MEETING WITH MIDDLE EAST EXPERTS

DATE: Friday, March 31
LOCATION: The Roosevelt Room
TIME: 3:00 p.m. - 4:30 p.m.

FROM: BRENT SCOWCROFT BJS

I. PURPOSE

To hear from academic experts on the Middle East peace process.

II. BACKGROUND

This is intended to be similar to the meetings you have held with outside experts on such subjects as the USSR and the Asia/Pacific. There is thus no formal scenario; rather, the meeting should provide a good opportunity to talk to some experienced people about what is going on in the region, about what Mubarak and Shamir may have on their minds, and how we might best go about the next phase of our policy.

III. PARTICIPANTS

See Tab B

IV. PRESS PLAN

White House Photographer

V. SEQUENCE

You should begin the meeting with a few introductory remarks. I would then suggest you call on Richard Haass who can introduce the outsiders and structure the initial phase of the meeting.

TALKING POINTS FOR MEETING WITH MIDDLE EAST EXPERTS

- Thank you all for taking the time to come. I look forward to hearing your views on the Middle East and the peace process.
- Let me just say that I think we are at an historic moment. Palestinians appear more willing to accept Israel; Israelis appear to understand that the status quo is no longer an option. Especially valuable to me would be your insights into how prospects for peace in the Middle East have changed.
- If there is opportunity to move forward we will not waste it. At the same time, we want to proceed realistically with a policy that can be sustained. I would appreciate your thinking on what the US might best say and do.
- As you know, President Mubarak and Prime Minister Shamir will be here next week. Jordan's King Hussein comes in mid-April. Your views on their thinking would be valuable.

General Scowcroft:

Jim Schlesinger called to say that he is just back from Norway and prepared to discuss "the project."

And other items:

-- Have a meeting of "the Panel" and that meeting will be at the White House starting at 8:00 a.m. Monday, the 20th -- a holiday. You are welcome to come after 8:00 a.m. for 20-30 minutes or however much time you can -- I doubt that you have much time available but we are devoting the day to the issue.

-- You have already indicated that you want to chat about this issue prior to my discussions -- obviously no time to get around to it but would like to know where you want to go prior to next Monday.

-- There are a couple of other subjects, including oil, that I have raised in the past -- don't know how far you want to go down the agenda. I am out of town tomorrow night and much of Wednesday.

MEMORANDUM FOR WHITE HOUSE STAFF

FROM: C. BOYDEN GRAY cm
COUNSEL TO THE PRESIDENT

SUBJECT: Support of Administration Legislative Programs

This memorandum is intended to alert members of the White House staff to proscriptions on lobbying activities imposed by federal law and to provide general guidelines to staff members working in this area so as to insure compliance with those laws.

Simply stated, the so-called "Anti-Lobbying Act" (18 U.S.C §1913) prohibits the use of appropriated funds, directly or indirectly, to pay for "any personal service, advertisement, telegram, telephone, letter, printed or written matter or other device" intended to influence a Member of Congress in acting upon legislation, before or after its introduction. There is also an appropriation rider, which has appeared in appropriation bills since 1951, barring the use of appropriated funds for "publicity or propaganda purposes" designed to support or defeat legislation pending before Congress.

Interpretations of 18 U.S.C. §1913 by the Department of Justice make it clear that an employee of the Executive Branch, while acting in his or her official capacity, may communicate with a member of Congress for the purpose of providing information or soliciting that member's support for the Administration's position on matters before Congress whether or not such contact is invited and whether or not specific legislation is pending. Thus, the ordinary and traditional interaction between the Executive and Legislative Branches is permitted. Likewise, it is not improper for an Executive Branch employee to provide legitimate informational background and material to the public in support of an Administration policy effort.

Problems arise where employees of the Executive Branch become involved, directly or indirectly, in efforts to induce or encourage members of the public to lobby members of Congress on Administration programs or legislation. Unfortunately, the line separating proper and improper conduct is imprecise and the propriety of an activity may well depend on each individual situation. The following comments and examples are intended to provide general guidance for the more frequently encountered contacts and activities:

1) Executive Branch officials may speak freely in meetings with individuals or groups, at public forums, at news conferences, and during news interviews, but where these appearances of personnel become so excessive as to be deemed to be a publicity campaign, the activity might be challenged. Any undue degree of direct contact with the private sector by persons who do not ordinarily engage in such activities is evidence of prohibited conduct.

