Dear Governor:

I would have responded sooner, but I've had a lot of trouble thinking of something critical to say. To be honest, I think you've had a spectacular month.

The environmental initiative is, literally, the most important political move the Republican Party has made domestically in years. Our tenuous appeal among younger voters has just been strengthened and, by establishing some apparent distance between the party and big business, our appeal across all age groups stands to improve.

I'm equally thrilled with the Congressional/campaign reform emphasis, which is as sound in a policy as a political sense. What's best about it, of course, is the tactics of keeping Congress defensive, self-absorbed, and therefore less mischievous.

One suggestion: The HUD problem must be presented in its accurate context, which extends way beyond eight years. Kemp's report should catalog a quarter century of favoritism and abuse; the truth, and the politically essential point, is that the problem is inherent in massive federal spending programs, not in the character of Sam Pierce or any particular set of functionaries. I've heard that Kemp's inquiry may limit itself to Pierce's tenure, and I think that would be both insufficient on the merits and politically dumb.

DEAR GOVERNOR SUNUNU,

RECENTLY, THREE VACANCIES OPENED FOR COMMISSIONER OF THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION. PRO-FAMILY GROUPS, WHO PROVIDED THE PRESIDENT WITH A LARGE PERCENTAGE OF HIS WINNING MARGIN LAST NOVEMBER, REQUESTED THAT OUR INTERESTS BE REPRESENTED ON THE COMMISSION. ONLY ONE SLOT WAS REQUESTED. WE UNDERSTAND THAT TWO OF THE VACANCIES HAVE NOW BEEN FILLED WITH INDIVIDUALS WHO DO NOT SHARE OUR VALUES, AND THAT THE REMAINING POSITION WILL BE FILLED WITH A THIRD INDIVIDUAL UNSYMPATHETIC TO PRO-FAMILY CONCERNS. WE CAN ONLY HOPE THAT SUCH RUMORS ARE FALSE. WE URGE THE PRESIDENT TO APPOINT MR JOHN PRICE TO THE COMMISSION. MR PRICE IS A MAN WHO WILL REPRESENT THE INTERESTS OF THE PRO-FAMILY. PLEASE CONVEY TO THE PRESIDENT OUR CONCERN OVER THIS APPOINTMENT,

Honorable John Sununu
Chief of Staff
OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT
The White House
Washington, D.C. 20500

Dear John:

First, congratulations on your appointment. I was delighted that the President had the wisdom to put you precisely where you'll do him -- and the country -- the most good.

Second, to update you on PCC, we're now located in North Carolina (I'd had enough of Dukakis about six months before America reached the same conclusion). Since we last talked, the program has caught on ... Dow, Ford, GM, Hallmark and Monsanto are among those now involved. In addition, I also serve on the board of trustees of the American Economic Foundation, which specializes in educating the public about economics. It's a natural adjunct to my work with employees.

Third, as you can imagine, the directors of both PCC and the American Economic Foundation are deeply concerned about the problem of American competitiveness. On the one side, we fear that ignoring America's crisis could lead to reduced living standards and less opportunity; to say nothing of what it would mean to our ability to preserve freedom. To the other, we are absolutely appalled at the "solutions" emerging from Cambridge, the Council on National Priorities, and the Democratic caucus, most of which are guaranteed to make a bad problem even worse.

We know that you and President Bush share our concern, and we want to do what we can to help you get out the real competitiveness message to the American people. What I'm proposing, on behalf of both organizations, is a joint luncheon meeting in Washington between our trustees and you, to take place at a date of your choosing in the late fall. While we're open to suggestions on the specific location, the Cosmo Club might be a good idea, as it's private and close to your office. One of our trustees can make arrangements.

What I'd envision is an informal exchange regarding the Administration's analysis of the competitiveness crisis, what we can do to inform the public about the problem, and who we might look to for help in this effort. Since it is my understanding that this portfolio is in the Vice President's hand, we'd be very interested in hearing about his plans.

I've included a list of our trustees. Several I believe you'll recognize as friends of the President. We'd also like to invite Ross Perot to participate. Though not serving on either board, Ross is a friend of Dick Taylor's (and the Administration), and has a keen interest in these issues.

