Mr. Charles Asbury
Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith
Gulf Bldg.
Houston, Texas

Dear Charles:

Would you please send the securities in the George H. W. Bush and George H. W. Bush #1 accounts to the office. Also would you please remit any cash balance in checks to the office.

I hope you understand about this matter. It is a real small thing and I am afraid I have inconvenienced you but perhaps we can get together in the future. In the meantime please keep Zapata in mind for any deals.

Very truly yours,

George H. W. Bush

Mr. George H. W. Bush

Dear Mr. Bush:

It's with genuine pleasure that we have opened an account for you, and we want you to know that this means considerably more to us than a mere formality. The stencil, which is imprinted on the enclosed card, shows how your account appears on our records. If there are any corrections, we'd appreciate your letting us know promptly. The eight-digit number is your account number, and the number shown beneath it is what we use to designate your account executive on our records.

You will find your account executive willing and anxious to help you with your investment problems, I am sure, but if at any time I can be of special service to you, I hope you'll feel free to call on me.

You probably know about the many services which we offer our customers, such as the safekeeping of securities at no extra charge. However, there is one service I would particularly like to emphasize--the ready availability of assistance from our Research Division--if at any time you'd like to know what their opinion is on a particular security and its suitability as an investment for you, that information is yours for the asking.

You have every right to expect that all of us at Merrill Lynch will do everything we can not only to give you the finest service possible--but to satisfy you both with our service and the way in which it is rendered. It's a tradition of Merrill Lynch to conduct our business in the manner of friends and we're quite particular in choosing as our staff people who like to be pleasant. If any one of us should ever fall short of your expectations, as humans sometimes do, I'd consider it a favor if you'd let me know.

Yours sincerely,

J. Bryan Grubbs
Vice President
