House next year, The American Institute of Architects (AIA) and The American Architectural Foundation (AAF), in conjunction with the Office of the White House Curator and the White House Historical Association, are hosting Accent on Architecture 1992, a series of special events marking this historic bicentennial.

Events planned to celebrate Accent on Architecture include:

- A Major Gala event at the Kennedy Center to be attended by the President and Mrs. Bush
- An Exhibition on the Architectural History of the White House which will travel to Presidential libraries around the country
- A possible PBS Television Special
- An Educational Outreach Program focusing on White House history. This program, conducted in conjunction with the Very Special Arts Organization, will reach an audience of over 30,000 elementary schools nationwide, focusing on those students who suffer from disabilities.

We would be honored if you would accept our invitation to serve as a member of the Honorary Committee for this historic national celebration. With your permission, your name will appear as a founding member of our Honorary Committee and be used on all printed materials related to Accent on Architecture 1992.

ACCENT ON ARCHITECTURE 1992

THE THIRD ANNUAL CELEBRATION OF
DESIGN EXCELLENCE

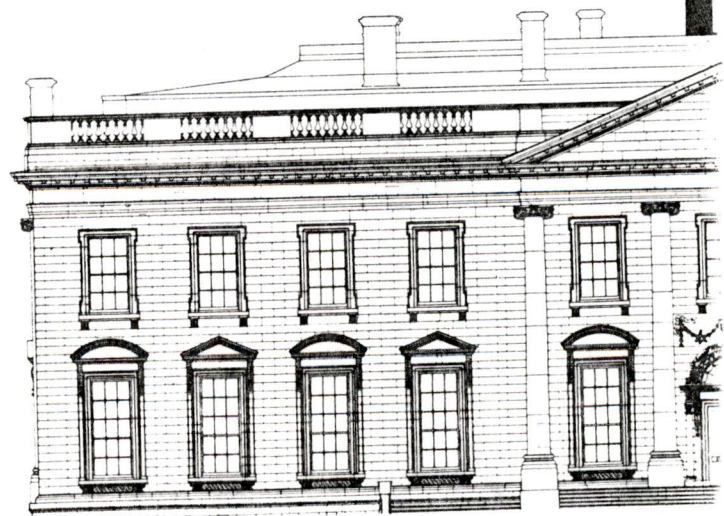

Presented By

The American Institute of Architects
The American Architectural Foundation

Featuring a special tribute to

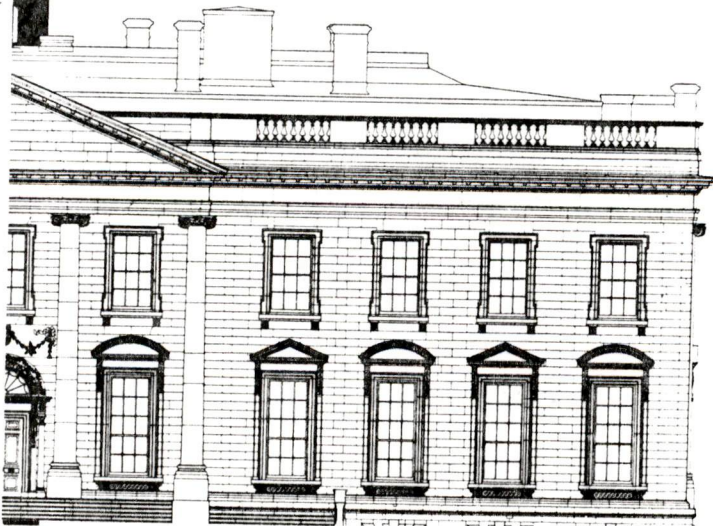

THE 200TH ANNIVERSARY
OF THE WHITE HOUSE

In cooperation with
The White House Historical Association

THREE DECADES AGO, Winston Churchill wrote, "We shape our buildings; thereafter they shape us." As the most public of the arts, architecture affects us all. It gives form to our ideals; it influences how we live and work, worship and learn; it helps define the quality of our lives.