2) Appropriated funds should not be used to produce written, printed or electronic communications for distribution with the intent to induce members of the public to lobby members of Congress. For example, an organized mailing to members of the public initiated by Executive Branch personnel, stating the Administration's position and asking the recipients to contact their Senators and Representatives in support of that position should be avoided. Moreover, asking recipients to contact their elected representatives should also be avoided in communications sent in response to inquiries received by the Executive Branch. However, responses to incoming communications may include information which responds to the specific inquiries as well as explanations of the Administration's position on matters of public policy, including proposed legislation.

Massive distribution by the Executive Branch of unsolicited copies of a public document, such as the reprint of a public official's speech or other informational materials, may raise a question even though the contents are only informational and do not suggest that the recipients contact members of Congress. Normal unsolicited distribution of press releases, public officials' speeches, fact sheets and other informational materials to persons, because of governmental or organizational position or expression of interest in the subject matter, would not ordinarily create a problem. Each such proposed distribution must be separately judged based on the purpose and content of the communication and the number and kind of people who will receive the information.

3) Officials and employees of the Executive Branch may properly have regular contact with non-governmental organizations which have among their purposes lobbying members of Congress or attempting to influence the general public to lobby the Congress. However, in these dealings, the officials should not or even appear to dominate the group or use the group as an arm of the Executive Branch.

(a) Examples of the kinds of activities in which Executive Branch officials might participate in dealing with independent outside organizations include:

(i) exchange information, as long as it is not privileged;

(ii) make suggestions, respond to or raise particular inquiries, or discuss the merits of various legislative strategies and related matters, so long as the Executive Branch officials do not suggest organization of grass roots pressure;

- (iii) address meetings (non-fundraisers) sponsored by such organizations;
- (iv) Upon the request of an independent organization provide to it for reproduction and distribution by the organization:
 - sample copies of documents prepared by Executive Branch officials (such as press releases, public officials speeches, fact sheets) that are otherwise available for public distribution.
 - letters on specific subjects written by Executive Branch officials.

(Note that the materials must not suggest that the recipients contact Members of Congress urging support of particular positions; also the decision to publish or distribute any such material must be left to the independent organization.)

(b) Examples of the kinds of things which Executive Branch officials should avoid include:

- (i) responsibility for the on-going operation of an outside organization;
- (ii) requesting that an organization activate its membership at large to contact members of Congress on behalf of a legislative proposal;
- (iii) gathering information or producing materials specifically for such an organization which cannot properly or would not ordinarily be gathered or produced as part of the official's regular work;
- (iv) producing or providing multiple copies of materials to be distributed by such organizations;
- (v) requesting an organization to prepare or distribute any materials that suggest directly or indirectly that the recipients contact members of Congress, or playing any substantial role in advising an organization regarding the content of material it may wish to distribute;
- (vi) providing to such organizations lists of or correspondence from persons who favor or oppose particular policy positions;

- (vii) involvement in fundraising activities by such organizations (because of the varying forms that such involvement might take, any involvement should be discussed in advance, with the Counsel's office).

These legal provisions are not intended to prohibit an on-going dialogue or interaction between the Executive Branch and the public in an educational effort to explain Administration positions, but where that conduct develops into a publicity and propaganda campaign designed or intended to pressure citizen groups into contacting Congressional representatives, the boundary of propriety has been crossed.

18 U.S.C. §1913 is a criminal statute and should be taken seriously. In addition, any specific allegation against White House staff members (Level IV and above) for violation of 18 U.S.C. §1913 potentially could trigger the "Special Prosecutors Act", 28 U.S.C. §591, et seq. The General Accounting Office is also authorized to undertake audits in this area, and any disallowed expenditures would have to be borne by the individual supervising the activity that resulted in the unauthorized use of government funds.

Because §1913 and the appropriation rider have not often been interpreted it is difficult to be more specific in setting forth guidelines. Any difficult factual situation should be brought to the attention of this office before any action is taken.