Let me know if we can work something out. Thanks.

Sincerely,

Dan Dickinson
President

RE: Draft Legislation on Acid Rain

As we hope you know from the press reports of last week, we are delighted that the President is calling for a 10-million-ton reduction in sulfur dioxide emissions by the end of the century and that he proposes to incorporate a marketable permit approach in his acid rain program. While the National Clean Air Coalition will continue to push Congress for a 12 million ton reduction -- equal to the 50% reduction that the National Academy of Sciences first called for in 1981, the President's proposal has already made an enormous difference in bringing us closer to an acid rain solution.

The fact sheet outlining the President's Clean Air Plan, circulated early last week, suggests that many of the critical design elements of the President's acid rain proposal will only be revealed when legislative language is drafted. We believe that the success of the President's proposal, both politically and practically, crucially depends on precisely those design elements that remain unspecified.

For example, those seeking protection for high-sulfur coal markets and those seeking explicit cost-sharing provisions are likely to package such proposals with provisions that enhance environmental protection as compared with the specific provisions of the President's bill. More generally, the specific provisions included in the bill will be viewed as a signal test both of the President's promise to end acid rain and the credibility of the market incentive approach of emissions trading.

The specific points that must be addressed are detailed below.

1. Total Tonnage and Emissions Increases.

The general approbation that greeted the President's acid rain proposal was aimed at the 10-million-ton level of sulfur dioxide reductions his proposal promised. Obviously, it is vital that the legislative elements the Administration sends to the Hill deliver on the promise. Otherwise, the bill itself could be characterized as reneging on the 10-million-ton promise the President made on June 12.

The High Case of the new EPA Base Case projections for the next 20 years shows increases in sulfur dioxide emissions between now and the year 2000 as well as between 2000 and 2010. To achieve the 10-million-ton reduction below 1980 levels the President promised and to ensure that such a reduction succeeds in protecting the environment, the Administration bill must present a program which compensates for potential emissions growth. Any emissions growth during either the 10-year reduction program or beyond must be met with additional reductions if the President's goal is to be achieved. In particular, without a fixed limit on emissions increases after the year 2000, SO₂ loadings would begin to climb and the incentives for the use of energy conservation as a technique for reducing emissions would disappear. Given the looming global warming crisis, this would be a major lost opportunity for cost-effective greenhouse gas reductions.

2. Permits.

The President's outline does not make it clear whether the permit issued to each source would require the source to achieve a specified emissions rate or to reduce its emissions to a specified tonnage level. It is essential that permits require specified tonnage reductions. Tonnage permits are indispensable to incorporating energy conservation into the mix of methods for reducing emissions. Permits that required only reductions in emissions rates would preclude energy conservation from playing any role in emissions reduction.

Similarly, emissions trading is, for all practical purposes, simply not viable in a program that requires sources only to reduce their rates. Only a system of tonnage-reduction permits allows for the easy determination of a source's baseline emissions, ready identification and calculation of emissions reduction credits and clear-cut application of such credits to another source's compliance requirements. Otherwise, the need to convert emissions rates into actual emissions on a transaction-by-transaction basis would complicate transactions for individual sources as well as for the Agency's attempts to monitor compliance. It is imperative that the environmental integrity of the trading program be given the highest priority.

Finally, setting sources' emissions reduction requirements in terms of tonnage is instrumental to preventing future emissions increases from undermining the aggregate emissions reduction target.

3. Energy Conservation Credits

Promoting energy conservation as a preferred method for reducing emissions is vital. That is why permits must require tonnage rather than rate reductions. In addition, capping total emissions automatically credits sources with emissions reduction resulting from conservation. Providing an affirmative incentive for energy conservation, as the June 12 briefings suggested the President's proposal would do, could also prove to be vital. However, it is essential that any emissions reductions crediting conferred upon specific conservation measures be limited to those measures which produce verifiable reductions in energy production from fossil fuel fired plants.

