Dear Mr. Sood:

Thank you for your recent letter to the Chief of Staff requesting his help in gaining admission to a Rhode Island nursing home for your mother.

While Governor Sununu would like to be of assistance in these cases, a strict White House policy prohibits him from intervening in State or local matters. I hope you understand the need for this policy and I'm sorry that this response could not be more helpful.

With the Governor's best wishes,

Dear Mr. Svengsouk:

Thank you for your recent letter regarding homeless persons in the United States and the radio broadcast you heard on June 2 on this issue.

Please be assured that President Bush shares your concern for those members of our society who endure great hardship for want of food and shelter. He believes that there is hope and promise in every human life, and that every homeless person in the United States has far too much potential to be living on the street. He realizes that there is no single method to assist these individuals -- the mentally ill, the unemployed, substance abusers and families with children -- because each has different needs. One might need help with a drug problem; yet another might need months or years of treatment to regain his or her mental health; but the President knows that, working together, we can help homeless men and women.

The President recognizes that the problems of the homeless are as complex as they are compelling. Together with a sound economy, specially-targeted support programs and private/public partnerships, a greater number of homeless individuals will be assisted.

Again, thank you for taking the time to share your concern with me on this issue.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Dear Alfred:

I'm sorry for the delay in responding to your April 7 letter regarding the situation in Lebanon.

President Bush understands and shares the concerns you have expressed about the violence in Lebanon. The President is deeply troubled by the continuing strife and suffering of the Lebanese people and fully supports the call for a cease-fire. A cessation of hostilities is imperative so that your compatriots may make the vital decisions necessary for the future.

The President remains committed to an independent, free Lebanon and to the restoration of the country's unity, sovereignty and territorial integrity. These goals cannot be attained, however, without the disbandment of militias and the withdrawal of all foreign forces.

Thank you for sharing your thoughts with me and I wish you and your family all the best for the future.

Dear Elias:

I'm sorry for the delay in responding to your May 1 letter regarding the situation in Lebanon. I appreciate your sending the editorial by Muhamad Mugarby also.

President Bush understands and shares the serious concerns expressed surrounding the violence in Lebanon. The President is deeply troubled by the continuing strife and suffering of the Lebanese people and fully supports the call for a cease-fire. A cessation of hostilities is imperative so that the people of Lebanon may make the vital decisions necessary for the future of their country.

The President remains committed to an independent, free Lebanon and to the restoration of the country's unity, sovereignty and territorial integrity. These goals cannot be attained, however, without the disbandment of militias and the withdrawal of all foreign forces.

Sorry for the delay in responding to your kind congratulatory telegram on behalf of the National Advisory Council for South Asian Affairs. I understand that your organization has played a significant role in promoting closer relations between the United States and the nations of South Asia. As you well noted in your telegram, hopeful new conditions have emerged in South Asia, including the creation of the South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation (SAARC), which is a good sign of a new era in the region. These positive changes will indeed have significant implications for U.S. policies toward South Asia in the months and years ahead.

Dear Mr. Simmons:

Thank you for your letter of February 3 regarding trade matters involving specialty steel.

As you noted, the Voluntary Restraint Program (VRA) is due to expire on September 30, 1989. The program was designed to protect the U.S. steel industry from unfair trade practices and thereby facilitate its modernization. I am glad to see that steelmakers like Allegheny Ludlum have used the opportunity to become more efficient and competitive. The unfair practices of foreign competitors, as you mentioned, continue to distort world steel trade. The Administration is seeking an international consensus on eliminating such practices in the steel sector. In the absence of an agreement, however, some continuation of the VRA program will be necessary.

We are currently reviewing steel trade policy and considering possible modifications that would make the program more responsive to the concerns expressed by all sectors of the economy. Please be assured that your views will be considered as that process continues.

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

February 13, 1989

Dear Rebecca, Katie, and Karen:

Chief of Staff John Sununu has asked me to respond to your recent letter regarding his background and job at the White House.

First, the Chief of Staff's primary responsibility is to manage the President's staff and run the White House operations. Mr. Sununu travels with President Bush to most of his meetings and anytime he leaves the White House complex. Many times, the Chief of Staff holds meetings on the President's behalf when the President's schedule will not allow him to attend.

Mr. Sununu's goals as Chief of Staff are to advance the policies of President Bush and his Administration.

Before being appointed to this position, Mr. Sununu served as Governor of the state of New Hampshire. He was Governor from January 1983 to January 1989.

Mr. Sununu was born in Cuba in 1939. He went to school at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, earning his Ph.D in the field of mechanical engineering. He has 20 years experience and service as an educator, engineer, small businessman, and community leader.

Mr. Sununu has a wife and eight children. His wife and two younger children will be joining him in Washington at the end of the school year.

Even though the Chief of Staff is not a Cabinet member, I hope this information will help with your project.

Best wishes,

Dear Mr. Sculley,

Governor Sununu shared with me your proposals for the President's education program. Now that the President has unveiled his budget, I wanted to add my thanks to his -- and to the Chief of Staff's -- for your recommendations.

Your ideas have been studied and discussed at some length at the highest levels here. I am sure that you noticed several themes in the President's address to the Congress last Thursday which shared your outlook on education reform.

To touch on just two, the President proposed programs intended to help recognize excellence among students and teachers, and to support merit pay plans for deserving teachers. Your ideas of "Presidential Achievement Awards" and "Rewards for Performance" were echoed in these initiatives.

I thought you should have a copy of the President's initiatives, if you have not already received one. In the enclosed copy you will find the full list of education initiatives on page 49.

I hope that you will continue to contribute your recommendations. Your ideas are always met with interest; we all look forward to working with you.

Sincerely,
