HOUSTON 2, TEXAS

November 12, 1963

Mr. George H. W. Bush
Zapata Off-Shore Company
1701 Houston Club Building
Houston, Texas

Dear George:

I want to pass along the information that Precinct 129 (Dr. Crouch) has reported no NTN collections as of Monday, November 11. As we agreed, I have not contacted Dr. Crouch since he had promised you he would conduct a Fund Drive. Precinct 129 collected nearly $2,000 last year; if he isn't going to do it I'd still try a mail solicitation if I had approval of both you and Dr. Crouch.

Best regards.

Sincerely yours,

D. D. Hornbeck

Dear Gerry,

Congratulations on the wonderful job you did at the convention. Everything went beautifully and was certainly a credit to Harris County. The wonderful way the convention ran certainly reflected all your hard work and thoughtfulness.

Congratulations!!

Best regards,

Mr. G. H. W. Bush, Chairman
Republican Party of Harris County
1710 Houston Club Building
Houston 2, Texas

Dear George:

Thanks for your endorsement of the letter for solicitation of the 1962 Primary Election Voters.

Just to keep you current on Precinct 129 (Dr. Crouch), the 1963 collections at County Headquarters as of Wednesday, October 9, still contained no money from Precinct 129. I'll give you another report in two weeks.

Our mail solicitation of 1962 contributors has yielded over $2,000 to date with more letters going out.

Let me again emphasize the need for selection of a County Finance Chairman to participate in the closing phases of the 1963 finance drive. Further, the planning phases of the 1964 drive should be getting started soon.

Sincerely yours,

D. D. Hornbeck

HARRIS COUNTY REPUBLICAN PARTY
522 Waugh Drive
Houston, Texas 77019

October 7, 1963

To: County Chairman and Vice-Chairmen, Advisory Committee, NTN
Vice-Chairmen, Area Chairmen, Area Finance Chairmen, Precinct
Chairmen and Precinct Finance Chairmen

From: Donald D. Hornbeck, Co-Chairman, NTN Fund Drive

Subject: NTN Collections Report #5 (Through September 25, 1963)

Attached is a tabulation of all collections in the Fund Drive through September 25, 1963. The total amount collected in the four-week period since August 28 was $5,600, including $1,036 received from the mail solicitation. I expect this direct mail program to net us at least $3,000 -- all cash, no pledges.

There are several heavily-Republican precincts that had no effective NTN Fund Drive in 1962 as well as 1963. Therefore, we have no list of 1962 contributors that we could contact by mail. The ten precincts with the greatest potential registered 1,500 voters in the 1962 Republican Primary. A mail solicitation of these Republicans should net us another $2,000-3,000. Precinct and Area Chairmen will be contacted directly.

Please make one more round of phone calls to your block workers -- many were going to "really get going in September and October." Set a quota for each of them to contact in the concluding weeks. Although precinct organizations are welcome to continue working as long as they wish, we will "officially" conclude the 1963 NTN Fund Drive on November 1. However, we'll keep the books open for another month or so.

An IBM listing of each precinct's September collections is being sent with each precinct chairman's copy of this report. This will apprise you of all September collections, including those from our mail solicitation. Later in the year I plan to provide precinct chairmen with an IBM listing of all 1963 NTN Fund Drive collections in their own precinct.

Although we failed to equal the 1962 NTN collections, the progress is substantial. In early 1961 the precincts were asked to raise $100 each and only six were able to raise this amount. This year 16 precincts have already raised over $1,000 each. And 75 have raised $100 or more. This is progress!

Please mail in the collections you have on hand. Let's get those checks cleared through the bank!

FOR PERCENTAGE PYRAMID

1963 NTN FUND DRIVE

Precincts and Areas Who Have Exceeded County-Wide Average

October 8, 1963

Mrs. Harold McGowan, Finance Chairman
Republican Party, Precinct 274
373 Westminster
Houston 24, Texas

Dear Mrs. McGowan:

The Republican Party of Harris County will soon complete the 1963 Neighbor-to-Neighbor Fund Drive. In addition to the contributions received from door-to-door solicitations by block workers, we have collected about $1,500 from a "mail solicitation" begun in mid-September. This mail solicitation was directed to people who had contributed in last year's NTN Fund Drive.

I would like to ask your approval for a mail solicitation in your precinct. A carefully worded letter would be sent to precinct residents who voted in the 1962 Republican Primary Election. This list would be checked against the lists of 1963 contributors to avoid soliciting a contributor. Further, if there were other names to be avoided, we would do that, too, based on your recommendation. A sample of the proposed letter is attached; the letter will be printed on George Bush's stationery and will carry his signature.

If you have any reservations or comments regarding this proposal, please let me know immediately. I want this program to be effective in raising additional money and in helping identify Republicans who are willing to give more than their vote to the Party -- this will be helpful in building the precinct organization.