4. Compliance and Enforcement.

As with any new program, the public, the press and Capitol Hill will be scrutinizing the President's bill to determine whether it is practical and enforceable. This is particularly true of the emissions trading elements of the program. Skepticism of the reliability of emissions trading persists. Since June 12, both Congressional leaders and environmental activists have expressed this skepticism by suggesting that sources will use trading to subvert the reduction requirements of the program and by questioning the practical ability of the EPA to establish and effectuate a program for enforcing compliance. Though EDF has been a strong proponent of emissions trading, we, too, focused much of the proposal we originally submitted to the Administration on precisely these issues. To maintain the credibility both of the emissions trading program and of his overall acid rain program, the President's bill must, at a minimum, provide for:

- *continuous emissions monitoring on all sources, to be installed and maintained by sources and independently certified. CEM data should be reported to EPA and the public on a quarterly basis, and sources should be presumed to be emitting at maximum, uncontrolled levels during unmeasured or unreported periods.

- *automatic penalties or fees for non-compliance that cannot be passed through to rate-payers or deducted from income taxes. The penalties should be set high enough to match the marginal cost of reduction. In addition, non-complying sources must also be required to repay their "environmental debt" by securing, presumably through purchasing credits, the required reductions they failed to make or otherwise provide for.

- *absolute liability for each source to comply with its permit requirements. Failure of a seller to generate promised credits must not defeat a buying source's obligation to comply with its permit. The ability of credit-buyers to interpose such a defense for non-compliance would stagger enforcement efforts. Of course, "hold harmless" clauses in agreements between sellers and buyers should be permitted legally.

5. The West.

At present, researchers have begun to detect acid deposition damage to high country lakes in the Rocky Mountain West. In addition, visibility deterioration due to SO₂ and NO_x emissions has begun to plague national treasures like the Grand Canyon. Most damage studies indicate that the economic costs of visibility reductions could be the single greatest impact of these emissions. Sulfur dioxide and NO_x emissions are projected to double over 1980 levels by 2010 and if these emissions increases are not prevented, they threaten to create dual acid deposition and visibility crises for the West. The President's acid rain program will be viewed as incomplete if it does not cap utility emissions in the West at current levels to avoid future increases. Given that the proposal already incorporates interstate emissions trading, a Western cap can be imposed without threatening economic growth. The joint EPA/EDF analysis of interstate trading demonstrates that western emissions increases can be easily compensated through trading.

6. Legal Certainty and Statutory "Hammers".

Since it is vital that the President's acid rain program become operational and start producing emissions reductions as soon after enactment as possible, the legislation itself must be as specific as possible in order to minimize any legal uncertainties that would retard the Agency's efforts to promulgate and implement a program. Accordingly, the legislation itself should specify the baselines to be used in issuing permits, the obligation to install and maintain continuous emissions monitoring and the penalty levels and related provisions. In addition, the statute itself should include a "hammer" legally requiring, by date certain, and regardless of the status of EPA regulations as of that date should final rules not be in effect, that individual plants: 1) reduce their pollution by a specified amount, 2) install, maintain and report continuous emissions monitoring and 3) be subject to specific penalties and "environmental payback" requirements.

7. Industrial Emissions.

The President's proposal appears to count the 1 million ton reduction in industrial emissions that have occurred since 1980 as part of the proposal's overall reduction total. While that accurately reflects current emissions, the EPA must be given an express statutory mandate to prevent future increases in emissions from the industrial sector if they begin to occur. In addition, industrial sources should be permitted to provide emissions reduction credits to utility sources.

The specific provisions of the acid rain legislation the President sends to Capitol Hill will immediately be judged against his promise that "acid rain will stop by the end of this century." Similarly, the credibility of his commitment to using a market approach to solve acid rain will also be either reinforced or undermined by the degree to which his legislation embodies an effective and reliable acid rain reduction program.

You were a big hit at La Salle Military Academy and Manhattan College last week. The Brothers were delighted that you would take time from your incredible schedule and be with them. I am so sorry I was unable to be with you and Nancy on those days.

I have attached a brief summary with my personal observations of an item pertaining to Catholic education relations with the Administration. The Honorable

Dear Governor Sununu:

The petroleum industry has announced a new nationwide program to help prevent another major oil spill, contain and clean it up should one occur and conduct extensive research on spill-related subjects. The program will be put into place by the industry working with federal, state and local governments.

Enclosed is a copy of the full report of the American Petroleum Institute Oil Spill Task Force, with an accompanying news release, describing the new program and the Petroleum Industry Response Organization which it creates.