MEMORANDUM FOR WHITE HOUSE STAFF

FROM: C. BOYDEN GRAY CBG
COUNSEL TO THE PRESIDENT

SUBJECT: Acceptance of Special Commercial Discounts

This memorandum provides guidance for the acceptance of special commercial discounts by members of the White House staff. It is a recognized fact that in commercial dealings there are a variety of special rates and commercial discounts offered to individuals. These are usually derived from membership in organizations, occupations, age, etc. They are not granted exclusively to individuals in public service, nor only to those in the Executive Branch. However, it is also possible that they may be offered for an improper motive or the acceptance of them might result in the appearance of impropriety. The acceptance by a White House Staff member of any special rate or commercial discount will be governed by the rules and prohibitions related to the acceptance of gifts.

The only exceptions to this are when the rate or discount is offered to all government employees, or when the rate or discount is offered to a defined class of individuals and the White House staff member is a member of that class.

Note, however, in the instance where the offer is to a defined class other than all government employees, an exception does not apply, and such a rate or discount may not be accepted, under the following circumstances:

- A. if it is offered only to members of the White House staff;
- B. if the person or entity offering the rate or discount
 - 1. has exclusive interests that may be directly affected by the performance of the employee's official duties; or
 - 2. has or is seeking business with the White House; or

3. appears to be offering the rate or discount to the staff member with the hope or expectation of obtaining an advantage or preferment in dealing with the United States government for any purpose.

C. if acceptance of the rate or discount would otherwise adversely affect the public's confidence in the integrity of the government.

Additionally, particular mention should be made of the practice of purchasing items from foreign manufacturers and obtaining an offered discount by virtue of holding a diplomatic or an official passport. There is nothing per se illegal or unethical in this practice, whether the item was purchased while abroad or from the United States, as long as the purchase was consistent with the manufacturer's offer to the class and was made for personal use and not for resale. However, as a matter of White House policy, henceforth no member of the White House staff should avail himself or herself of an offered discount from a foreign manufacturer based solely upon the holding of such a passport, unless such person is out of the country on official business for a period in excess of thirty (30) days. This policy does not apply to the use of a passport to purchase items for personal use at a United States Embassy or for the waiver of any foreign taxes as provided by law or treaty.

Note further, that a staff member is prohibited from using any rate or discount related to government service to obtain any item for the purpose of resale at a profit. Such activity will result in dismissal from the White House staff, and may also result in criminal prosecution.

This guidance applies to rates and discounts. It does not preclude a White House staff member from seeking to negotiate a price in a commercial setting. In doing so, however, the member must be mindful that he or she should neither seek nor accept a price that would be violative of the spirit of this guidance or otherwise create the appearance of using one's government position for personal gain.

If you have any questions about the above, or about its application to a particular special rate or discount, please consult with the Counsel's office before accepting it.

Congresswoman Helen Bentley (R-Md.) called Fred McClure asking for a meeting next week with the President for herself, Dornan (R-Ca.), Hunter (R-Ca.), Rohrabacher (R-Ca.), Wolf (R-Va.), Weldon (R-Pa.) on FSX. These Members are opposed to the agreement. Knowing what we know about the probable timing on the decision, I recommend you call Congresswoman Bentley either this evening or tomorrow morning. Proposed talking points:

- Fred McClure informed me that you had called and requested a meeting with the President to discuss FSX. As you are aware the President is travelling through the weekend. Since we can't be certain of when he will make his decision on FSX, I wanted to hear your views so I can pass them on to the President during his trip.....Let her talk.

Congressman Hunter (part of Bentley's group) called you directly to discuss FSX. He also called McClure. I recommend you return the call and again just give him a forum to talk. Both Members have been informed again that no decision has been made.

Mexican Ambassador to Washington, Gustavo Petricioli, has requested a brief courtesy call on you as soon as it is convenient. The call could be 10-15 minutes.

Although he did not mention any specific topic I believe that any substantive discussion would allude to the drug certification problem and a possible Bush/Salinas meeting. Being a financial expert, he might also be interested in any developments on the debt issue.

I will prepare a paper if you can see him.

