Poll Says Two-Thirds Back Bush on Beijing

Two-thirds of Americans approve of the way President Bush is dealing with recent events in China, and majorities concur with several of the Administration's recent policies toward China, according to the latest Gallup Poll.

Public reactions to events in China are one of several foreign policy developments that have helped boost Mr. Bush's overall approval rating in the last month. Seventy percent in the new survey approved of the way Mr. Bush is handling his job as President, up from 56 percent who approved in Gallup's previous poll, taken May 4 to 7.

The latest telephone survey, based on interviews with 1,235 adults nationwide, was conducted from June 8 to 11 and had a margin of sampling error of plus or minus 4 percentage points.

In reacting to the situation in China, 67 percent of the public approved of the way President Bush is dealing with events there. Majorities of the public also supported several of the Administration's recent policies toward the Chinese Government.

For example, 75 percent favored suspending the sale of American arms to China, a step already taken by the Administration. Seventy-one percent favored permitting Chinese students now in the United States to remain here after their visas expire.

But 72 percent opposed breaking off diplomatic relations with China, and 49 percent opposed recalling the American Ambassador from China. The Bush Administration has also opposed both these steps.

GOVERNOR, I MENTIONED TO THE PRESIDENT DURING THE RECENT VISIT THE DESIRE OF A NUMBER OF CONSERVATIVES TO HAVE THE VICE PRESIDENT AS CHAIRMAN OF THE INTERNATIONAL DEMOCRATIC UNION.
THE PRESIDENT WAS NOT READY TO MAKE A DECISION AT THE TIME AND INDICATED A WISH FOR YOU TO LOOK INTO THE MATTER.

APPARENTLY, MRS. THATCHER MENTIONED THE MATTER TO HIM AS WELL; SHE IS QUITE ENTHUSIASTIC.

THE IDU STEERING COMMITTEE WILL MEET IN VANCOUVER JULY 6-7,
AND WOULD NEED TO KNOW OF OUR NOMINEE BY THEN TO TAKE ACTION IN TIME FOR THE FULL IDU MEETING IN TOKYO IN SEPTEMBER. IT WOULD BE IDEAL IF OUR REPRESENTATIVE IN TOKYO COULD BE SOMEONE WHO COULD ALSO USE THE OCCASION TO TAKE OVER THE CHAIRMANSHIP.
BILL HARRIS WILL REPRESENT US IN VANCOUVER, BUT LEE ATWATER
ALSO IS CLOSELY INVOLVED AND KEEPING TRACK OF IDU
DEVELOPMENTS.

I WOULD APPRECIATE IT IF YOU COULD BRING THE MATTER TO A RESOLUTION AS QUICKLY AS POSSIBLE, GIVEN THE LEVEL OF INTEREST
AND THE TIME FACTOR.

THANKS AND BEST REGARDS, HENRY.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM: FRED MCCLURE

SUBJECT: Congressman Tony Coelho Phone Call

Gov.
POTUS HAS SPOKEN to COELHO
LC

It is my understanding that Congressman Coelho wants to visit with you again on the American with Disabilities Act (He is resigning his House seat effective tomorrow, June 15). The central purpose of the ADA is to extend to the private sector the protections afforded the handicapped in Federally conducted or funded settings under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. Senator Harkin is the prime Senate sponsor, where at last count there were 33 bipartisan cosponsors. Congressman Coelho is the chief House sponsor, where there are almost 100 cosponsors.

Although there is a bipartisan support for the bill, considerable concern has been expressed about its cost, broad scope and several technical problems in the bill as it is currently drafted. The business community has deep reservations about some of the vague terms in the bill, such as what is a "reasonable accommodation", and are concerned that it overemphasizes litigation seeking extraordinary remedies as a central means of achieving results, rather than encouraging cooperation and voluntary compliance. Senators Dole and Hatch have been the most vocal on the Senate side in expressing these reservations.

Most of the focus has been on the Senate side. Attorney General Thornburgh is expected to testify next week in front of the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee to present a set of principles around which the Administration will build its formal position on the ADA. Full committee markup in the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee is expected to occur after the July 4 recess.