The program, which will cost the industry more than a quarter of a billion dollars over the first five years, is the result of an intensive review of industry oil spill prevention and response programs that was conducted by the industry at the request of API's Board of Directors. It is aimed at providing better environmental protection wherever tankers operate in U.S. waters. The major petroleum companies that receive most of the oil entering U.S. ports each day have approved and are committed to participating in the program.

Spill prevention will be the program's first line of defense. New and improved approaches to tanker operation, spill containment and cleanup will be established. At the core of the program will be five regional response centers ready to handle any future major spill in U.S. waters. The centers are provisionally planned for the New York tristate area, Norfolk, New Orleans, Long Beach and Seattle, with a headquarters in Washington, D.C.

API is ready to provide whatever additional information we can to the Congress on this new industry program. I hope that you will not hesitate to contact us if we can help in any way.

Sincerely,

THE WHITE HOUSE

Dear Governor Sununu:

On behalf of the Foundation for Economic Research, I would like to thank you for the considerable time you extended to us on Thursday. As I mentioned, you have indeed been a long-term friend to the Foundation, and this has been most appreciated and a valuable asset to our effort.

Feedback on the occasion was extremely positive; people felt your presentation of the information and handling of the questions was straightforward, honest, and reflected a course of action that was well supported. From my observation, your comment about our Congressional delegation was right on target, but it still appears to surprise many people in the business community and still does not galvanize them into action.

I mentioned to you that I am presently planning a State Senate race from the South Shore, but have been approached relative to a U. S. Senate run. As the enclosed resume might indicate, the first is reasonable, the second a longshot. I will continue to investigate a U. S. Senate race, and if it appears at all feasible, I would appreciate your input.

Best wishes for continued success, and thank you again for your time and support.

Cordially,

Daniel W. Daly
President

Dear John:

Thank you for sending over the Public Opinion Survey concerning the recent proposals of George Bush at NATO. I appreciate it. I am also sending to you a Monitor article from Saturday that should be handled by the White House staff. This shot at the President is due to some staffer sending out a form letter. Perhaps a good solid response will solve the problem. I did want you to be aware of it.

May 31, 1989

The Honorable John H. Sununu
Chief of Staff
The White House
Washington, DC 20500

Dear Governor Sununu:

I understand Lincoln, Nebraska has been selected as a site for the President to visit on June 9. As my letter to you of May 24 indicates, a number of alternative fuel activities are under way in Lincoln, the most promising being the commercialization efforts of the new motor fuel compound, Ethyl Tertiary Butyl Ether (ETBE).

An opportunity exists for the President, while in Lincoln, to issue the long awaited announcement of the technical clarification that the alcohol fuels tax credit applies to the ethanol used in the manufacture of ETBE. Without this simple, but critical Administrative ruling, ETBE will not be commercial in the near term. Significant support exists for such a ruling. Seventy-five senators wrote the Administration requesting this ruling be issued in 1988. Since that time three of the President's Cabinet officers, Mr. Riley, Mr. Watkins and Mr. Yeutter have also written the Treasury Department asking for an expedited ruling. In the private sector, ETBE has the wide support of agriculture, environment and the automobile communities and the oil industry acknowledges that ETBE is completely compatible with their refineries and pipeline distribution system.

The problem continues to be the delay in Treasury issuing this ruling. If the President were willing to expedite this matter to coincide with his visit, Nebraska, with its long history of support for alternative fuels, would be an ideal setting for him to make such an announcement. It serves as a national center of the agricultural community and I know that Governor Orr's office would be able to assist in making it a momentous occasion for American agriculture. Boyden Gray, Cooper Evans and EPA Assistant Administrator Bill Rosenberg are all fully briefed on ETBE and can be excellent resources for anything relating to this issue. In addition, both Ray Durante and myself would be pleased to provide you with any additional information you might require on ETBE or alternative fuels.

Dear John:

After sixteen years of congressional service, twelve of those with me, my chief of staff, Brian O'Leary Bennett, has decided to return home to Los Angeles and enter the private sector. He is leaving Washington on June 30th. I am going to miss him and would like to do something special for him.

