NATIONAL ACADEMY OF SCIENCES
COMMITTEE ON INTERNATIONAL SECURITY AND ARMS CONTROL
2101 Constitution Avenue Washington, D.C. 20418

January 25, 1989

Mr. Robert Blackwill
Senior Director
European and Soviet Affairs
National Security Council
Old E.O.B.
Washington, D.C. 20506

W

Dear Mr. Blackwill:

I am writing to ask that I be considered for a position on the NSC staff where I can work on nuclear or conventional arms control, NATO or Soviet issues. Currently I direct the National Academy of Sciences Committee on International Security and Arms Control (CISAC). I would like now to move on from the Academy to a position in government where I can be more directly involved in the policy process.

For the past four years, I have staffed the NAS CISAC, which has been engaged primarily in biannual meetings on international security and arms control with a counterpart Soviet group currently chaired by Roald Sagdeev. CISAC has also undertaken studies for the State Department, conducted seminars for the NAS membership, and engaged in separate dialogues on international security matters with Chinese and European scientists. With the committee I have worked on issues related to nuclear, conventional, chemical and biological weapons and their control and broader issues of foreign policy and national security; liaised with officials in government agencies; met with Soviet scientists and academics and traveled regularly to the Soviet Union, using my Russian language skills; and interacted with distinguished members of the American scientific and professional defense policy communities. I hold a Top Secret clearance.

Prior to working at the NAS, I was a researcher and analyst on national defense at the Congressional Research Service, where I focused on arms control, Soviet policies, and US and Soviet defense programs. In pursuing my Masters degree in Russian Studies from the University of Michigan I concentrated on Soviet politics and foreign policy.

I have a deep interest in the content and conduct of foreign policy and hope to be involved in that process in this challenging time for the United States.

Thank you for your consideration in this very busy time.

Sincerely,

Lynn Rusten

Dear Mr. Blackwill:

If there is any way I can be of help to you in your work with the NSC, please let me know. I am extremely qualified in theatre balance and arms control issues. I have spent four years working on a database for the U.S. Government to support these subject areas. I have written two of the standard reference books (Armies of NATO's Central Front and Weapons and Tactics of the Soviet Army, both published by Jane's). I can offer political credentials and experience as well.

Please call me if there is anything further I can provide.

Sincerely,

LEGISLATIVE AND POLITICAL EXPERIENCE

From March, 1981 to August, 1984, I was Legislative Assistant to Congresswoman Bobbi Fiedler (R-CA). As a member of the House Budget Committee and representing a district with extensive aerospace and defense industry, Congresswoman Fiedler was involved in national security and foreign affairs matters. As a staff member, I participated in the process of policy formulation and governmental relations.

In Congresswoman Fiedler's campaign for the Senatorial nomination, in 1986, I provided briefings and background papers on foreign affairs and national security issues. I also helped in developing campaign initiatives and issues.

While a legislative assistant, my achievements included:

- participated in actions leading to reversal of a decision by the Secretary of the Navy to terminate the production of P-3C aircraft.
- initiated and drafted an amendment to the nuclear freeze bill, requiring Soviet compliance with previous international agreements be put at issue in any subsequent negotiations, which was passed by voice vote.
- establishment of the California Space and Defense Council, a coordinating group including Members of Congress from both parties and private industry.
- organized and coordinated with the Administration and other members of Congress, including Armed Services Committee members, Congressional opposition to deleting chemical warfare funding
- prepared defense portion of a proposed Republican alternative budget in fiscal years 1983 and 1984, calling for 6.7% and 6% real growth in defense, respectively.
- drafted legislation introduced by the Congresswoman on trade remedies and human rights.
- resolved problems between constituent firms and the government. This ranged from insuring that large scale production efforts from companies such as Bendix were included in Authorization bills to making sure two-person research firms received prompt progress payments,
- analyzed the transportation situation in Southern California as part of the opposition to the proposed Los Angeles subway project, which has led to investigations and reconsideration of the form of the project.

I also was responsible for the full range of legislative duties, including:

- analyzed and critiqued submissions and proposals during the budget process, including preparing the Congresswoman's strategy for national security issues.
- reviewed testimony given in the Budget Committee, accompanied the Congresswoman to hearings to support her activities and to prepare questions.
- monitored legislation and analyzed and researched bills for possible co-sponsorship.
- prepared extensive briefings and memoranda for the Congresswoman's use, as well as floor statements, speeches, letters, articles and responses for a wide range of activities.
- maintained a constant consideration of the political impact of potential actions by the Congresswoman.