Sincerely yours,

D. D. Hornbeck

Mr. Joseph F. Mangel, Chairman
Republican Party, Precinct 286
5638 Trafalgar
Houston 45, Texas

Dear Mr. Mangel:

The Republican Party of Harris County will soon complete the 1963 Neighbor-to-Neighbor Fund Drive. In addition to the contributions received from door-to-door solicitations by block workers, we have collected about $1,500 from a "mail solicitation" begun in mid-September. This mail solicitation was directed to people who had contributed in last year's NTN Fund Drive.

I would like to ask your approval for a mail solicitation in your precinct. A carefully worded letter would be sent to precinct residents who voted in the 1962 Republican Primary Election. This list would be checked against the lists of 1963 contributors to avoid soliciting a contributor. Further, if there were other names to be avoided, we would do that, too, based on your recommendation. A sample of the proposed letter is attached; the letter will be printed on George Bush's stationery and will carry his signature.

If you have any reservations or comments regarding this proposal, please let me know immediately. I want this program to be effective in raising additional money and in helping identify Republicans who are willing to give more than their vote to the Party -- this will be helpful in building the precinct organization.

Sincerely yours,

D. D. Hornbeck

Re: Office of County Chairman, Republican Party, Harris County, Texas

RECEIVED
OCT 2 1963

ALL PRECINCT CHAIRMEN, AREA CHAIRMEN AND OTHER REPUBLICANS OF HARRIS COUNTY

Dear Ladies and Gentlemen:

Some friends have urged that I offer myself as a candidate for county chairman.

It is my intention to do so at the appropriate time.

However, the immediate task, which must be presently met, is to elect Jim Bailey mayor of Houston. This must be an all-out party effort.

Therefore, I refuse to run the risk of diluting any party effort for Jim Bailey by campaigning for county chairman at this time. Also, I sincerely hope that anyone else who may offer himself as a candidate for chairman will also avoid any campaigning whatever until after Jim Bailey is elected mayor eight weeks from now.

My decision to seek this office is based upon the following reasons:

- 1- To have Senator Barry Goldwater become the Republican presidential nominee;
- 2- To secure a pledged delegation for Senator
Goldwater;
- 3- To secure a full slate of conservative Republican nominees in 1964, state and local, who adhere to the conservative political philosophy held by Senator Goldwater; and,
- 4- To preserve and build party unity in order that all candidates may receive full party support.

This shall be a very crucial year for our party. Therefore, I respectfully ask your support for county chairman, as well as in meeting the challenges of the coming year. I look forward to visiting with each of you, individually, in order that you may ask me any questions concerning my political philosophy, as well as my plans to insure the effectual function of our county organization toward electing Republican candidates.

Again, I emphasize that we must commit ourselves unreservedly to the Jim Bailey Mayoralty Campaign. A victory here, in the South's largest city, would give the kind of encouragement needed by Senator Goldwater to secure the presidential nomination.

Very truly yours,

Charles M. Haden

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF CHARLES M. HADEN

Mr. Haden is a native-born Texan, 40 years old, reared and schooled in Houston. He holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Rice University and a Bachelor of Laws degree from the University of Texas.

While at Rice University he lettered in varsity football as a halfback, and left the campus during World War II to go aboard a destroyer in the Pacific as a Deck Officer.

Following the war he attended law school and after receiving a degree, commenced practicing law as Assistant District Attorney of Harris County, Texas, under the late Judge A. C. Winborn. In this capacity he prosecuted capital (death penalty) cases for the State of Texas.

Following this he entered civil practice as a trial lawyer with the firm of Fulbright, Crooker, Freeman, Bates & Jaworski. He continues in this capacity as a partner in the firm. He is a member of the American Bar Association, Texas Bar Association, Houston Bar Association, Phi Alpha Delta Legal Fraternity, Texas Defense Lawyers Association, United States Southern District of Texas and Fifth Circuit, and Vice-President of the National Association of Railroad Trial Lawyers.

He lives with his wife, the former Suzanne Tracy, and their three children, Charles, Jr., Sherry and Susan, at 10709 Old Coach Lane, in City of Hunter's Creek Village, Harris County, Texas. He is one of the former mayors of that city.

He has been an active Republican since 1952. He has since served the Party in the following capacities: Chairman, Precinct 213 for more than two consecutive terms; Chairman, Candidates Committee 1961-62; member, Candidates Committee, 1959-60; member, Ticket Committees on all fund raising dinners since 1958; special legal counsel representing Republican Party in suits in federal and state courts; last spring addressed the entire Harris County legislative delegation on the subject of the necessity for congressional redistricting and conferred with said delegation for an extended period of time thereafter regarding same; has made numerous public appearances from speakers platforms as well as through the medium of television to speak for the Republican Party and the cause of conservatism.