In all these years Brian has never visited the Oval Office to meet the President. But in his case it's not just any president. As you may know, Brian was an original member of the Bush for President California Organizing Committee, California Delegate Selection Committee, surrogate program, etc., etc. He was also a delegate to the National Convention. He worked on behalf of the campaign long and hard, on both coasts and also managed to keep my office running smoothly as I traversed the country for the President.

I know it would be an honor for Brian to say good bye to Washington in the company of the President. A quick hello and picture...in and out in just minutes. I would join him. Again, he leaves on June 30th.

Thanks, John!

Best regards,

Robert K. Dornan

Dear John:

On behalf of the Board of Directors of SOAR! (Support Our Aging Religious, Inc.), I would like to invite you to serve on our Honorary Committee for the 1989 Annual SOAR! Award Dinner. The event is scheduled to be held on Wednesday, October 18, at the Washington Court Hotel, 525 New Jersey Avenue, N.W.

SOAR! is a non-profit organization of lay men and women who are committed to assuring financially stable and personally secure futures for elderly and frail members of religious congregations in the United States, augmenting the efforts of the institutional church. To achieve this end, SOAR! awards financial grants to meet emergency needs of congregations experiencing difficulty in adequately resolving the multiple needs of their retired members.

SOAR! was organized in 1986 as a response to the growing numbers of aging religious in America. The need is greatest among those nuns, brothers, and priests who have dedicated their lives to literacy and education through service in America's parochial schools. We hope to dramatically enhance the Church's ability to cope with this problem.

I have enclosed two pieces of information to better acquaint you with the organization. To facilitate your response I have enclosed a stamped card addressed to SOAR!. If you require additional information, please feel free to contact me or the Dinner Coordinator, Jane McCarthy, at the SOAR! office. She may be reached on 589-9811.

Thank you for your thoughtful consideration.

Sincerely,

The Honorable John H. Sununu
Chief of Staff to the President
The White House
Washington, DC 20500

Dear Mr. Sununu:

On May 5, 1989, the National Clean Air Coalition requested a meeting with President Bush to discuss critical issues regarding the Clean Air Act.

Instead the President met yesterday with representatives of major environmental organizations to discuss a variety of issues related to the environment. The many organizations of the Coalition that are not environmental organizations were not invited to this meeting. Those not invited include the American Lung Association, Consumer Federation of America, the League of Women Voters, the United Steelworkers of America, the General Board of Church and Society of the United Methodist Church, and several others.

The National Clean Air Coalition represents a conviction by our members that Americans' right to clean air is more than an "environmental" issue. Clean air involves public health, the responsibility of the people's representatives to protect all individuals from harm due to the actions of others, and the need to pursue economic prosperity and protection of the environment as harmonious, integrated objectives.

President Bush was quoted earlier this week as noting that, in developing clean air proposals, he doesn't "want to throw America out of work." Given this concern, we think it would have been particularly important for him to hear directly from the broad range of perspectives that belong to the Coalition, so that the health, church, civic, consumer, and labor members of our Coalition could explain why we believe clean air, equity and economic well-being are goals that we can and must pursue together.

Sincerely,

The Honorable John Sununu
White House Chief of Staff
1600 Pennsylvania Ave.

Dear Mr. Sununu;

While you were Governor of New Hampshire you had several opportunities to award state level recognitions to a young Strafford man, David Mooers, who attends Coe-Brown Academy. He was actively involved in the Lilac Commission Award given to the Coe-Brown FFA in 1987, and was the New Hampshire representative to the Building Our American Communities Conference in Washington in 1986 for his organization of the Deerfield Fair Petting Barn which serves as an educational medium to promote Agriculture in New Hampshire.

Several years ago David began to identify a problem in his hometown. He saw that it was very difficult to manage underbrush growth along the many rural roads. He contacted the Selectmen with the suggestion that he would contract to keep the roadsides cut back, the brush removed and the road signs free of visual obstructions. His idea grew into a business large enough that he needed to hire another young man to successfully meet the demands of the job.