NATIONAL SECURITY AND FOREIGN AFFAIRS EXPERIENCE

My knowledge in the field of national security and foreign affairs comes from a lifetime of study and research, including experience as a legislative assistant, in a think tank, and as an author and writer. I have lectured widely and appeared on radio and television.

Since February, 1985, I have been an analyst for the BDM Corporation, a consulting firm in McLean Virginia, dealing with national security issues. In this position, I have provided support for a number of U.S. government activities, mainly oriented towards conventional arms control, as well as taking part in simulations and in marketing and management.

RESEARCH AND PUBLICATIONS:

I have written several books and over 150 articles on national security and foreign affairs matters, including:

- an emphasis on the impact of changing technology on military forces
- extensive research on alternative force postures and strategies
- closely studying U.S. defense policies
- analyzing third world conflicts, especially the war in Afghanistan.
- My book Weapons and Tactics of the Soviet Army, published by Jane's, has become the standard open source reference volume on this subject as is its companion volume Armies of NATO Central Front. Russia's War In Afghanistan appeared in 1986, Ten Million Bayonets in 1988 and War in A Distant Country: Afghanistan, Invasion and Resistance will appear in 1989.
- I contributed to the Heritage Foundation's Mandate for Leadership, Jane's World Armour and Artillery, Armies of The World and other volumes as well as writing for journals such as International Defense Review, USA Today, Jane's Defense Weekly, Defense News, Defense Week, The Washington Times, and others.
- I was an editor of Strategy & Tactics magazine for nine years.
- I designed nineteen conflict simulation games and contributed to many more.

RECENT PRESENTATIONS:

As an acknowledged expert in the fields of national security and foreign affairs, I have frequently been called upon to discuss vital issues, with both general and specialist audiences. In the last year, I have appeared on national television news, on current affairs programs, radio news interviews, news analysis, and "phone-in" programs. Presentations have been at the U.S. Army War College, the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College, and The Marine Corps Amphibious Warfare School.

LEGAL EXPERIENCE

I practiced law in New York from January 1979 to March 1981 and I am admitted to practice in New York State and the District of Columbia. My experience includes immigration, litigation, and general business practice. I also have done some criminal defense work.

-- Litigation work included client contact, managing pre-trial work and research for two attorneys, preparing and briefing witnesses for trials and depositions, making motions and appearances before the court.

-- Research for two attorneys, dealing with questions of law and assisting in the drafting and review of appellate briefs.

-- Immigration work included determining the best strategy for a client under the Immigration laws, preparing the evidentiary and documentary support for immigration actions such as visas and adjustments in status, and in appearing in appellate proceedings before the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

-- Business practice was largely connected with setting up small businesses, mostly in the game business, as I was experienced and well known in that field. This included not only preparing incorporations, filings, organizations for these businesses, but developing financing arrangements as well.

EDITORIAL AND MANAGERIAL EXPERIENCE

I worked at Simulations Publications Inc. as assistant managing editor and copy editor from January 1970 to January 1979. SPI published Strategy & Tactics magazine - then the largest-circulation English-language military history and affairs magazine - and an extensive line of conflict simulations.

-- I managed the efforts of an editorial team of four people. This meant being responsible for turning a book, game, or issue of the magazine from ideas into print. I supervised the interaction of the art department, the typesetter, the people producing the copy. All of this had to be done within deadlines of three to six months and budgets in the $50,000-$100,000 range. Part of the management responsibilities included professional development of staff.

-- Up to four projects would normally be in progress concurrently. I allocated the resources I had responsibility for between different projects as required. This, in turn, affected the planned scheduling and required an involvement with formulating marketing policy.

-- As well as managing projects, I initiated, defined and developed them. This would include not only evaluating submitted material, but proposing ideas for magazine articles or games, and then setting the parameters for a feasible and economically sound project.

-- In addition, I prepared copy for publication and wrote two regular features: "For Your Eyes Only", a column of current defense-related news, and a book review column for Strategy & Tactics.

-- I designed 19 commercially published conflict simulations and developed and researched many others, giving me broad expertise in the field of conflict simulation. I have consulted on simulation design for Columbia University School of Business and worked with U.S. Army agencies on simulation contracts, including the Infantry School, Fort Benning and CATRADA, Fort Monroe.

MEMORANDUM FOR BRENT SCOWCROFT

FROM: ROBERT BLACKWILL RB
SUBJECT: Candidates for the NSC Staff

I am now ready to begin interviewing to fill the final two officer slots out of the total of seven officer and support positions you have allocated to my Directorate: an international economist to handle EC and East-West trade issues; and the best Germanist I can find who is also able to handle the job's operational requirements. A memo on candidates for the economic slot is at Tab I. At Tab II I have attached a memo on the German experts.