MEMORANDUM FOR BRENT SCOWCROFT

FROM:  STEPHEN P. FARRAR

SUBJECT: Invitation to Lunch on March 16

I have been asked by Mr. James W. Bergford, Executive Vice President of Chase Manhattan Bank, if you would be willing to meet with the Baker Initiative Committee, a group of international bankers, for lunch on Thursday, March 16, 1989. I know that it is a Presidential travel day, but if your schedule permits, it would be a good opportunity for an informal exchange of views on the national security dimension of the debt situation.

The Baker Initiative Committee is a group of senior officers of some 16 U.S. and foreign commercial banks that meets with no agenda or minutes once or twice a year to review the debt situation. Chase Manhattan is hosting the next meeting on March 16-17 here in Washington (2000 Pennsylvania Ave, NW).

Treasury (David Mulford) has asked that the group meet in mid-March, I believe as a forum for discussing the outcome of the Administration's review of the debt strategy. Senior officials from the Fed, the IMF, and the World Bank will also be meeting with the group. All sessions are informal.

That you agree to meet with the Baker Initiative Committee for lunch on March 16.

JOHN TEMPLE SWING
Executive Vice President

February 14, 1989

Memorandum To:

The Honorable Brent Scowcroft
Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs
The White House
Washington, D.C.

From: Gidon Gottlieb and John Temple Swing

Subject: New public position by Chairman Arafat on the Final Status of the West Bank and Gaza is likely this weekend.

We have just this afternoon learned that Chairman Arafat has taped a SIXTY-MINUTE segment with Mike Wallace likely to be aired this Sunday, in which he is reported to endorse the idea of a confederation between three entities, economic links between them, and a "Marshall Plan" for the area along the lines that we had discussed with Bassam Abu Sharif in Zurich (see our letter to you of February 1, 1989). If this report is accurate, Arafat's position would seem to be converging with that of the Director General of P/M Shamir's office in the interview of January 6th mentioned in our letter.

We are concerned that the substance of the approach we have been discussing is now breaking too fast and at too high a level of visibility.

We are also led to wonder if some action might not be taken to encourage the Israelis to say nothing adverse about the substance of this approach even if they feel it necessary to reaffirm their refusal to deal with the PLO.

We have phoned Bill Kirby at NEA who will try to alert Dennis Ross about the program that is now likely to appear this Sunday. As you may have heard through your office, before he left for Europe, Dennis had asked us to come down to see him as soon as he returned, and we have an appointment to see him on Tuesday, February 21st at 2:30 p.m. We already know that your schedule is close to impossible around this time due to your impending trip to the Far East and as a result had previously suggested that we wait to see you after your return and at your convenience.

The Arafat statement, if it follows expected lines, however is something we thought should not wait until then but that we should draw to your immediate attention.

This is not something we need to act on immediately, but I would suggest that you may want to meet with him in the next month or so after the review process is completed or near completion.

SUBJECT: Appointment Request for Spanish Foreign Minister
Francisco Fernandez-Ordonez

DECLASSIFIED
PER NSC WAIVER, 1500 2021-02
By SS NARA, Date 3/5/24

Spanish Foreign Minister Fernandez-Ordonez will be in Washington March 13-14 for consultations in his capacity as EC Foreign Minister. He has requested an appointment with you to discuss both EC foreign policy issues and bilateral U.S.-Spanish concerns. He will be meeting Secretary Baker and U.S. Trade Representative Carla Hills, and will be holding a round of consultations with members of Congress.

This will be the first visit by Ordonez since the grueling re-negotiation of our base agreement, which was completed last December. Indeed, the main reason for Ordonez's visit is to repair the damage done to the relationship by the negotiations. Prime Minister Gonzales is anxious to pay an official working visit to Washington this Spring, a subject that Ordonez will likely raise with you. We have asked the State Department to inform Spanish officials that, due to scheduling constraints in the months ahead, a meeting will not be possible until the latter half of the year.

We understand that the State Department will be recommending that Foreign Minister Ordonez pay a courtesy call on the President. We endorse the idea, and will be forwarding a scheduling proposal for your consideration once we receive the formal recommendation from the State Department.

RECOMMENDATION

That you agree to see Foreign Minister Ordonez for 30 minutes during the suggested times listed below.

I checked with Roman to find out what ground rules we had to follow concerning the lunch.