You have consistently supported efforts to include persons with disabilities in the "mainstream" of American society. So the question is not whether we will do something in this area; the question is exactly what will we do. There is an Administration working group that is developing the Administration's specific position on the bill, and they are expected to have a comprehensive report in the next few weeks.

Congressman Coelho will probably reiterate his support for quick action on the bill and to enlist your continued support in pushing legislation through Congress. It is important that you convey a willingness to work with the Hill in resolving our problems in a constructive sense. By the same token, we cannot be pushed into a position of "take it or leave it" on this bill.

From: Chase Untermeyer

Subj: Senator Warner

Senator Warner has told Janet Mullins (State Department congressional liaison) several times that he would like to be the official U.S. representative at the City of Paris "America Day" events on 8 July (program attached). This would be akin to what you did for Bill Dickinson for the Paris Air Show and Dan Rostenkowski for the Poznan Trade Fair.

Let me know if you would favor this, and I'll work with Fred McClure's shop and State to tell the Senator:

Allez, enfant de la Virginie!
Le Jour d'Amérique est arrivé!

WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

June 20, 1989

The Honorable George Bush
The White House
Washington, D.C. 20500

Dear Mr. President:

As you may recall, during a recent meeting with the foreign affairs leadership we raised the idea of a significant new exchange agreement with the Soviet Union. We would like to outline our idea and urge you to consider presenting it as an American proposal to President Gorbachev.

Student exchange programs provide an unparalleled opportunity to affect the thinking of the future leaders of the United States and the Soviet Union. Better understanding of the other country can contribute to a more peaceful world. More importantly, the exposure of young Soviets to Americans in this country, and to American exchange students in the Soviet Union could only contribute to the process of democratization underway in the Soviet Union.

We believe such an exchange could advance the proposals put forward in last month's Joint NATO Communique to increase non-governmental contacts between people from East and West; to expand educational exchanges; and to increase East-West understanding through our universities. Certainly the cause of freedom is enhanced by exposing students who are future leaders to our values and our form of government.

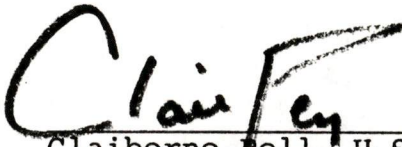

Our basic proposal is to vastly expand student exchange programs with the Soviet Union, building upon the Samantha Smith Memorial Exchange Program which was enacted in 1987. Ultimately, we would like to see an annual two-way exchange of up to 20,000 students. These students would primarily be undergraduates, although we also envision a modest increase in graduate student and non-academic youth exchanges.

The students should represent a broad cross-section of disciplines ranging from engineering to the arts. To avoid a heavy preponderance in the sciences and to ensure that the exchange promotes the goal of democratization, we would propose placing limits on the number of students from the sciences and mathematics.

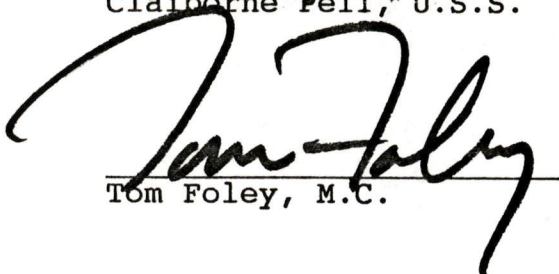

We recognize that a two-way exchange of this magnitude is a costly proposition. However, we believe that the program could be started at a lower level in the first year. This would hold costs to a reasonable level and allow us to gradually phase in the program to assure that it will be of the highest quality. In the long run, we believe this program represents a low cost investment in a more democratic and secure world.

We believe this proposal can be most effectively presented to the Soviet Union as a Presidential initiative. We hope you will consider making this a priority of your Administration and we stand ready to sponsor and to work for speedy enactment of the necessary implementing legislation.

LETTER ATTACHED

United States Senate

WASHINGTON, DC 20510

June 14, 1989

The Honorable George Bush
President of the United States
The White House
Washington, DC 20500

Dear Mr. President:

We understand that Robert Fiske, Jr., former Chairman of the American Bar Association Standing Committee on Federal Judiciary, remains under consideration for nomination as Deputy Attorney General and that a decision on this nomination may be imminent.