He is a former member of the Highway Committee of Houston Chamber of Commerce and currently serving as Vice-Chairman of the Governmental Affairs Committee of the Chamber.

He is currently serving as Co-Chairman of the Harris County Republican Candidates Committee along with Mr. Fred Weston, former Republican County Chairman.

His children are fifth generation members of The First Presbyterian Church, Houston. He is an elder, Adult Sunday School teacher, Superintendent of the Adult Church School, Past President of Men of the First Presbyterian Church, Brazos Presbytery, and Synod of Texas.

Last year he decided that professional, church, civic and political demands on his time could better be served if he knew how to fly airplanes. Accordingly, he is now a licensed private pilot.

Subject: Performance in NTN Fund Drive

Could you give me an assist with Precinct 129 (Dr. Crouch)? In my several conversations with Jim Brelsford, Jim reports that Crouch plans to run the NTN. However, no tangible effort is evident. Last year this precinct collected nearly $2,000 -- this year zero. If Crouch does not operate a Fund Drive -- and a grass roots program starting now can't possibly contact even half of those 1962 contributors before the Holiday Season -- I would like his approval for a mail solicitation.

Also, I am being needled by some hard-working precinct chairmen about the performance of several well-to-do precincts, particularly 129 (Crouch), 135 (Ackerman), 217 (Randall), 213 (Cantey) and 274 (Wandel). There is little I can do about organizing a Fund Drive in these precincts without work by precinct or area chairmen. All we have to offer is the mail solicitation which is dependent on there having been an effective 1962 NTN Fund Drive.

Can you do anything with these chairmen at this late hour? Further, no action by them in 1963 may well signal no action in 1964, too.

Thanks, for any help you can give me.

Subject: Listing of NTN Contributors

Now that we are combining a mail solicitation along with the precinct solicitation in this NTN Fund Drive, it is especially desirable to have the September IBM listing at an early date.

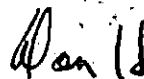

It would be helpful if the pledge cards for the period ending September 25 could be key-punched on Thursday, September 26, as was the procedure earlier this summer. If the September listing could be obtained on Saturday, I could mail the September report and the September listing together on Tuesday. This would allow the precinct organization to keep current on contributors.

Regarding future work, the October period will close on Wednesday, October 30. Since the mail solicitation and a few precinct organizations will continue to bring in money after the official November 1 closing date, I expect we will need a final listing for November to be prepared in early December. By this time the May listing should be corrected so that a combined listing for the entire Fund Drive can be prepared.

Past observations would indicate that the IBM listing should be corrected for name, address and precinct number by direct comparison with the source cards. This can be done in December and January in order to prepare a highly accurate list for use in the 1964 NTN Fund Drive.

If you have any questions, please call me.

Dear Don,

Just a word of congratulations on reaching the $50,000 mark. I think this is terrific and certainly reflects your hard work.

Incidentally I talked to Nancy Thawley about mailing to the big gift list. She felt it would be a problem and I think she is right. She tells me that you and I discussed this. I probably was talking when I should have been listening. My feeling is that we should ~~not~~ out the regular NTN letter to these people but I don't feel they should be singled out. I think if we go ahead with the regular NTN letter in the precincts which have not been worked we will get some money from these big givers. Let me know if this does not suit you.

Again, congratulations on all this hard work and thank you for the note.

Dear Mr. Ryberg,

Mr. John Williams of Houston has written to me saying that you were invited to head up the forces for Senator Goldwater in Utah. He suggested that I contact you and urge that you accept this important job. I can tell you that here in Texas Senator Goldwater has tremendous support. Peter O'Donnell, our State Chairman, is National Draft Goldwater Chairman and he reports that the affection and loyalty for Goldwater is not limited to Texas by any means. This movement appears to be a grass roots movement that all people who believe in our Constitution can support without fear of disappointment.

I know Senator Goldwater personally; he is charming and attractive as well as a man of real integrity. In addition to our strong feeling that Goldwater is the best candidate, there is a great deal of statistical evidence to point up the fact that he can not only be nominated but elected. Goldwater will have solid support in the South and incidentally this is not being done by trying to appeal to the southern vote on any kind of a racist basis. The South is simply fed up with Federal intervention in all facets of life and are prepared to support a strong conservative.

If the Draft Goldwater Headquarters can furnish you any information which would help you make up your mind, I would appreciate your letting me know. We have an active Goldwater Headquarters here in Houston, staffed by people who are dedicated to this cause. I have asked them to send you some preliminary data.

Dear Sir,

Since you are chairman of the Republican Party in the Houston area, I am writing this letter to you to ask a favor—a favor not just for me but for the Republican Party and for the country.

I have just returned from the Rocky Mountain area. While there I met several People who are admirers of Sen. Goldwater. However, several of them are in doubt as to his chances of becoming President.