Sponsored by The American Institute of Architects (AIA) and The American Architectural Foundation (AAF), Accent on Architecture is an annual celebration of design excellence--a reaffirmation of the importance of quality architecture in enhancing daily life and an expression of the commitment of the architectural profession to expand public dialogue about critical issues affecting our nation's environments. Through its awards presentations, educational programs, publications, exhibitions, public lectures, and other events, Accent on Architecture seeks to broaden public understanding of architecture's role in American life.

THE AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ARCHITECTS

The American Institute of Architects (AIA) has been the professional society of American architects since its founding in 1857. Representing more than 55,000 members, the Institute works through its national headquarters in Washington, DC, and through 300 chapters nationwide to enhance the ability of architects to create architecture of the highest quality and serve public needs. Through technical resources, professional development programs, public education initiatives, community service, and government affairs efforts, the AIA fulfills its mission of contributing to the advancement of the profession of architecture and being of ever-increasing service to society.

THE AMERICAN ARCHITECTURAL FOUNDATION

Founded in 1942, The American Architectural Foundation (AAF) works to stimulate public awareness and understanding of architecture, and has served as a link between the architectural profession and the American people. With headquarters at the nation's oldest museum devoted to architecture, the historic Octagon in Washington, DC, the Foundation promotes alliances between architects and the communities in which they live; fosters design awareness through educational programs, exhibitions, lectures, publications, and its renowned Prints & Drawings collection; and encourages public stewardship of America's architectural heritage.

made this great house their home. In addition, the nation's top architectural awards will be presented, including the AIA Gold Medal, the most prestigious award of its kind in the world. President Bush has been invited to present the medal, as he did in 1990. The best of American architecture, both historic and modern, will be presented in ways that are entertaining and informative. The gala black-tie awards dinner and ceremony will take place on the evening of January 22, 1992.

"THE WHITE HOUSE: IMAGE IN ARCHITECTURE 1792-1992"

The historic Octagon museum (itself a temporary White House for President and Mrs. Madison) will host the official exhibition on the architectural history of the Executive Mansion. Featuring rare prints, drawings, architectural elements, and other artifacts, the exhibition will trace the development of the house from its original design in 1792 to its current restoration. The First Lady, Barbara Bush, has been invited to serve as host of the reception opening the exhibition, scheduled for the afternoon of January 22, 1992. A panel version of the exhibition will travel around the country to presidential libraries and other sites through 1992 and beyond. The Smithsonian Institution joins Accent on Architecture and the White House Historical Association as a cosponsor of the exhibition.

THE WHITE HOUSE YEARS: 1792-1992

Although guidebooks have been written about the White House, the full story of its architectural history has never been recorded--until now. AIA Press will publish this definitive commemorative anniversary volume, written by historian and White House authority Dr. William Seale in conjunction with the Accent on Architecture festivities. Fully and lavishly illustrated, the book will reveal the many changes the building has undergone through an engaging narrative that includes little-known details about official and domestic White House life.

EDUCATIONAL OUTREACH PROGRAMS

The American Architectural Foundation's educational outreach program will bring lessons about the political and architectural history of the White House to elementary and secondary schools across the nation. A variety of teaching activities and materials will invite students to explore 200 years of family life in the White House and will encourage teachers to draw on the expertise of AIA members in their communities. Additionally, the Foundation is working with Very Special Arts to help children with disabilities join in the anniversary celebration.

The Octagon, located a block from the White House, will be the site of the exhibition "The White House: Image in Architecture 1792-1992."

TELEVISION OPPORTUNITIES

The White House anniversary offers great potential for communicating with the American people through the medium of television. Options are available in commercial and public broadcasting that would celebrate both the remarkable history of the Executive Mansion and the best of American design today.

OTHER OPPORTUNITIES

Accent on Architecture 1992 will also feature a public lecture series on the White House and on contemporary architectural issues, as well as posters and a full-color book celebrating 1992 award-winning buildings and architects.