We have serious concerns regarding this potential nomination. Our primary concern is based upon Mr. Fiske's role as Chairman of the ABA Committee during the period of 1985 to 1987, during which time the ABA Committee improperly applied ideological criteria to thwart the nominations of various well-qualified candidates whom President Reagan proposed to nominate to important federal judgeships. More significantly, the Committee, under Mr. Fiske, leaked to liberal organizations the names of persons under consideration by the Reagan Administration and whose names were provided the ABA on a confidential basis. Such leaks permitted groups opposed to the President's judicial philosophy to attack the candidates and prevent their nomination.

Our doubts about Mr. Fiske's commitment to our party's philosophy are further reenforced by the fact that he contributed money to a Democratic Senatorial candidate in the crucial 1988 elections. Mr. Fiske gave $1,000 to the campaign of Democratic candidate William Gray, who was seeking to capture Bob Stafford's seat in Vermont. While it is true, Mr. Fiske earmarked his two $500 checks for the primary, Mr. Gray never had a primary opponent, a fact Mr. Fiske had to know, since the date of his second check followed the filing deadline by a full month. Since control of the Senate was up for grabs in the 1988 election, and every seat was crucial, Mr. Fiske's financial support of a Democratic candidate raises legitimate questions as to his commitment to the policies of a Republican Administration.

Honorable George Bush
June 14, 1989

Mr. President, it does not appear that Mr. Fiske shares the basic approach to matters of legal and judicial policy which you so effectively articulated in your winning campaign for President. We therefore respectfully urge you to reconsider this matter and select a nominee with a demonstrated commitment to your principles, and those of the Republican platform, in these important areas.

Dear Mr. Bradley:

Your letter to Patty Presock, in which you sought permission to use the President's name in connection with Lee Greenwood's "God Bless Canada" project, has been referred to me for reply.

Unfortunately, I am constrained to inform you that it would not be possible to authorize the use of the President's name in the way you suggest. I am confident that the President has a high personal regard for Mr. Greenwood and for his musical talents. I am also sure, however, that the President never meant to request that any particular musical projects be undertaken or to suggest that they would enjoy an official or quasi-official status.

The President, in any event, is continuing to adhere to a long-standing White House policy that prohibits the association of his name or likeness with commercial activities. This policy is consistently followed even with respect to ventures of which the President personally approves or which may have substantial and worthwhile effects apart from their commercial prospects. I hope that you will understand why we cannot create exceptions from this policy for the President's friends or for those whom he admires.

Thank you for writing, and please allow me to extend my personal best wishes for a successful Canadian version of Mr. Greenwood's wonderful song.

Sincerely,

Signed"

MEMORANDUM FOR C. BOYDEN GRAY

FROM:

NELSON LUND NL

SUBJECT:

Request for POTUS Endorsement of Lee Greenwood's
Canadian Version of "God Bless the U.S.A."

Attached for your signature is a draft reply to the captioned request. I think the reply should come from you for the following reasons:

(1) The President's note seems to suggest that he might want the record set straight about his alleged request for a Canadian version of the song, and about the "musical ambassador" designation. I doubt that it would be advisable to inform Mr. Bradley that the President saw his letter, and you can claim much more plausibly than I can to know what the President must not have meant to convey at the Easter meeting.

(2) The President's note also seems to suggest that he regards Mr. Greenwood as something of a personal friend. It seems more respectful of such a relationship for the reply to Bradley's letter to come from you than from me.

If you believe it would be more appropriate for me to sign the reply, I will be happy to do so.

Dear Patty:

I don't know if you keep up on your country music news or not, but Lee Greenwood has rewritten "God Bless The U.S.A." to become "God Bless Canada". This was done at the request of President Bush when they visited together over Easter weekend.

As you might expect, this has become quite a buzz item in the country music industry. And in Canada, well, they're elated all the way up to Prime Minister Brian Mulroney's office. In fact, they would like to do some special type of promotion to coincide with Canada Day, which is July 1st.

President Bush has graciously dubbed Lee as his "musical ambassador" and, with this being Lee's first requested task from the President, we would like to get maximum exposure from it. Any kind of media visibility involving Lee and President Bush would really help him become engrained as "musical ambassador" in the public eye.

Before we take our "God Bless Canada" project any further, I would like to request permission from the President to involve his name and, ask him if he would like to present this song personally to Prime Minister Mulroney as he had mentioned over Easter weekend.