One of the men that I talked to has been asked to head-up the forces for Sen. Goldwater in Utah. His name is Eric C. Ryberg. Even though he supports Mr. Goldwater's ideas and principles, he is reluctant to accept the responsibility because of doubt in his mind. He impressed me as a man capable of discharging this responsibility, and I believe that all he needs is a little persuasion. Therefore, this is the favor that I ask. Please write Mr. Ryberg a letter and assure him that the support for Sen. Goldwater is real and widespread and that if the people will start working for him, we can elect him President.

Congratulations on your decision to enter the Republican primary for Senator. I surely would like to see you lick Sen. Yarborough.

Respectfully yours,

John W Williams

We are convinced the only way to beat the Kennedys is through grass roots precinct level organization.

The 1963 annual Neighbor-to-Neighbor Fund Drive is now underway. Continued financial support is necessary to sustain our rate of growth and build toward victory for our Republican candidates in 1964. Our budget for the year-ending June 30, 1964 is a CPA-prepared appraisal of our minimum, no-frills expenses. Included in it are numerous items including publication of the excellent newspaper, the Banner, rental of our "new" headquarters near Allen Parkway and Waugh Drive, maintenance of a full time professional staff of three, candidates support, etc. We are determined to build the Party at the grass roots level in all areas of Houston.

Although you contributed to our 1962 Fund Drive, our records indicate you have not been contacted for your 1963 contribution. I am writing to ask if you will please send in your check now to support the work that is preparing for victory in 1964. For your convenience, a blank check is enclosed, and for your information, the contributions this year have ranged in size up to $100, with the average $16.

I am hopeful that you will use this means of expressing your confidence in the objectives of this political party.

Houston 19, Texas

Dear George:

This letter is with reference to the application of Mr. William L. Zander for the position of Precinct
(123) Chairman.

I have been personally acquainted with Mr. Zander since November, 1962, at which time I had the pleasure to serve with him as a poll watcher. I have always found him to be honest, sincere, diligent, and of high character standards. He is quite active in the Harris County Young Republican Club, having been a delegate of same to the State Convention in March, 1963. He is a full-time graduate student at the University of Houston, working on a master's degree in business administration.

I feel certain that he will be a creditable addition to your organization.

Very truly yours,

James W. "Jim" Harper, Jr.

DOES THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES HAVE THE RIGHT TO REVERSE PRIOR
CONSTITUTIONAL INTERPRETATIONS BY THAT COURT ?

SAM HOLLIDAY
Attorney at Law
San Antonio, Texas

FOREWORD:

This article is not a suggestion that anyone be or not be impeached. But writer is making a serious attempt to face, without evasion, a problem which seems to confuse many well meaning people. We believe such confusion results principally from their not approaching the problem as a rational one, one that can be analyzed and understood, and hence they just pass it over in their thinking. Any comments can be directed to writer at Rt. 4, Box 128-A, San Antonio 7, Texas.

DOES THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED
STATES HAVE THE RIGHT TO REVERSE PRIOR
CONSTITUTIONAL INTERPRETATIONS BY THAT
COURT ?

In considering this question, we are immediately met with the evident and undisputable fact that the Constitution does not state that the Supreme Court may interpret the Constitution. It does not say anything whatever about the matter. Many eminent men, including Thomas Jefferson, the author of the Declaration of Independence and one of the inspirers of the American Bill of Rights, incorporated into the Constitution, were of the opinion that the Supreme Court had no more power to interpret the Constitution than did the other branches of the Government in their respective spheres. The Court's asserted right is based, upon a claimed logical necessity. It is claimed that the Court, in applying the Constitution to the facts in cases coming before it, must ascertain, or interpret, the true meaning of the Constitution in order to know what it was applying. In other words, it is claimed that the Court is called upon, or has the duty, to search for and ascertain the Constitution's true meaning and then apply that meaning to the facts before the Court.

Much criticism has been heaped upon those, especially lawyers, who do not agree with recent reversals of prior constructions of the Constitution by the Supreme Court. Generally, such reversals occurred when the Court was composed of a different group of judges than those who rendered the prior decision. The basis of such criticism is that the Supreme Court has the duty to interpret the Constitution, when it needs interpreting to arrive at its true meaning; that as the Court is only interpreting the Constitution to ascertain its true meaning in order to apply such meaning, that, when the Court does interpret, or construes, a provision, that is, when it has ascertained or found its true meaning, such interpretation should be accepted as the same as the provision. It is claimed that it is the duty of all citizens to uphold such interpretation just as if that had been the way the provision in question had been expressed when it became part of the Constitution, because that was its true meaning when it was adopted, only expressed differently. It is claimed that such interpretation must be upheld whether the lawyer critic, or other critic, likes it or not, just as it is his duty to uphold the express terms of the Constitution, whether he likes it or not. This writer has no fault to find with such reasoning.

