Dear Sean:

Chief of Staff John Sununu asked me to respond to your recent letter regarding his background and current responsibilities at the White House.

The primary responsibility of the Chief of Staff is to manage the President's agenda and the day-to-day operation of the White House. He oversees the development of domestic and foreign policy, communications, staff, budget, and relations with the press, the Congress, and State and local governments. He accompanies the President to most meetings and events worldwide and is often called upon to speak on the President's behalf.

John Henry Sununu was born in 1939 and spent most of his childhood in New York City attending parochial elementary school and, later, the La Salle Military Academy in Oakdale, Long Island. He went on to study engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and earned his Ph.D. in 1966. While he proceeded to distinguish himself as an educator, engineer, small businessman, and community leader, he is most often remembered for his work as Governor of the State of New Hampshire. He was elected in 1983 and served for three terms until 1989, when he was asked by President Bush to serve as his Chief of Staff at the White House.

He and his wife, Nancy, have eight children. In his spare time he enjoys skiing, golfing, reading, and collecting baseball cards.

Governor Sununu is proud to be serving as Chief of Staff and feels that his diverse experience as an engineer and as a leader in both State government and private industry could be of special benefit to President Bush's Administration and to our nation as well.

I hope this information is helpful, and it comes to you with Governor Sununu's best wishes.

Sincerely,

Katie Winkeljohn

Dear Mr. Miller:

Thank you for your letter and sharing your views regarding the firearms issue.

As you know, this is an area of great concern to President Bush and to the American people. Last year, the President announced a major proposal for effectively combatting violent crime in the United States. The Administration's initiatives include proposals that will limit access to certain weapons by criminals, yet maintain respect for the rights of firearms owners. While Congress has taken action on some portions of the bill, the measure has not yet been fully addressed. The President has repeated his call for Congress to act on the Omnibus Crime Bill.

Dear Sam:

Thank you for your recent letter regarding the MPLA offensive against UNITA positions in southwestern Angola.

Please be assured that the Administration shares your concern and remains committed to support of UNITA. We are doing everything possible to bring the offensive to a halt, to move the troops back to their bases, and to get genuine negotiations underway. The Department of State has made several public statements condemning the offensive and, in order to restore the status quo ante, we remain in touch with UNITA, with regional African leaders, and with the MPLA.

As you may already be aware, Angola was a major subject in the meetings President Bush had on February 12 with Congolese President Sassou-Nguesso. In addition, Vice President Quayle met with UNITA Vice President Chitunda on February 13 to underscore our commitment to UNITA at this critical juncture.

Dear Mr. Metropolis:

Chief of Staff John Sununu asked me to respond to your recent letter regarding his background and current responsibilities at the White House.

The primary responsibility of the Chief of Staff is to manage the President's agenda and the day-to-day operation of the White House. He oversees the development of domestic and foreign policy, communications, staff, budget, and relations with the press, the Congress, and State and local governments. He accompanies the President to most meetings and events worldwide and is often called upon to speak on the President's behalf.

John Henry Sununu was born in 1939 and spent most of his childhood in New York City attending parochial elementary school and, later, the La Salle Military Academy in Oakdale, Long Island. He went on to study engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and earned his Ph.D. in 1966. While he proceeded to distinguish himself as an educator, engineer, small businessman, and community leader, he is most often remembered for his work as Governor of the State of New Hampshire. He was elected in 1983 and served for three terms until 1989, when he was asked by President Bush to serve as his Chief of Staff at the White House.

He and his wife, Nancy, have eight children. In his spare time he enjoys skiing, golfing, reading, and collecting baseball cards.

Governor Sununu is proud to be serving as Chief of Staff and feels that his diverse experience as an engineer and as a leader in both State government and private industry could be of special benefit to President Bush's Administration and to our nation as well.

I hope this information is helpful, and it comes to you with Governor Sununu's best wishes.

Dear Mr. McKelvie:

Thank you for your recent message regarding the firearms issue.

As you are aware, President Bush and the American people are gravely concerned about the availability of foreign-made weapons used by criminals to commit devastatingly violent acts throughout our communities. This is an intolerable situation and will not be allowed to continue.

On May 15, the President announced a comprehensive and commonsense program to effectively combat crime, with strong proposals to limit the access to illicit weapons. At the same time, the program will not infringe upon the rights of law-abiding citizens to own and use firearms. In light of your interest, I am enclosing for you a fact sheet which outlines the President's initiative in this area.

Thank you for taking the time to write.

Sincerely,

John H. Sununu
Chief of Staff

Thank you for your recent letter inviting the Chief of Staff to keynote a student debate at Yale sometime this spring.

Your invitation is appreciated, but the heavy demands of Governor Sununu's schedule make it impossible for him to accept. However, he asked if you might be able to repeat the invitation again next year when his schedule may be more flexible.

Dear Ms. McKinnon:

On behalf of the Chief of Staff, thank you for your recent letter regarding the difficulty you have experienced with your application for Social Security Disability benefits with the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS).

While Governor Sununu would like to be of assistance in these cases, he is unable to personally intervene in a strictly HHS matter. Nevertheless, he asked me to forward your letter to them for further review, in light of the information provided in your correspondence.

With the Governor's best wishes,

Sincerely,