Roman said you cannot allow him to pay for your lunch.

It is best only to agree to lunches with larger groups of newsies otherwise it will appear you are granting special/greater access to a particular newsie.

Roman recommended if you must see him, maybe do it as a mtg over coffee -- not lunch.

Roman wants to ensure that you have seen the attached memo concerning Evans/Haass before you direct me to schedule anything.

MEMORANDUM FOR ROBERT GATES

THROUGH: ROMAN POPADIUK

FROM: BOB HALL MBH

SUBJECT: ROLAND EVANS - RICHARD HAASS

Based on a very nasty meeting today it is clear that Roland Evans intends to give Richard Haass a rough time and attack the President's and General Scowcroft's judgement in hiring him. He also intends to attack John Kelly's appointment as Assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern and South Asian Affairs.

Evans entered the meeting with a strong prejudice against Richard's qualifications (and Kelly's). He grilled Richard extensively on his experience, travels and writings on the Middle East and clearly did not hear anything which reversed that prejudice. Richard handled the grilling with poise and essentially took the position that the proof will be in the pudding. Evans did take note of that point and he may give the Administration a short period of grace, but I wouldn't count on it.

The only answer that Richard gave about which he and I are concerned was confirmation of Evans' guess that no one had raised his Commentary article with him during the interview process.

Evans left the meeting with what, given the preceeding grilling, and his negative comments about Richard's qualifications, can only be considered an open threat - talk to me on a regular basis (in journalistic language that generally means leak to me) or I will attack (trash) you. Tip O'Neill describes a similar experience with Evans and Novak in his book. They denied O'Neill's account. In this instance, despite some indirect language, both Richard and I came to the exact same conclusion about the meeting and Evans' purpose.

Roman and I think this is better left alone and not discussed with Evans even if he tries to pursue it with you. Richard is aware that this is a cross he is going to have to bear.

① Rowland Evans called to say that when he spoke with General Scowcroft yesterday, he forgot to mention to him that he wants him to participate in the Evans-Novak Forum at the Madison Hotel on April 19th. He said that General Scowcroft is familiar with the all-day seminar which includes the NSC Director and other top Administration officials -- that he wants General Scowcroft to choose a 30-minute timeframe that will suit his schedule to come.

② Mr. Evans also mentioned that he is having lunch with General Scowcroft one day next week.

Re: Arab-Israeli Peace Initiatives

1. The Dutch Foreign Minister is sponsoring a foreign policy institute meeting at the Hague on February 1-3 at which top PLO people will meet leading Israeli Labor Party representatives, including some Knesset members.

Our International Peace Center has been instrumental in getting the right people to attend on both sides. We have talked to the PLO people to ensure the highest representation, short of Chairman Arafat.

The names of the attendees are attached.

We shall be certain the American press is aware of the meeting and covers it.

2. The calling of elections in the West Bank and Gaza is the next most practicable step. The PLO will accept elections. They tell me they are most concerned as to the openness and fairness of the elections. I suggested a monitoring group of U.S. Senators and Congressmen, as was used in the Philippines. They leaped at this suggestion.

Israel must be pressed to accept these elections. I believe the PLO can be induced to stop the violence of the intifada in exchange for open and free elections, with candidates running under the PLO banner.

This will be discussed at the Hague meeting. The Israeli group intends to push this issue with the PLO. U. S. involvement is essential if elections are to go forward in the near-term.

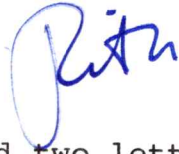

3. I reviewed this matter at lunch on Wednesday with the Egyptian Ambassador in Washington. He will convey the above-noted items to Foreign Minister Meguid.

I would like to spend some time with you to review this subject and to tell you of the essential things we have learned about the PLO leaders. They continue to call me from Tunis on a regular basis; they are seeking support and guidance for their new diplomatic approach.

May I see you on February 10th in Washington or for breakfast on Saturday, the 11th? I will call your secretary early in February to confirm a date.

Best regards.

Dear Brent:

One of the problems you will be facing will be the Middle East, and you may find it helpful to take advantage of Rita Hauser's contacts with various Palestinian leaders. She recently participated in an important meeting organized by the Swedish Foreign Minister, as per the copy of the enclosed invitation. Sustaining and developing such contacts should be useful to the U.S., and such contacts as the one that Rita has might provide a useful channel for an informal and indirect dialogue.