Lee Greenwood holds his relationship with President Bush in the highest esteem and I assure you that we at Lee Greenwood, Inc. will never exploit it.

I'll be waiting to hear from you regarding this matter and any ideas you might have for presenting "God Bless Canada".

THE COMMISSIONER OF SOCIAL SECURITY
BALTIMORE, MARYLAND 21235

June 22, 1989

The Honorable John H. Sununu
Chief of Staff
The White House
Washington, D.C. 20500

Dear John:

The enclosed "effective resignation date" letter is self-explanatory.

I would very much appreciate your seeing that it reaches the President's desk.

With best wishes and thanks,

Sincerely,

THE COMMISSIONER OF SOCIAL SECURITY
BALTIMORE, MARYLAND 21235

June 22, 1989

The President
The White House
Washington, D.C. 20500

Dear Mr. President:

I am planning to resign as Commissioner of Social Security effective July 31, 1989.

As I leave federal service, I wanted you to know that I will always remember with pleasure and great pride that it was you who swore me in as Commissioner three years ago in the Indian Treaty Room. I appreciate the opportunity to have served President Reagan and you and the American public.

I leave the Social Security Administration knowing that there has been tremendous change and progress during the last several years. The Agency now has a strategic plan to lead it into the 21st Century, and an audited financial statement of the Trust Funds to reassure the American public of the current and expected future solvency of the system. We have successfully implemented a massive computer modernization of claims and account processing throughout our 1300 offices, launched the world's largest toll-free telephone service for all Americans, and can now provide a Personal Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement to every American worker. All of this has been accomplished despite an imposed 20% decrease in staffing. I am, in fact, proud to report to you that the Agency's productivity has increased 30%, savings to the Trust Funds have been $2 billion and the vast majority of the public is very pleased with the service Social Security provides.

These efforts, along with the continued build up of the Trust Funds have improved public confidence in the future of Social Security. But, Social Security continues to be misunderstood, by beneficiaries, taxpayers, and elected officials alike, and most younger workers do not trust that the Government will preserve Social Security for their "Golden Years." Their skepticism is reinforced as they witness the Trust Fund reserves being borrowed for other federal government purposes. The current solvency of the Social Security Trust Funds provides an opportunity to assure their future, and commit to savings and pension alternatives that will decrease their dependence upon publicly financed programs.

Though current retired beneficiaries are more optimistic, many are discouraged that after nearly twenty-five years of deliberation, there is still a penalty for their participation in the workforce beyond age 65. The American economy needs the talents of our older workers; Social Security should not promote a gray underground economy, nor 100% marginal tax rates.

Those who administer the complexities of the Social Security program are the most dedicated public servants I have had the opportunity to work with. Their commitment to public service is unmatched. I know you will support their efforts and vision to meet the expectations of the 21st Century and future beneficiaries, while at the same time continuing to improve a fine tradition of quality public service.

I thank you again and extend my heartfelt appreciation and best wishes to you and Mrs. Bush for your continued success.

Sincerely,

Dorcas R. Hardy

Dear John:

I've thought of a "special assignment" I'd like very much to perform for the President: to be a delegate to the United Nations General Assembly. As I understand it, this is a two and a half-month assignment, from late September to early December. I could keep my private sector base and arrange my commitments in and around the General Assembly meeting schedule. I'm very willing to undertake this.

I also understand that environmental issues are currently important in the UN deliberations. I am conversant with many of them, dating back to my service as a Commissioner of the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission in the 1970's. For example, one of today's concerns, the damaging impact of chlorofluorocarbons on the ozone layer, is one in which I have been involved since the two California scientists formulated their theory. At that time, I urged further study, reasoning that if the theory proved true, we had a major problem.

Let me know what I should do to pursue this. Sending you thanks and warm regards,

Sincerely,

Barbara

*Things are going very well from where I sit -

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM: Nicholas F. Brady NFB
SUBJECT: Weekly Update

John S
what to do about this!
CS
6-29

The first meeting of the Conference Committee on the savings and loan bill was held yesterday and adjourned quickly until July 11. The major point of contention will be the method of financing. The question is whether the Bush plan or the "on-budget" plan will be adopted.