But the duty to uphold the Constitution and such an interpretation is not only that of the lawyer, the official, the soldier and other citizens, but it is also the obligation of the members of the Supreme Court themselves. They, like the lawyers and other citizens, are obligated to uphold all of the Constitution. And if an interpretation becomes a part of it, then the judges themselves, like the lawyers and other citizens, have sworn to and are obligated to uphold it, just as they are obligated to uphold the Constitution as written, whether they like it or not. It would appear axiomatic that, if they are not so obligated, neither is anybody else, because the obligation of each to uphold it is the same. Is the Constitution which the lawyer swears to uphold the same or a different Constitution from that which the judges of the Supreme Court swear to uphold?

There is only one Constitution of the United States of America, and all citizens, regardless of their position, not excluding judges of the Supreme Court, are all alike duty bound to uphold it.

Does a lawyer, official, soldier, or citizen have the right to say "I will not uphold this provision, or this interpretation, because it is out of date and should be changed?" It is evident that he does not.

Does a judge of the Supreme Court have the right to say, "I will not uphold this provision, or this interpretation, because it is out of date and should be changed?" It is still evident that he does not.

Suppose that the night before a reversal is made by the Supreme Court, a lawyer is upholding the Constitution as originally interpreted by such Court, which had correctly interpreted it as having the meaning it had when it was adopted. But the following morning, without his knowledge, the Supreme Court reverses such prior interpretation and gives it a meaning opposite to the original interpretation. Thereupon, still without knowledge of the change, the lawyer continues upholding the Constitutional interpretation as he was the day before. Who would be upholding the Constitution, the lawyer or the judges who attempt to change the prior interpretation? Is it the lawyer's duty to uphold the Constitution or to uphold the judges?

It is inconceivable to writer's mind that the judges can emit judgments, orders, or what not, which everybody, except themselves, is duty bound to uphold. Our laws are applicable to all citizens, generally. We do not have a two class citizenship, one composed of nine judges who are above the law and yet who, at the same time, can make what amounts to law binding on everybody else, the second class citizens. I do not believe that we have a nation of 180 million second class citizens, including writer, and nine first class citizens. In a society of our background and traditions, it cannot be that the judges of the Court can set the limits of their own power, for in such a case there would be no limits to such power. Would the government then be by the people? How could it be, if the people have no effective will, no power, as a matter of RIGHT to decide on their government? How could this be if any expression of their will must depend on the will of nine men, and any expression of their will can be disregarded, nullified and destroyed by those nine men? And the quaint idea in the Declaration of Independence that every just power is derived "from the consent of the governed", where would it fit in?

I beg you earnestly to consider the following reasoning.

There are at least three reasons why the Supreme Court can not change, that is, amend by interpretation, by construction, the meaning of a provision of the Constitution, or its equivalent, a prior interpretation, which, as such an interpretation, has become of constitutional status, or as it is sometimes stated, "a part of the Constitution."

The first reason is that the Constitution contains no provision giving the Court such right. This was no oversight because the Constitution does provide how it is to be amended, and the Court is not mentioned in this connection. Is this not proof that the authors, great and learned men, who labored so earnestly and ably to make the Constitution clear, simple and comprehensive, as well as the people who adopted it, had no intention of giving the Court such power, under the well recognized rule of legal construction, "Inclusus unius est exclusio alterius."

But the fundamental question as raised by the Court itself, is this:

Can the Supreme Court change the meaning of the Constitution, including prior interpretations, in order to make the Constitution better, to make it suit what the Court considers to be our current conditions and the better current sociological thought?

Whether a particular decision was good or bad, or whether any particular change in the Constitution should have been made is not herein considered. We here are only interested in whose right it is to make changes in meaning in the Constitution.

Writer has never heard of anyone who claims that the authors who wrote the original Constitution, and the people who adopted it, thought they were providing that the Supreme Court could amend the Constitution. If they did, why didn't they say so? Furthermore, in such case, why did they expend so much effort, care and thought in writing out a full Constitution at all. It would have been much simpler, and equally as effective, to have provided something like this:

"There shall be one Supreme Court and its word shall be the Constitution and the supreme law of the land; and such Court may, as and when it sees fit, change or amend such Constitution, in the manner it sees fit, by its word alone."

Can anyone believe that Madison's hand could, in seriousness, have written anything meaning that? Can anyone believe that Washington, Jefferson, Patrick Henry, Franklin, John Adams and other patriots would have agreed to it? And that grizzled, lean, austere, uncompromising, old Samuel Adams, whose life was so enmeshed with the struggle for freedom that one can hardly think of the one without thinking of the other, would he have agreed to it, or would he have died first?