I need not add that Rita has the confidence of many people in the Jewish community, and that is an added asset.

Best regards,

W's.

Dear Rita:

My congratulations to you for the steps that you took in Sweden to continue to work toward a just and viable peace in the Middle East.

I know you have received some criticism, but you have received acclaim and praise as well. The quest for peace is best and the only long run policy that will enable Israel to fulfill its mission, bring prosperity and progress to its own people, and to earn for it also the respect of the world. You are helping mightily, and on the beginning of a new year that offers promise, I want to reiterate how much I value and have treasured your friendship through the years.

Dear Ms. Hauser,

This short letter is to salute you and your associates for your integrity and courage in meeting with Yasser Arafat. If the Washington Post of 30 December 1988 is to be believed, the reaction among (at least) several prominent Jewish leaders was hardly overwhelming.

As a resident of Saudi Arabia for over 20 years and President of the American Businessmen of Jeddah, my colleagues and I have worked long and hard for sanity in U.S. foreign policy in the Middle East. In this process, we support a significant exchange program of students, professors, congressmen, etc, to the Arab Middle East, visit Congress regularly to make our views known, and assist Saudi groups visiting the U.S.

During various phases of this program we have started including a few U.S. Jewish spokesmen. I am happy to report that those meetings with Saudi businessmen have been an undiluted success. We will continue to slowly expand this program as means permit.

You are a better judge than I, but I surmise from my own empirical experiences that our moderate Jewish friends in Washington and individuals such as yourself reflect far more accurately mainstream U.S. Jewish thought today, than someone like Morris Abram (whom I suspect in actuality represents only a small minority, though admittedly a very vociferous one).

To the extent that I can claim to represent the views of the U.S.'s largest expatriate civilian population abroad (50-60,000 U.S. citizens reside in the Arab Gulf countries), let me close by encouraging you in your search for peace, based on reality and common sense in the Middle East.

Yours sincerely,

John M. Mulholland

March 9, 1989

Dear Larry:

In view of your concerns regarding the implementation of meaningful reforms in the defense procurement process, I would like to take this opportunity to reiterate the President's commitment to such reforms and to encourage Congressional participation in the reform process.

A defense management review is currently under way and will report its findings this spring. None of the efforts in this area will be cursory. I agree with you that it is important Congress and the American people understand and believe that we are serious about reform. I am sure we also agree that Congress and the Administration must work together to achieve this goal.

The President appreciates your commitment to establishing greater accountability in the defense procurement system. We look forward to working with you in pursuit of this common goal.

Sincerely,

MEMORANDUM FOR BRENT SCOWCROFT

FROM: ROBERT S. PASTORINO

SUBJECT: Request for Meeting by Jose Cordoba, Chief of Staff to the President of Mexico

Jose Cordoba Montoya, President Salinas' Chief of Staff, (and somewhat equivalent to your position on foreign affairs issues), has requested an appointment with you for 20-30 minutes on March 8 or during the afternoon of March 9. Cordoba is one of Salinas' closest personal advisors; he was the man who represented Salinas during the preparations for the November meeting in Houston between the two Presidents-elects. He also did much of Mexico's negotiating on the $3.5 billion financial package at the end of 1988.

Cordoba says he wants to discuss Salinas' plans and programs and how they will possibly affect the U.S. or be affected by U.S. policy. He may have an important message from Salinas about the debt and may also want to discuss a possible Presidential meeting. He will probably also see the Treasury Department but I have the impression he will not see the State Department.

MEMORANDUM FOR BRENT SCOWCROFT
THE WHITE HOUSE

Subject: Presidential Appointment Request: Warren Zimmermann,
Ambassador to Yugoslavia

Warren Zimmermann, our newly appointed Ambassador to Yugoslavia, is in Washington for consultations prior to his scheduled March 8 departure for Belgrade. He recently returned from Vienna where he was Chairman of the U.S. Delegation to the CSCE Follow-Up Meeting that reached agreement in January after two years of negotiations. He would welcome the opportunity to pay a courtesy call on President Bush before departing for Yugoslavia.