Besides these activities David has held down two part time jobs and helped in the family business, Blue Hills Forest Products, to which the whole Mooers family has devoted their collective time and energies. They manage their own 35 acres, and over 3000 acres of privately owned land in Strafford which has been set aside for public hunting, fishing and trapping. They harvest the timber for the owner, using selective cutting methods to improve the timber stand, while carefully maintaining both the ecological balance and the wildlife habitat. Among other processes, the family has raised two brace of oxen to haul the felled trees when modern equipment usage would cause damage to the delicate balances of the environmental area they protect.

As the third son, David feels that he must develop skills which will augment those his father and brothers have already brought to the business. To this end, he is enrolled in Hesser College next fall, majoring in business management. He believes that the computerization and management skills he can bring, upon graduation, will greatly improve the efficiency factors of both billing and receipts accounting.

Enclosed you will find information about the Yoshiyama Award for which we are recommending David. We will be very grateful if you can find time to write a letter supporting David's recommendation. I have highlighted the area explaining what is needed. Hopefully the background information in this letter will provide you with what information you need if you can fulfill our request. If you need any additional information, feel free to call me at the address and number above. We need to assemble, and postmark, the package by July 1, 1989.

Should David receive this award, I am certain that it would be used for his education at Hesser College. His father has just recently been diagnosed with a serious illness, so financial support from home will be even less available than when it was simply an issue of cash flow in a small forestry operation during a developmental stage.

I have also enclosed several photos. The black and white photo pictures David (last on right) at the Lilac Commission award. The other two we thought you and your wife might like as mementos of New Hampshire and the FFA.

Sincerely Yours,

Paul Davis
Vocational Director

Dear Governor Sununu:

Thank you with all my heart for making time in your schedule to come back to La Salle Military Academy as our very special commencement speaker. It was truly an honor for all of us to have someone of your importance and stature on campus for this year's graduation. Your presence added so much dignity and excitement to the occasion that Graduation 1989 will stand out for years to come as one of the La Salle's best (perhaps surpassed only by that famous one in 1957).

It was a pleasure to meet your wonderful family and to have them share in the day's festivities. Please thank them for coming.

I trust that you all arrived back home safely. I wish you continued success and goodwill in your endeavors there in Washington.

May God bless and keep you.

Dear John:

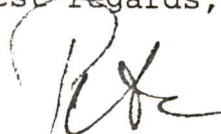

Congratulations on a successful European trip. The entire administration looked very good on this one and my congratulations on having pulled it together so well.

Enclosed is a copy of a letter recently sent to the President on behalf of the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia. It invites him to attend the dedication of the new wing of the hospital on the 17th of September. All of us in the Mid-Atlantic Region very much hope he will attend for this is the premiere children's hospital in the east.

I say that with an admitted bias because my father-in-law, Richard Wood, has been the Chairman of the Board for more than two decades. He is in his 80's now and the new wing that is being dedicated is being named in his honor. Both Elise and I would be delighted if the President would be good enough to accept this invitation. But I suppose those who will be honored most are the tens of thousands of babies and children who are better today because of the treatment they received there.

We very much hope that the President will join us, and if you and Nancy can find time to come along, we'll provide some home cooking at our house at the other end of the day.

Best regards,

Pierre S. du Pont IV

Dear Mr. Sununu:

It has been brought to my attention that Edward L. Flippen, a partner in the Richmond law firm of Mays and Valentine, is one of the candidates being considered for appointment by the President to the Federal Communications Commission.

Mr. Flippen is highly respected throughout the community for his professional and academic credentials as well as his personal qualities. It is my belief that he would make a valuable contribution to the Commission and to the overall Bush initiative. For those reasons, I send along my endorsement and recommendation for his favorable consideration.

With warmest personal regards,

Sincerely,

Dear John:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for sending me a picture of you and I meeting while I was a guest of Governor O'Neill at the Indian Treaty Room Reception during the Inaugural ceremonies.

It may seem unusual to some that a Republican Chief Of Staff to the President of the United States would take the time to send a picture to the Chairman of the Democratic Party in Connecticut. It does not strike me as unusual or out of character for a man of your reputation and stature. In fact, it is typical of the type of Governor you were in New Hampshire and the type of Chief Of Staff you are in Washington.

Thank you for taking the time from your busy schedule to think of me. I will not forget the courtesy. If I can ever be of any service to you in Connecticut (of course, on a non-partisan basis), please call me.