ACCENT ON ARCHITECTURE 1992 CELEBRATES AMERICA'S MOST HISTORIC LANDMARK AND THE BEST OF TODAY'S ARCHITECTURE

The year 1992 marks the 200th anniversary of a notable moment in American political and architectural history--the laying of the cornerstone of the White House. The third annual Accent on Architecture celebration of design excellence is honored to have been selected as the official commencement event for the year-long festivities. Working in cooperation with the White House Historical Association and the Curator of the White House, Accent on Architecture will offer a wide range of opportunities to direct public attention to this country's architectural traditions and triumphs, both historic and contemporary. Scheduled to begin on January 22, 1992, in the Nation's Capital, Accent on Architecture will bring together the American people, American architects, public officials, business leaders, and the arts community in a celebration of design excellence and history that includes a glittering awards gala, a major exhibition, national educational programs, a unique commemorative book, public lectures, and more.

The American Institute of Architects and The American Architectural Foundation are seeking individual and corporate sponsorship of Accent on Architecture 1992 through contributions to one or more of the following programs, products, and events.

ACCENT ON ARCHITECTURE AWARDS GALA

Two years ago, the Prince of Wales addressed the first Accent on Architecture awards gala and began a tradition of public discourse about architecture that will continue at the 1992 event. The gala will be highlighted by a special tribute to the White House anniversary and to those who have

"I understand that the spirit of our country can be seen in its architecture. From majestic monuments like this historic White House to the gentlest Main Street in small-town America, our buildings speak to us of who we are, where we've been, and where we're going."

"The 1992 Accent On Architecture program will serve as a fitting commencement of the public celebration of the 200th anniversary of the White House. Through this remarkable collaborative effort between The American Institute of Architects, The American Architectural Foundation, the White House Historical Association, and Very Special Arts, we will be able to educate Americans of all ages about this nation's best-known architectural landmark."

THE CHICAGO INN OF COURT

The William Kennedy Smith Trial From The Trial Lawyer's Perspective

Did he do it? We'll never tell. But your January team will share with you video-taped highlights of the trial. While we know it will come as a disappointment to some, these excerpts have been chosen not for their prurient interest but because we believe they (1) serve as good illustrations of trial dos and don'ts or (2) raise important legal issues or broader jurisprudential questions. In short, our program will focus on education, not titillation.

Cocktail hour begins at 5:30. Dinner will be served at 6:30. Following dinner, your January team will show Smith-trial highlights, comment on especially good -- or bad -- trial tactics, and lead a discussion on significant issues brought into focus by the case. Who knows, maybe even a little titillation will creep into our program. So, be there or be square.

WILSON REDUX

On Friday, January 31, from 6:00 - 8:00 PM, Governor and Mrs. Wilson and their "Californian-Washingtonian-Californian-desparately-missing-Washington-in-Sacramento staff" would like to invite all our old and new friends and colleagues to a traditional mix and mingle where we can trade political war stories, spin our hearts out, and have cocktails, cocktails, cocktails. After all we've had a drought in California.

In addition to the Wilsons, those bicoastal hybrid hosts would be:

Pat Clarey	George Dunn	Mark Davis
Bill Livingstone	Dan Schuur	Ira Goldman
Larry Goldzband	Bonnie Guison	Jack Flanigan
George Gorton	Bill Hauck	Cathie Bennett Warner

The location will be Bob White's (as yet unsold and still luxurious place) at 2101 Connecticut Avenue N.W., NO. 28

We hope that you can join us.

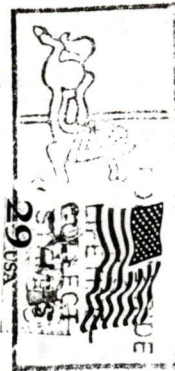

Please respond to Ande Metzger in the Governor's Washington office at (202) 624-5278 by Wednesday, January 29.