Since Tito broke with Stalin in 1948, an independent, non-aligned Yugoslavia has served important U.S. interests by preventing Soviet expansion into the Balkans. In recent years, the country has been moving steadily toward greater political and economic freedom and closer ties with the West. Unfortunately, these changes have not come fast enough to avoid serious political and economic problems. Today, Yugoslavia is going through a period of political upheaval and economic crisis that has generated concern in Washington and among our NATO allies.

A brief meeting and photo opportunity with President Bush would demonstrate high-level U.S. interest in Yugoslavia as Ambassador Zimmermann prepares to assume his duties in Belgrade.

Senator Pressler is looking for a way to change his vote on Tower but needs a couple of reassurances to do so and wants to meet today with General Scowcroft to discuss.

- (1) On Defense procurement reform: that we really, really need it and intend to do it.
- (2) The B-1 will be thoroughly fixed.

Senator Dole's office is sending Talking Points to Fred McClure -- to be fleshed out a little bit more. Ginny has asked that a copy be provided to you at the same time.

Dave Smith is the person who is working all this -- between Dole/Pressler/White House and between Pressler/Scowcroft.

FYI: Senator Dole called to speak with you at 10:45 am this morning; pressed to speak with Bob Gates in your absence. No doubt Bob will have more detail for you. I am still carrying Dole on your phone list.

MEETING WITH SENATOR PRESSLER

Suggested Talking Points

Defense Management

- Repeated statements by President Bush and Senator Tower demonstrate commitment to Defense management reform.
- After extensive consultation with Senator Tower and his new management team, President has directed conduct of two separate but related defense reviews: Defense Management and Defense Strategy.
- The Defense Management Review is now well underway and involves OSD, JCS, OMB and the NSC. It includes a review of personnel, organization, the planning process, internal procedures and government-industry relations.
- Senator Pressler has been shown the terms of reference for the Defense management review.
- Stress review, because President Bush and Senator Tower are committed not to write yet another study, but to develop specific measures to implement the (mostly common) findings of earlier studies (such as Packard Commission).
- Implementation is the key; Packard reforms were not implemented.
- President, Tower and I are committed to this.
- Will take time, but the culture of the building must be changed.
- Do not want just another study but specific measures for change. President will insist on accountability and daily attention and will make NSC the watchdog to make sure change happens.
- Tower is in full agreement.
- Don Atwood would be pleased to spend as much time as is needed reviewing Senator Pressler's concerns about management.

Strategy Review

- The second review covers strategy. The Defense Strategy Review provides for:
 - an assessment of our current posture,
 - a review of objectives and strategies for the future,
 - recommendations on force structure, including the ICBM modernization program, and
 - a broad assessment of the role of arms control in our overall strategy.
- The Strategy Review will be done through an interagency process under the chairmanship of the Department of Defense. Senator Tower has asked Paul Wolfowitz to chair this review.
- Tasking was signed by the President Saturday; the initial meeting is to be held tomorrow.

B-1 Program

- The recent accident at Ellsworth AFB, S.D. is indeed of concern, and the Air Force is taking action to minimize the possibility of similar mishaps.
- B-1 software and hardware are being improved to handle a precision instrument landing system (ILS).
- In the meantime a precision ground-controlled approach (GCA) system is being used at B-1 bases in poor weather. This is in effect at Ellsworth.
- The major problem with B-1 is the performance of its electronic counter-measures (ECM).
- Air Force has initiated a core program to make B-1 perform to its full capacity.
- Beyond the core program, the Air Force is proposing a radar warning indicator to warn the crew of electronic threats which are not covered by the core program.
- The "Core Program" is being paid for with expired funds and the Congressionally mandated $20.5 billion cap will not be exceeded by this program.
- The Radar Warning Receiver was not part of the original contract and will require new budget authority for FY 1990 - 1991; this will be above the $20.5 billion.
- To review, GCA for improved safety is already in place.
- ILS and ECM fixes will proceed apace, and will not be very costly.
- The Administration is committed to these.
- Naturally, the Air Force, SAC and Ellsworth AFB officials will continue to work with Senator Pressler and Rapid City area officials.