Who can believe that the people, after revolting and undergoing nearly eight years of suffering, hardships and war to get freedom would have adopted such a provision denying them that freedom?

It is certain that that did not happen, and I will waste no more time on whether the Constitution, at the time of its adoption meant that it could be amended by the Supreme Court. If the Court ever acquired such right, it happened in some other way and later. We will in this discussion, I believe, arrive at a correct conclusion as to whether this happened.

If the Court has the right to change, or amend, a prior interpretation, or construction, that is, an explanation of the meaning of the Constitution, which has become a part of the Constitution, it can also change a part of equal dignity, an express provision of the Constitution. If it can change it to what one person believes is good, it can change it to what another person believes is good, although it may seem bad to the first person. We are all aware that the Thirteenth Amendment provides that slavery may not exist in the United States. Does the Court have the right to say (not, will it do so?) that such provision is now changed and it means, "Slavery may exist anywhere within the territorial limits of the United States, notwithstanding any objection by any particular State."

If the judges of the Court can decide what is forward, they can decide that backward is forward, because, if their will is the test, that which is backward and that which is forward depends upon the ideas and whims of the judges of the Court. It may just as well be the reverse of what those who support discretionary power for the Court believe, just as some of its reversals are the reverse of what some other people believe.

But the Constitution is inviolate. It is this inviolability of the Constitution, or what the cases call "Inviolatus", and not "stare decisis", which makes the Constitution invulnerable against changes without constitutional amendment. The Doctrine of "Inviolatus" means that the Court cannot make changes in the meaning of the Constitution, because it is sacred as it is.

The second reason that the Supreme Court has no such right is that any right of the Court to make such a change would be diametrically opposed to, inconsistent with, the duty of the Court to interpret, to ascertain and to apply the true meaning of the Constitution so as to preserve it inviolate, and to protect it, the only function which the Supreme Court has with respect to the Constitution. Consider this a moment. The Court, as a court, has no choice whatever with respect to the Constitution other than to decide the form, not the meaning, of its interpretations. The meaning has already been set by the Constitution which the Court is interpreting or ascertaining. There are rights under the Constitution in the judges, as citizens, and those rights are no different from those in other individual citizens. But, as a Court, its relation to the Constitution is principally that of a duty owed. The duty is to perform a function. That function, as above stated, is to apply the Constitution and to interpret it so as to preserve it, preserving its meaning. The function is commensurate with the duty and extends only as far as the duty extends. Where there is no duty, there is no function to perform. The duty arises in necessity to ascertain and make clear and apply the true meaning of the Constitution, and the function goes no further than the duty and the necessity. The right which is correlative to the Court's duty is in the people and it is to have the Court faithfully interpret the Constitution.

Expressed in another way, the function of the Court to interpret the Constitution is necessary in order for it to perform its duty to apply the true meaning of the Constitution to the facts coming before the Court. Such facts vary. Rarely, if ever, are the facts before the Court in the exact words, or the exact opposite of the words of, the Constitution. Hence the necessity that the Court ascertain, or interpret, the meaning of the Constitution with reference to such facts. This necessity is the only excuse or reason for the Court's construing, that is to say interpreting, the Constitution. The function of the Court arises in and exists only from and to the extent of such duty, and the duty arises in and is dependent upon such necessity. Therefore, the function to interpret the Constitution goes only to the extent of such necessity. Such necessity sets the limits of the function of the Court to interpret.

If there is no such necessity, there is no call for an interpretation, and, therefore, no duty or function to interpret. It is not necessary to misinterpret to interpret. From this it is evident that the Court's duty and function does not extend to misinterpreting, ie., changing the meaning of, a provision of the Constitution, for this would be contrary to and would destroy the meaning which the Court is duty bound to ascertain, or interpret, and to apply. The function to interpret the Constitution is the exact opposite to and is inconsistent with any function to misinterpret or to give another meaning to, to change, the Constitution. The Court cannot discharge its duty to apply, to interpret and to protect, preserve and uphold the Constitution by attacking it and destroying it. Therefore the Court has no such function, much less a right, to change, or amend, the Constitution.

The third reason that the Court cannot amend the Constitution, or an interpretation with constitutional status, is because the Constitution positively, and clearly, though not in so many words, prohibits the Supreme Court from doing so. What provision is that?

It is the one directly and affirmatively stating how the Constitution is to be amended. It provides that it can be amended by the people through their representatives. One may say, "Yes, but this is not a statement that the Court can't." Yes, it is, in effect, for consider this:

I am not relying only on the well known rule of construction, "Inclusio unius est exclusio alterius". Such rule is, of course, applicable. But there is a much more compelling and fundamental reason why such right in the people excludes the same right in the court. This reason is that, if the Court can have such power as a right, then the people cannot, despite the clear and express provisions in the Constitution that they can. If the Court can, by interpreting, change the meaning of a provision or an amendment adopted by the people, the Court can reject such provision or amendment and the people's act would be futile. Hence either the one or the other of such claimed rights must yield. Of course, if such claimed rights conflict and are inconsistent, then the claimed right in the Court would have to cede in view of the clear, direct statement in the Constitution that the people can amend it.

