Dear Mr. Clark,

The President very much appreciates your support for SDI. Rest assured that he and all the members of his team are committed to a vigorous SDI program. As he said recently after visiting an SDI site in California, "In the 1990s, strategic defense makes more sense than ever before."

Despite a declining defense budget, President Bush asked Congress to increase SDI funding by a billion dollars. This increase is crucial for rigorous and realistic SDI tests in space. Unfortunately, many in Congress oppose his request for SDI. Your support for SDI could be critical during the upcoming budget debates in Congress.

Thank you again for your continuing support.