The House and the Senate bills differ on the financing issue. The Senate adopted our plan by a 50-48 vote and 41 Senators, led by Senator Gramm have signed a letter pledging their continued support for the Administration's plan. The House rejected our financing package by a 280-146 vote which basically followed party lines.

The Treasury Department is taking a strong position against the "on budget" financing plan for the following reasons.

First, this vote is a clear threat to the ~~Gramm-Rudman~~ process; it is not just an arcane question relating to the ~~implementation of the savings and loan plan~~. It is the precursor to irresistible pressure for costly new legislation using the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings waiver process on everything from nuclear waste cleanups, to housing, to drugs. If the "on-budget" plan succeeds, it is my opinion that a big spending spree by Congress will follow within months.

Second, there is a precedent for the disastrous economic impact of weakening the Gramm-Rudman process. On September 23, 1987, the Congress passed a bill that eased the Gramm-Rudman targets and pushed them off into the future. (See Attachment A). The next day, interest rates jumped 12 basis points. Over the next 16 business days, interest rates steadily rose another 57 basis points. (See Attachment B). On the 18th day, the stock market crashed.

It should be noted that the exact same economic conditions are not present today. The Dow then was over 2700, fueled largely by speculation. Today the market is just under 2500, up from 1700 right after the crash. In September 1987, we moved the targets -- this year we would be waiving them. But, even if the symptoms are different, the disease is the same. It will take a little while for the world financial market to fully absorb the import of the change, but I firmly believe interest rates could go substantially higher if the Administration plan is not adopted.

Third, the advocates of "on budget" financing say it would save $125 million a year. This is an accurate figure -- as far as it goes. However, if you consider the likelihood of higher interest rates I discuss above, an increase of only .01 percent, or one basis point, on all short and intermediate term federal debt ($1.5 trillion) would increase Treasury borrowing costs by $150 million a year. If interest rates increased by 10 basis points, an increase in rates of .1 percent, Treasury borrowing costs would rise by $1.5 billion. And if rates went up 100 basis points, which corresponds to a one percent increase in rates, Treasury costs would go up by $15 billion a year. This dwarfs the $125 million extra cost associated with the Administration plan.

So, if we are right about the impact of waiving the Gramm-Rudman restraint on spending, the "on-budget" argument is penny-wise and pound-foolish.

Fourth, our credibility in dealing with foreign finance ministers at the G-7 on the subject of deficit reduction on an on-going basis will be severely compromised. Their main barometer of our fiscal resolve is Gramm-Rudman. They continually ask if we will move the goal line on Gramm-Rudman again if the going gets tough. I have assured them time and time again that we have no such intention. I have reiterated that Bush Administration policy is built around our intention to bring the budget deficit down. If we waver on this point, we will not only lose credibility, we will also lose our bargaining position in pressing for improvements in their trade surpluses with this country.

I can not overemphasize the seriousness of the threat this poses to fiscal discipline. The Fed shares this conclusion. In fact, Alan Greenspan and I met with Speaker Foley to communicate our mutual concern on Thursday. He understands our concerns and said he would not obstruct the Bush Administration financing plan if it survives the conference. However, until then, he stated that he was bound by the contrary vote in the House. I spoke to Chairman Rostenkowski as well to find out where this budget mischief started. He indicated that he had no serious qualms with our plan, but that he was bound by the committee vote.

This issue is a real sleeper. It appears at first glance to be a technicality, but this is a detail we will pay for many times over in the following years.

1987 Gramm-Rudman "Fix"

On September 23, 1987 the Congress approved legislation (H.J. Res. 324, P.L. 100-119) which extended the limit on the Government's debt from $2.1 trillion to $2.8 trillion and which enacted major changes in the 1985 Gramm-Rudman-Hollings ("GRH") deficit-reduction law.