How do they conflict? If the Court, at will, amends, or changes the Constitution, or an interpretation which has become a part thereof, it must be because the Court decides to make a change in its meaning. If the Court can change it because it is "bad" or "wrong" or for any other notion of its own, then it is the idea of the judges' which limits the right to make the change. If the judges' idea as to what change they want to make is the test, then they could make a change whenever they take a notion to do so; they could do it immediately upon the adoption of an amendment or later when the notion struck them. This would amount to the right of veto over any amendment by the people. Then the RIGHT of the people would be ineffective and such right would exist only so long as the judges decided not to veto it. It is clear then that the right of the people to amend would not then exist as a RIGHT at all, but only as a matter of sufferance or grace on the part of the judges of the Court. A so-called right that does not exist, except by sufferance or grace of another man or men, is no right. Then the two rights would be antagonistic and the Court's right would be destructive of the people's so-called right. But the Constitution expressly provides that the people have such right and says nothing about the Court's having any such right. Therefore the claimed right of the Court is necessarily denied by the recognition of the inconsistent right in the people. The provision that the people have such right cannot be twisted to mean they cannot.

The Court does have the same right that all its predecessors had -- the right to construe, to interpret, that is, to ascertain, the meaning of the Constitution, to re-interpret the meaning of it, or of a prior interpretation, and to respect their own constitutional acts, as many times as may be necessary to apply the meaning of the Constitution to the varying facts which may come before that Court, but not to change, that is to amend, such meaning.

There are two exceptions, as writer sees it, when a later Court can set aside a prior interpretation: If the interpretation were made through fraud, and if the prior interpretation was wrong in that it did not give a provision the meaning it had when it was adopted. If there were such a cause of fraud, there would have been no interpretation at all and, consequently, such purported interpretation could be ignored by a subsequent Supreme Court. In the second case the Court would not have performed its function to give a provision its true meaning, and the Court cannot intentionally or through mistake change the meaning of a provision of the Constitution. But these exceptions do not authorize the Court to make changes in the meaning of an interpretation for other reasons, certainly not because the Court thinks a provision is "bad" and should not have been adopted by the people, and certainly not because the Court believes that "the better modern sociological thought" has changed and now considers a provision "bad" that was before thought to be "good." Any misinterpretation by a later Court is likewise vulnerable and can be corrected, if the Court does not give a provision the correct meaning it had when it was adopted.

The supporters of discretionary power for the Court do not seem to understand that, when they advocate the Court's having the right, at will, to interpret out of existence prior interpretations, which have reached constitutional status, they are in reality advocating the destruction of the entire process of constitutional interpretation by the Supreme Court and hence the destruction of constitutional government. How does this follow:

If the limitations are removed as to the present Court, they likewise are removed from the next and ensuing Courts. If the prior interpretations mean nothing to this Court, then this Court's interpretations would mean nothing to the next and future Courts. Each Court would be able to interpret the Constitution and prior interpretations as it sees fit, thereby being able to disregard the prior acts of the Court and to interpret them out of existence. The will of the judges would then become the only law. The Constitution, and prior interpretations, including those of all past, present and future Courts, would become surplusage. A Constitution that is surplusage and which cannot furnish a binding rule is no Constitution and might just as well never have been written. As a result of too much power in the Court, the entire constitutional system would have disappeared. A true Constitution is a limitation on the Court. If there is no limitation, there is no Constitution. An interpretation, to be effective as an interpretation, must have binding effect. If it does not have binding effect, then that which has equal dignity, a written provision of the Constitution, would have no binding effect and we would have government by fiat, or order, by the word of a few men, changeable at their discretion. What the discretionary power of a judge means has been considered before. On other occasions I have called to your attention that one such case is that of State vs. Cummings, 36 Mo. 263, in which it is said:

"The discretion of a judge is the law of tyrants; it is always unknown; it is different in different men; it is casual and depends on constitution, temper and passion. At best it is often caprice; in its worst it is every vice, folly and passion to which human nature can be liable."

Dear Ray,

Just a note to thank you for inviting me to the meeting last night and to commend you for the fine work you are doing. See if you can keep the enthusiasm running high.

I urge that you get some of the members to take on and adopt a precinct program. If you do this and do it successfully it could be an example for the best of the Harris County Republican Party, young and old, to follow.

Will be expecting you on the 16th,
but will call you in the meantime.

To save you time, you might drop by about 8:30 -- the meeting will have been called to order and we can interrupt at any point for you to say a few words. However, if you can come earlier and visit a little with the precinct workers, we'd like to have you.