Sincerely,

Dear John:

I enjoyed chatting with you at my daughter's, Maiselle, house a month or so ago. We treasure so much the nice things President Bush had to say the night of Terry's wake when he phoned and extended his heartfelt condolences. You indicated you would tell him of our warm feelings for his kindness.

John, Jeff Keith, the young man who jogged across the country on behalf of the Cancer Society, is conducting a "Swim Across The Sound" from Long Island to Fairfield Beach (CT). The event takes place Saturday, July 22. Do you think you might be able to get the President to greet the swimmers at the finish line at Fairfield Beach for a brief time? (My wife worked diligently for President Bush during the campaign and was probably one of the most significant reasons Fairfield County went solidly for George Bush.) I am enclosing a personal letter from Jeff to President Bush along with a brochure that describes his story.

Many thanks and best personal regards from the Dolans.

Sincerely,

Joseph W. Dolan

Office of the President

Dear President:

Consider this a letter coming from one of your thousand points of light.

On February 18, 1985, I became the first amputee to run across America. By the run's completion, I had journeyed through 18 states and the District of Columbia, raised $1 million for the American Cancer Society, and instilled a new awareness to millions of Americans that cancer could be beaten.

What I learned most from my journey was that it was an incredible feeling to give something back. After the run, I helped a friend create an event that would give us that same feeling; it is called "Swim Across The Sound."

The "Swim Across The Sound" is a fundraising, athletic event which involves swimming 17 miles across Long Island Sound. Our purpose is to raise both money for and awareness about the treatment of cancer. I am one of eight participants who will be swimming in this event and our goal is to raise $100,000.

Former President Reagan met with me while I ran through Kansas City, called me at the finish line in Los Angeles, and presented me with the Courage Award -- the highest honor bestowed by the American Cancer Society. His ongoing support served as a beacon of light, guiding me through the many lonely miles and difficult days.

I would like to extend an invitation to you to join us by swimming the last 100 yards. Your involvement would serve as a beacon of light, guiding us to success.

I have enclosed a 14-minute film inspired by my run and hope you will get a feel for my commitment to helping others.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Personal regards,

Jeff Keith

Dear Governor Sununu:

Enclosed, for your information, is a progress report by the American Petroleum Institute on the oil spill cleanup efforts in Alaska's Prince William Sound.

As the report notes, more than 8,000 people, more than 670 sea vessels and 56 aircraft are involved in the overall cleanup effort, with close to 3,000 people working directly on the shoreline cleanup in the sound. While progress is being made, much remains to be done.

The report provides available information, as of May 26, on the cleanup effort, the success achieved so far, and the prospects for the future. It is based on public reports received from the Coast Guard, various Alaska state agencies and Exxon. We will provide additional progress reports as the cleanup effort moves ahead.

It continues to be the petroleum industry's highest priority to work with the Administration and the Congress, as well as with state officials, to reduce the risk of such tragic accidents in the future and to ensure a response with the greatest possible speed and effectiveness in the event of another spill. API stands ready to provide whatever information or assistance we can to you and others in the Administration.

Sincerely,

THE WHITE HOUSE

JUDGE BY

Attorney At Law

May 15, 1989

Hon. John H. Sununu, Chief of Staff
The White House
Washington, D.C. 20500

Dear Sir:

From years in juvenile court observing causes of abuse, delinquency and crime, and also from being involved in developing, ordering and seeing results of programs intended to control increasing crime that have ranged from Head Start and free school lunches to sentences for murder and rape, it is clear beyond question that more spent on treating symptoms will never stem the tide of America's growing social chaos. Unless causes are treated, matters will only get worse.

We can have a kinder, gentler, caring, safer America. For all. And for far less taxes. However, the only way it can be achieved is to identify and correct the causes of the growing crisis in education, drugs, housing and crime. Also, from direct contact with those involved as well as from media coverage, every segment of American society wants changes that are needed.

A proposed plan is enclosed. Because of your concern, we would greatly appreciate your comments and suggestions. A growing alliance of judges, court officers, social workers and others serving in the trenches stand ready to help whenever and in any way we can.

Sincerely,

Robert L. Drake