The "FIX":

- Eased the deficit targets of GRH and pushed the original law's deadline for a balanced budget back two years to 1993, as set out below:

Fiscal Year	New Targets	Original
FY 1986	$171.9 Billion	$171.9 Billion
FY 1987	$144.0 Billion	$144.0 Billion
FY 1988	$144.0 Billion	$108.0 Billion
FY 1989	$136.0 Billion	$ 72.0 Billion
FY 1990	$100.0 Billion	$ 36.0 Billion
FY 1991	$ 64.0 Billion	zero
FY 1992	$ 28.0 Billion
FY 1993	zero

- Capped sequestration at $23 billion for FY 1988 and $36 billion for FY 1989, whether or not the deficit targets were met. Under GRH, sequestration would have been the amount required to meet the target.
- Revised the method of calculating the baseline used to estimate the deficit and from which the cuts were to be subtracted in the automatic process. The effect of the change was to ease the impact of the automatic cuts by enlarging the base to be cut.

Dear Mr. Sununu,

On behalf of the New Hampshire Coalition for Available and Affordable Insurance Protection, I would like to extend our gratitude for the New Hampshire legislative sessions you supported the Coalition's liability reform initiatives, accompanied by a measure of grief from the opposition.

This session, the NH General Court passed a modification of the doctrine of joint liability. - a realization of the initiative supported by your administration. In New Hampshire as of January 1, 1990, defendants in liability lawsuits who are less than 50% at fault will only be held liable for thier percentage of fault, regardless of other insolvent defendents (an exception was made for environmental cases).

The Coalition is knowing that this realization of our efforts would not have been possible without the previous four years of information and support to the NH General Court. Three years of that effort would not have been possible had we not been fortunate to have a Governor who supported the concept of fairness in liability cases.

Even though the enacted bill does not provide a total abolishment of the doctrine of joint liability, it provides more than most states and is certainly a milestone in reinstating fairness in liability laws.

Thank you for your stalwart support as Governor of our State - the results were evidenced by the House roll call vote on the Bill (SB 110).

Very Truly Yours,

Yvonne L. Nanasi

(WRH SUGGESTED HEAD) BUSH DOES IT AGAIN

EDITOR'S REPORT

By William Randolph Hearst, Jr.
Editor-in-Chief, The Hearst Newspapers

NEW YORK--President Bush deserves quick support from our European allies and American public opinion for his tougher efforts to dissuade the tyrannical Chinese communist regime from continuing to execute the already tortured protesters who had the courage to demonstrate for democratic reforms.

Seven protesters were put to death in Beijing Thursday, bringing the number of executions around the country in two days to 27, most of whom presumably were prodemocracy demonstrators.

With strong backing from Congress, the president suspended indefinitely U.S. support for at least $1.4 billion in international bank loans. He also ordered a suspension of all high-level meetings between U.S. and Chinese government officials. The ban applies to talks between Chinese officials and U.S. cabinet members and under secretaries and assistant secretaries. The scheduled visit of Commerce Secretary Robert Mosbacher to Beijing in July to discuss more favorable trade credits for China was canceled.

Secretary of State James Baker told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee the arrests and death sentences of the demonstrators were "brutal" and "outrageous" and that America's concern for human rights was "universal." He urged the Chinese leaders to pardon the arrested and condemned protesters..

This, I believe, was the correct stand for our government to take. We could hardly call on President Mikhail Gorbachev to respect human rights in the Soviet Union if we fail to apply sanctions against the Chinese red regime for its barbaric treatment of the demonstrators.

As usual, British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher was the first European allied leader to support President Bush. The day after the President's move, Thatcher condemned the execution sentences as "totally out of proportion to the crime." On Thursday, Australian Prime Minister Bob Hawke said he would lodge a formal diplomatic protest to demonstrate his government's "revulsion" at the executions.

The other European allied leaders should promptly join President Bush in postponing new loans to China by international lending institutions. Japan was quick to support us by announcing suspension of its seven-year $3.3 billion economic aid program to China. The World Bank has under consideration nearly $1 billion in loans to China, which has received from that institution about $8 billion since 1981.

If the aged Deng Xiaoping, who is acting with the same brutality that marked the worst of China's emperors, ignores President Bush's appeal for clemency for the demonstrators, President Bush should call for a U.N. Security Council meeting to apply pressure, including sanctions, on the Beijing regime. At least, it would make the three other major members of that world organization -- France, the Soviet Union and China itself -- show how they stand on human rights.

Now for a more cheerful subject. President Bush is again showing his quality of statesmanship by playing it cool at the Geneva negotiations on strategic nuclear weapons reductions which have been resumed after a seven-month break.