I've asked Des to stress the impor-

are to achieve victory in any race.
You might also drive home the point.

Republican Volunteers will be calling on you within the next two weeks to ask for your 1963 donation to the Republican Party. A cordial welcome by you will be appreciated.

Consider these facts when you are deciding the amount of your donation:

- 1) Republican candidates win in areas where there is a strong, well-organized and well-financed county and state organization. Your donations this year will be used primarily to establish such an organization in Houston under the very able leadership of George Bush and to show the rest of the state that Houston as well as Dallas can elect Republicans to office.
- 2) We must also accumulate the funds necessary to properly finance a political campaign. Able candidates are available such as Barry Goldwater, Ross Baker, and Des Barry, but it is unfair to ask these men to expend the efforts necessary to win, when without proper financing they have no chance to win.
- 3) The Democrats have large contributors with special interests to finance their campaigns. This may come as a surprise-- but a majority of the funds available to the Republican Party must come from door-to-door collections.
- 4) You are aware of the national issues that face us, the Cuban crisis, the proposed $12 billion deficit, etc. We must have the money to elect candidates who can solve these problems in a way consistent with the American way of life.

The volunteer will ask you for a minimum contribution of $10. This may be the most important $10 you will ever invest.

Are you concerned about your country at this time? Do you really care?

Dear Clyde:

Thanks for your letter of April 20th and the note of congratulations.

I was particularly happy to see that you have apparently fulfilled one of the questions asked by the vacancy committee. "Would you work with whoever is appointed Precinct Chairman".

You can be sure that in the near future you will be called upon to accept a responsible assignment here in the precinct. I know that you have worked with the precinct organization before and provided a valuable service to the Party through your efforts this past year.

I noted that you also indicated there are other willing workers that will assist our precinct organization. I hope they too will come forward and make that fact known. You indicated they would like to be asked and given the opportunity. From experience in other organizations I can say that I don't know of a better way of being asked to take an assignment than to volunteer just as you have done. I can assure you that those who are willing to work in the overall effort of the precinct organization and particularly the major goal of the Party (To elect all Republican Candidates to Public Office) will find plenty to do here in 287.

After the normal transfer of records, etc. to me from Hart, I'll be in a position to review our current situation, and with the Precinct Organization, chart our course for the future. When that time comes I hope many of the people you refer to in your letter will be among our number.

Sincerely,

Chairman, Precinct 287

Dear Mr. Hall,

I tried to call you yesterday and today to discuss with you the recommendations of the Vacancy Committee concerning your precinct. The Vacancy Committee has recommended that Mr. Lambert be appointed Precinct Chairman and I plan to proceed with this appointment.

I should tell you that the Committee was very much impressed with both of you and the decision was not an easy one to make. Gene Crossman, Carol Jones and others have talked to me about your terrifically hard work in the Cox Campaign. As you may know, I too worked in this Campaign but principally in the financial end. I am hoping that you will be able to work closely with Mr. Lambert for the benefit of the Republican Party. In addition I hope that I can feel free to call on you for some County function from time to time.

Frankly I think it is a wonderful sign when two able people offer themselves as candidates for precinct chairman. It shows that the Republican Party has come of age and I want to thank you for permitting your name to be submitted.

I am sorry that I could not talk to you personally about this before making the appointment but I think it is sound policy to move very quickly after the Vacancy Committee has made its recommendations and, therefore, I am notifying Mr. Lambert today by letter of his appointment.

Please stay active in the Party; we need people like you. I am hoping to see you personally one of these days soon.

Very truly yours,

George H. W. Bush

Dear Hal,

We've had very favorable comments on the press lunch. Out of it has come a potentially productive dinner with Bill Hobby plus several other good leads.

Thanks for the idea and the execution thereof. It was fun.

Best regards,

George H. W. Bush, Chairman
Harris County Republican Party

Dear Mr. Hewett,

Thank you for the booklet THE FRINGE ON TOP.
Having met some of the people who are the characters in the book, the book is particularly interesting to me. I am scared to death of the far left wing of the Democratic Party and this book will be helpful in understanding the situation.

Very truly yours,

George H. W. Bush, Chairman
Harris County Republican Party

Dear Pat,

Thank you for your letter of March 5th. I am pleased that you felt my visit was worthwhile. I assure you that it was worthwhile for me. I was pleased to see the way you have done your work and with the turn-out. Some people view the job of precinct chairman as a thankless job but I view it as the most important link in our organization and a job that has to be done right if we are to be successful in our goal.

You need not show me your news letter before it goes to press but please put me on the mailing list for it. I am most anxious to keep up with activities such as this. I will take the letter home and show it to Barbara. I am sure it will please her.

Best regards,

Mr. W. P. Holland, Jr.