Negotiations for a treaty to reduce intercontinental nuclear weapons by about 50 percent was nearing completion under the Reagan administration. It was assumed President Bush would move quickly to conclude it.

Instead, the president has decided to link agreement on the START treaty with at least good progress on negotiations with the Soviets to achieve a European conventional force pact that would be based on the principle of parity between the NATO and Soviet-bloc forces.

The president has also instructed his new chief negotiator in Geneva, Ambassador Richard Burt, to propose that mutual around-the-clock monitoring of certain ballistic missile factories and direct inspections of missile warheads begin prior to any agreement to slash the strategic nuclear arsenals. He wants that on-site verification to reinforce our satellite surveillance.

As long as the Soviets retain strong conventional force superiority in Europe, the president does not want to reduce our strategic nuclear deterrent, especially because NATO faces mounting public demand, particularly in West Germany, for elimination of all land-based nuclear weapons in Europe.

Incidentally, Richard Burt, who gave up his post as ambassador to West Germany to become the president's chief START treaty negotiator, attributes his interest in government to his participation as a senior high school student in the United States Senate Youth Program.

Started 27 years ago, that program brings two senior high school students from every state and our defense schools abroad to Washington for a week's visit each year to learn at first hand how the government works. They have been received by every president since the program was established with the unanimous support of the Senate. They meet the senators of their own states, justices of the Supreme Court, cabinet members and other high ranking officials, many of whom address them and respond to their questions. The program is funded by the William Randolph Hearst Foundation in memory of my ``Pop,`` which makes me very happy.

Dornan: Gay postmark 'accommodates sodomy'

By David Braaten
THE WASHINGTON TIMES

The Postal Service will be stamping a special "Gay and Lesbian Pride" postmark on letters in Greenwich Village Saturday, and Rep. Robert Dornan is furious.

The California Republican, an outspoken critic of homosexuality, yesterday deplored the Postal Service's effort to "accommodate sodomy."

But a postal official said there's really no cause for alarm. The general public will not be getting mail with the gay logo — only those who present a stamped envelope to clerks at the temporary "Stonewall Station" to be set up on Christopher Street, he said.

"It'll more than pay for itself," predicted Hugh McGonigle, senior philatelic programs specialist at Postal Service headquarters here. "We'll probably sell 25,000 25-cent stamps at a minimum."

And most of them will be handed back, not mailed, he said.

Philatelic or pictorial postmarks are not like commemorative stamps, Mr. McGonigle explained. The special cancellations are produced for about 1,500 events each year, from state fairs to political conventions and local municipal celebrations.

"It provides an inexpensive souvenir of events for people," he said. "For 25 cents they can have something that says, 'I was there.' It sort of freezes an event in time."

The event on Saturday is a 20th anniversary celebration of the police raid on the Stonewall Inn, a gay bar in the Village. It led to an unexpectedly spirited response by neighborhood residents who previously had taken police harassment passively.

Some in the gay community regard the incident as the beginning of the gay rights movement. Mr. Dornan was informed of the upcoming gay-pride postmark by a friend in New York City who thought mistakenly that it meant nationwide use of the cancellation.

The congressman's suspicions were fueled by the initial response he got when he called the Postal Service's congressional liaison.

"They said, 'It can't be true,'" Dornan aide Brian Bennett said yesterday. "Then they checked, and it was."

The delay led Mr. Dornan to believe that the Postal Service was trying to — what else? — stonewall on the issue.

Mr. McGonigle said there some concern over the suitability of a postmark for the gay celebration. There are strict requirements for philatelic and pictorial cancellations, he said, and one of them is that there cannot be a propaganda message contained in them.

"This one was sort of borderline," Mr. McGonigle said. But officials scrutinized the Keith Haring drawing and the wording and decided they could not reject the postmark under the guidelines.

Another consideration, Mr. McGonigle said, is "whether we're going to lose our shirts" on a postmark. They would not, he said, create one for, say, a birthday party.

"But we should make money on this one," he said. "You figure two or three clerks, a couple of 6-foot tables in a booth and a couple of rubber stamps. How much can that cost?"

Mr. Dornan had planned to devote his one-minute floor speech yesterday to the gay-lesbian postmark. As it turned out, an aide said, there were so many other issues that outraged the congressman that he simply added it to a list that included the Supreme Court's flag-burning decision and the attempt to show homoerotic photographs at the Corcoran Gallery.

THROUGH: GOVERNOR SUNUNU
CHIEF OF STAFF
DAVID DEMAREST AA
ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT FOR COMMUNICATIONS

FROM: DOUG WEAD > - w
SPECIAL ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT
FOR PUBLIC LIAISON

SUBJECT: Human Events

At the end of a meeting with Thomas Winter, editor of Human Events, you remarked that you did not get a chance to read the publication very often, but would like to see a copy. Here are five different quotes from selected issues that you might find interesting.

"For our money the President's go-slow approach is right on target. Yes, he recognizes that a fresh breeze is blowing about the Kremlin. But no, he's not ready to embrace as a messiah the man who only recently allowed the Soviet police to repress Georgian demonstrators with poison gas."
(May 27, 1989, pp.1)

"For the first time, really, he's <President Bush> given the world a rough standard for judging Gorbachev's sincerity."

"President Bush's striking disarmament proposal won a round of applause from our allies and, at least temporarily, papered over sharp differences with West Germany on the subject of modernizing short-range nuclear missiles in Europe."

"What's fascinating, however, is how Mikhail Gorbachev managed to force the President to come up with some dramatic new peace proposal<s> in the first place, having fooled most of the world into thinking the West has been paralyzing the peace process all along."
(June 10, '89, pp.5).

"Bush promised in his campaign last year to be the 'environmental President', and last week made good on that promise by unveiling his expensive new clean air package... But the Administration may be seriously downplaying the full costs of the plan."
(June 24, 1989, pp. 1&7).

Dear Mr. President:

We are writing to urge you to publicly declare prior to any congressional floor votes on SDI funding measures that you will veto the FY 1990 Defense Authorization Bill should the House of Representatives adopt amendments reducing the budget for the Strategic Defense Initiative Organization (SDIO) to the point of disabling the Administration from achieving your announced intentions.

As you know, a funding level of $2.8 billion, or only 60 percent of your amended fiscal year SDIO request of $4.6 billion, is proposed in the Bennett amendment. House acceptance of the $2.8 billion figure will result in such serious underfunding of SDI in conference as to guarantee the postponement, if not the ultimate cancellation, of your goal to deploy an operational strategic defensive system by 1993.

In a July 7, 1989 letter to Senator Pete Wilson, Lt. General George L. Monahan, Jr., Director of SDIO, stated that even a 30 percent decrease in his agency's budget "could not support the research and testing needed to make an informed deployment decision within four years."

Furthermore, General Monahan asserted that a 30 percent budget reduction would threaten the termination of U.S. funding of most Allied cooperative programs in the area of Anti-Ballistic Missile (ABM) defenses.

Our joint ABM development programs with Great Britain, West Germany, and especially Israel depend directly on the viability of the American SDI system. Indeed, given the existing missile capability of several Arab states, Israel's very survival is contingent upon the timely completion of the Arrow ATBM project. But if the SDIO budget absorbs even a 30 percent cut, the continuation of Arrow would fall into question. House adoption of the proposed 40 percent reduction in the SDI budget, then, clearly makes the State of Israel dangerously vulnerable to a hostile nuclear or chemical warhead attack. Courage is no substitute for ATBM defenses.

The President

Mr. President, it is imperative that you make clear immediately your intention to veto any authorization bill containing irresponsible cuts in SDI funding so that House members cannot claim ignorance in voting for them. You have our solid commitment to work to sustain such a veto in the Senate.

Pat Wilson

RE: August Activity

I wanted to follow up on an idea I mentioned briefly to you last night, that of bringing the Cabinet/Cabinet Councils/White House Senior Staff to Maine for a series of briefing sessions.

This idea has several advantages:

- It focuses positive attention on the President and his leadership during a period of traditional downturn in public opinion;
- It will provide an opportunity for greater comraderie and personal interaction among members of the Cabinet with each other and with the President;
- It will provide a highly visable and united front as the Administration prepares to joust with Congress in September on budget, clean air, and drug initiatives;
- It is something that was not done during the Reagan years and provides a fresh, "new" topic for the media to cover.

I hope the above helps.
